Few See Hope for Success of His Effort to Form New Cabinet

Tardieu Refuses Assistance, But Briand Again Takes Foreign Affairs Post

PARIS, Feb. 20. (AP)—M. Camille Chautemps was commissioned to form a new government today and to bring France out of the Cabinet crisis caused by the downfall of the Tardieu Ministry but a general feeling of uncertainty about his chances prevailed in France tonight.

Though the Radical-Socialist leader announced that he was continuing his efforts to form a Ministry and would report to President Doumergue at 9:30 a.m., tomorrow, all except his immediate entourage believed he had undertaken a hopeless task.

The refusal of former Premier Tardieu to collaborate in it deprives Chautemps of the support of Moderates, Centrists and Rightists, obliging him to fall back on the Left groups exclusively.

BRIAND ACCEPTS POST

One bit of hope was the acceptance of the Foreign Affairs portfolio by Aristide Briand. Briand's impassioned oratory counts in debate and often swings votes, but his supporters are often emotional and unstable.

Observers in general prophesied tonight that even if M. Chautemps could get together sixteen ministers and eleven undersecretaries of state to present to President Doumergue he would not be able to carry a vote of confidence in the Chamber, and within a few days would fall.

In that case President Doumergue probably would call upon M. Briand, and afterward M. Poincare, both of whom are reported to have already expressed their convictions that M. Tardieu should be recalled to succeed himself.

TARDIEU'S STATEMENT

M. Tardieu's statement explaining his refusal to take part in a Chautemps Cabinet said that he is ready to "give his entire support to any government pursuing the defense of the French naval thesis unanimously approved by Parliament last December and presented at London by the preceding government."

He insisted, however, that neither the political events of the past three months nor the parliamentary situation resulting from Monday's vote would permit him to accept a collaboration which might be interpreted as disowning the majority in the Chamber of Deputies that had faithfully supported him at The Hague reparations conference and at the London naval conference.

Meanwhile the Bourse was quiet in face of the political uncertainty. The French 3 per cent bonds, which are the recognized barometer of the financial state of mind of Paris, held their own, and were quoted today at only a fraction below yesterday's level.

TWO KILLED IN FREAKISH AIR MISHAP

Army Planes Flying in Formation Plunge Into Potomac River

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—What is described as one of the most unusual air accidents in the history of the Flying Service today took the lives of Lieut. Joseph Leon Wolfe of Coeburn, Va., and Second Lieutenant William R. Osterlag of Columbia, Pa., Marine Corps aviators.

Persons who witnessed the crash said the two aviators were flying in formation with Wolfe leading, when both dived from a comparatively low height into the Potomac River near Quantico, Va., a short time after their take-off.

Officials at the field said there had been no collision in the air and that they were unable to account for the accident.

The bodies were pinned in the cockpits of the planes and were extricated with difficulty by a detail of marines.

Heavy Damage Reported to Fishing Ports Along Southern Newfoundland

ST. JOHN (N. F.) Feb. 20. (AP)—First word of a terrible southeast gale that caused three deaths and hundreds of thousands of dollars' damage in the fishing ports along the southwest coast of Newfoundland Sunday, reached here today.

The meager reports of extensive damage filtered in here with little more than general realization of heavy tolls.

La Maline reported the loss of three lives. Burgeo, on the Burgeo Islands, one of Newfoundland's most valuable fisheries and a rendezvous for artists, reported damage to shipping, dwellings, stores and fishing stages to the extent of $100,000. Burgeo is on the extreme southwest coast and has one of the finest harbors in that part of the country.

Bay Sargent, Little Bay, East Harbour, all situated at the foot of Fortune Bay, reported large damage to property, fishing boats and fishing stages.

The heavy damage has made communication impossible and only the most meager of reports were coming through today.

More Churches in Siberia Cease Their Services

OMSK (Siberia) Feb. 20. (AP)—Four additional churches in scattering villages near here were closed today and converted into schools and workers' clubs by the authorities.

The closings were made on the petitions of local peasants who joined the government's collective farms. With growth of the government's agricultural collective plan, there is a strong movement to abolish further churches.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—The Johnson bill to increase the appropriation for the government's constant frequency monitoring radio station at Grand Island, Neb., from $30,000 to $80,000, was reported favorably to the Senate today by its Commerce Committee.

Carlsbad Cave Explorers to Use Balloons

ROSWELL (N. M.) Feb. 20.—The Frank Earnest Nicholson party of eleven persons arrived here today from New York. They will go from here to Carlsbad, where they will establish a base for exploring uncharted recesses of the great caverns there.

"We may be sure of one thing at least," Mr. Nicholson said, "we are going where no man has gone before. We are expecting to find great and unusual things, and I am positive we will not be disappointed."

Collapsible rubber boats will be used in exploring an underground river, balloons will be used in lowering men from precipitous cliffs a thousand feet under ground to determine what lies at the bottom.

NEW TUBE CUTS COST OF POWER

Cheap Transmission for Long Distance Possible by Means of Thyratron

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20. (AP)—A recently perfected device which will make possible the cheap transmission of electric power from distant natural sources was described to scientists here last night by Dr. Albert W. Hull, assistant director of the research laboratories of the General Electric Company.

The device, Dr. Hull said, is called a thyratron. He described it as a refined and modified radio power vacuum tube, put to special power transmission uses. He said the new tube "inverts" alternating current into direct current, which is "stepped down" for commercial use. The only waste of current is said to be in the overcoming of the ordinary resistance of conducting wires and cables.

The use of the new tube, Dr. Hull said, will eliminate the necessity of elaborate insulation and ordinary high tension wires. The high direct voltages can be insulated for all practical purposes by lead and rubber and the lines could be laid in underground conduits without fear of induction losses.

Heretofore, Dr. Hull said, transmission of electric power has been impracticable at a distance of more than 200 miles because of induction losses and the need for an elaborate substation system.

JAPANESE SHIP RUNS AGROUND

Steamer Koshun Maru, Caught on Alaska Beach, Springs Two Leaks

SEATTLE, Feb. 20. (AP) — The steamship Koshun Maru went aground in Imak Pass, near Scotch Cape light on the Alaskan coast, at 12:30 p.m. today. The Washington-Alaska cable operator at Squaw Harbor informed the Seattle office to this effect tonight.

The ship is reported leaking in two holds in the forepeak. The message gives no details of the grounding or whether there are any passengers aboard the ship. The ship beached about 200 miles from Squaw Harbor, the message says.

The Koshun Maru is an Osaka Shoshen Kaisha vessel of 4271 gross tons. She was built by the Yokohoma Dock Company of Yokohama in 1927 and is a steel ship, 355.7 feet long, 48.5 feet wide and 32.5 feet deep. Osaka, Japan, is her home port.

NECKERS UPHELD BY JURY

Right of Wedded Pair to Pet—Even in Theater—Vindicated With $1250 Judgment

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. (AP)—The right of a man and his wife to be demonstratively affectionate in the gloom of a film theater has been given triumphant vindication by a Chicago jury.

Peter and Ruby Dogert, man and wife, had gone to the Crawford Theater and while there did engage in what has come to be known, even in courts of law, as necking. There is a certain group of citizenry which frowns on such things, and the first thing the Dogerts knew the management had passed the word along that the Dogerts must never darken the door of the theater again.

But they did darken it and demanded apology when a doorman gently but firmly prevented their entrance. There was no apology, the jury was told, and the Dogerts's money was returned to them—thrown at them, according to some of the testimony.

Mrs. Dogert sued the theater and got a judgment of $800, which was set aside. She sued again and yesterday the jury awarded her $1250.

The management professed itself unaware that Peter and Ruby were man and wife, but as far as that was concerned Peter and Ruby have even yet no definite information that the lovers of the screen, who neck in a big way for all to see, are married. Their attorney said as much.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (Exclusive) Albert Miller of Los Angeles receives $5000 of the estate of his late aunt, Mrs. Mina S. Weaver, under her will which was filed for probate here today. Mrs. Fannie Mitchell, a sister-in-law in the same city, receives 10 per cent of the residuary estate. Mrs. Weaver died in this city January 10, last, leaving an estate of more than $20,000, according to the petition for probate.

POWER-BODY SPONSORED

Hoover Enters Controversy

President Wants Permanent Commission Soon, He Tells Couzens

Present Group Declared to Lack Time for Handling Matters Properly

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—President Hoover took a hand in the Federal Power Commission controversy today by urging Senator Couzens, Republican of Michigan, to push legislation making the Power Commission a permanent body.

Mr. Hoover had Senator Couzens, who has been the leader in the Senate for a unified power commission with a supervisory control, as a guest for breakfast at the White House today and discussed the subject at length.

The President in his message to Congress recommended that a full time and permanent power commission, organized along the lines of the Interstate Commerce Commission, be created by legislation. He said that the present commission, which is composed of three Cabinet officers, had neither the time nor the power to control properly power matters.

AFFAIRS FURTHER AIRED

President Hoover told the Michigan Senator that the Power Commission as it is now constituted is of no particular value either as an advisory or as a regulatory body. Such being the case, it was said at the White House, the President desires early legislation to remedy a situation which in his opinion should receive prompt attention.

Meanwhile affairs and officials of the Power Commission today were further aired and attacked in the Senate.

F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the commission, was assailed after he had been questioned severely by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

Senator Norris, Republican of Nebraska, cited him in objecting unsuccessfully to confirmation of Hugh M. Tate of Knoxville, Tenn., as a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Declaring in the Senate that "attorneys or agents" of corporations should not be placed on regulatory bodies, the Nebraskan described Bonner as "a power man from head to foot, 100 per cent power trust."

STATEMENT ORDERED

"And yet he is the man who stands between the natural resources of this country and the power trust," the Senator continued. "He is absolutely unfit for the position and in reality is attorney for the power trust."

After often being accused of "dodging" questions, Bonner left the Senate investigating committee today with orders to prepare a detailed statement of applications before the commission, of time elapsed in negotiations and of instances of accounting objected to by the accounting department of the body.

Bonner said he would bring the material Monday and Senator Couzens continued the investigation until then. He also summoned O. C. Merrill, Bonner's predecessor as executive secretary.

Admitting that he called Charles A. Russell, solicitor for the commission, into conference to hear complaints by M. O. Leighton, who, he said, "represented power companies in contacts in the commission," Bonner added that he attempted to have Russell removed. He said that Russell, in his opinion, is overmeticulous.

PERSECUTION CHARGED

Bonner was allowed to read a prepared statement answering charges made against him by Russell and by William V. King, com-

AIR RECORDS CAPTURED

Shoenhair Gets Four More

Goodrich Pilot Sets Total of Six World Speed Marks in Florida

Beats England and France in Loaded Plane Tests; Craft Damaged

JACKSONVILLE (Fla.) Feb. 20. (AP)—Reeling off four new world records in quick succession today, Lee Shoenhair, chief pilot for the Goodrich Rubber Company of Akron, O., has succeeded in bringing back to America six speed marks for airplanes carrying added weight.

His records were for 1000-kilogram loads over 100, 500 and 1000 kilometers, and for 500 kilograms over 1000 kilometers, added to those he set here Tuesday with 500 kilograms over 100 and 500 kilometers to wrest the marks from England and France.

Further immediate attempts at several other speed records which Shoenhair had planned were postponed temporarily when he met with a slight accident in landing at the Municipal Airport following today's trials. Strained by the 2204 pounds of added weight, his white, streamlined monoplane, Miss Silvertown, nosed over when it struck soft dirt at the end of the runway, but the pilot escaped unhurt.

INJURIES SLIGHT

The propeller was bent and the cowling and streamlined shrouds that covered the wheels were slightly damaged. Repairs will be made within the next few days and Shoenhair said he may make assaults on other speed records.

Starting his trials shortly after dawn today, Shoenhair, former army pilot, skimmed along above the beach to establish a new record of 175.997 miles an hour over the 100-kilometer course with the added weight of 1000 kilograms. This exceeded by 15.71 miles an hour the former mark of 160.280 set by Capt. H. J. Broad of England on April 27, 1928.

Continuing his trials without stopping at the end of the first 100 kilometers, the pilot roared on to hang up a new record of 160.114 miles an hour for 500 kilometers with the same added weight. The previous record of 158.686 miles an hour also was held by Capt. Broad of England.

THROTTLES DOWN

His exhaust pipe blown off by the powerful explosions of the motor and his gasoline supply rapidly diminishing, Shoenhair throttled down over the last five laps of the course, but succeeded in setting up a new record over 1000 kilometers with a speed of 152.702 miles an hour. This bettered by 15.6 miles an hour the former mark of 137.198, established by Paillard and Camplain of France on December 23, 1928.

Despite the fact that he was carrying twice the load, Shoenhair also broke the 1000-kilometer course record for 500 kilograms at the same time he shattered the previous world's record for 1000 kilograms over the same distance. His new record for 500 kilograms over 1000 kilometers was 152.702 miles an hour, which surpassed by 6.042 miles an hour the previous mark of 146.660 set on May 14, 1926 by Fernand Lasne of France.

WINDOWLESS ERA VISIONED

Steel Men Told That Noiseless, Draftless Rooms With Artificial Sunlight Soon Will be Reality

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Windowless buildings and television that will send business executives "through wires or ether" to attend board meetings and make addresses are soon to be realities, Dr. Zay Jeffries told the members at the annual meeting of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers today.

Dr. Jeffries came from Cleveland to deliver the Howe memorial lecture on "The Future of American Iron and Steel Industry," and startled his colleagues by predicting for the near future buildings with no windows, lighted by artificial sunlight, ventilated artificially, with rooms completely inclosed and free from drafts, uneven temperatures and noises.

LIGHT TO SUPPLANT SUN

"These objections would be largely eliminated by dispensing with windows," Dr. Jeffries asserted. "This would permit cheaper construction and inclosed rooms would be cool in summer and warm in winter. Buildings could be of any desired size. The production of ultraviolet rays to simulate the health rays of the sun tends toward a new type of building construction."

In such buildings less steel would be used, and the amount of heat would be sufficiently less to reduce the amount of coal, which would in turn reduce the iron and steel requirements in the coal-mining and railroad industries, Dr. Jeffries pointed out. He sounded a warning that the iron and steel industry should strive to avoid large inventories of raw materials on its own stock and to overproduction during depression.

INDUSTRY INVENTORIED

He declared that the industry "involves the utilisation of about 900,000 persons, the payment of $1,400,000,000 in annual wages and salaries, the investment of $14,000,000,00, the mining annually of 70,000,000 tons of iron ore; 15,000,000 tons of limestone and 120,000,000 tons of coal. It results in the production of 40,000,000 tons of pig iron and 5,000,000 long tons of steel ingot." He predicted that in twenty years the iron production of the world would be at least ten times that of all nonferrous metals combined.

A report by John R. Freeman, Jr., and G. Willard Quick, Bureau of Standards experts, announced the discovery of a previously unknown source of "rail cancer," which is one of the worst causes of railroad wrecks. These cancers, invisible cracks inside the rails where slight strains occurred, leave minute weaknesses which may develop into rail cancers in the passing of heavy trains. The break in cooling is called "secondary brittleness" by Freeman and Quick.

The sessions which opened Monday ended tonight.

MYSTERY VEILS FEUDIST'S FATE

Mrs. Powell Vanishes Like Daughter Disappeared

Ex-Husband Now in Prison for Slaying Enemy

Bitter War of Families Has Thirty-Year History

UKIAH, Feb. 20. (AP)—Mrs. Hattie Powell, 75 years of age, one of the principals in the thirty-year-old Tracy-Patton feud, has vanished under circumstances similar to those surrounding the disappearance of her daughter, Mrs. Alice Means, fifteen years ago, Sheriff Byrnes was notified today by ranchers of the Spy Rock district.

Mrs. Powell was the key witness at the trial of her ex-husband, Horatio Patton, 70, who is serving a one-to-ten-year term for the killing of Edward Tracy in 1928. Tracy was the father of Clarence Tracy, owner of a ranch near the Patton property in the Spy Rock district.

DAUGHTER DISAPPEARED

Clarence Tracy was slain in 1915 by Mrs. Alice Means, Mrs. Powell's daughter, who was acquitted on the defense she shot to protect her husband.

Following her acquittal Mrs. Means disappeared, and it was rumored she was the victim of the bitter feud between the two families.

With the disappearance of Mrs. Powell those familiar with the details of the vendetta wondered whether she has also forfeited her life to the purported hatred of the Pattons by the Tracys. Although Sheriff Byrnes discredited such reports he announced he will institute a search for the woman tomorrow.

THIRTY YEARS' WAR

The Tracy-Patton feud began in 1900 when the latter family's hogs strayed into the Patton pastures. Ill feeling grew and culminated in the killing of Clarence Tracy and subsequently the fatal shooting of his father.

Sheriff Byrnes said he considered it possible that Mrs. Powell had become lost in the recent storm and perished in the cold.

WESTMINSTER DUKE WEDS

Marriage of Wealthy Briton and Miss Ponsonby Featured by Enthusiasm of Surging Crowd

LONDON, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—The Duke of Westminster, one of the wealthiest English property owners, and Miss Loelia Ponsonby, daughter of Sir Frederick Ponsonby, Keeper of the Privy Purse, were married today at the registrar's office in Prince Row, Mayfair. Mounted police were necessary to aid the regular force in restraining the large crowds that surged about the cars both before and after the ceremony.

The crowds included scores of the Duke's tenants, tenants whose enthusiasm had been whetted by the wedding gesture of their landlord in giving one week's rent free and in cancelling all arrears.

The ceremony was a simple one, though the number of friends invited made it necessary to shift part of the proceedings from Prince Row to the larger City of Westminster board rooms. Winston Churchill, fromer Chancellor of the Exchequer, was one of the witnesses, the others being Lady Ursula Filmer-Sankey, daughter of the Duke by his first marriage, G. G. Clowes and Delmar Blow.

As the bride, accompanied by her father, did not reach the office in Prince Row until half an hour after the Duke had arrived, the mounted police were required to clear a way for the Ponsonby automobile and those following. An inkstand, an heirloom in the family for many generations, was brought from Eaton Hall, Cheshire, the Duke's country home, to be used for the signing of the certificate, and was left with the registrar as a memento of the occasion.

The crowd at the ceremony was duplicated at St. James' Palace, where Sir Arthur Ponsonby has his residence, the party returning there after the marriage. Almost immediately thereafter the Duke and Duchess drove to Westminster Pier and entered a speed boat, which the Duke piloted at forty miles an hour down the Thames to his yacht, the Cutty Sark. A wedding breakfast was served aboard the yacht after which the Cutty Sark weighed anchor for a Mediterranean cruise.

Woman Killed in Seattle Gale

SEATTLE, Feb. 20. (AP)—One woman was killed as she was leaving St. James Cathedral here today and severe damage was done in the city and along Puget Sound by southwesterly gales.

Mrs. Teresa Corr, 40 years of age, was caught by a strong gust of wind and hurled down twenty stone steps.

Wave of Disease in Sonora Denied

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 20. (AP)—A dispatch from Hermosillo to Excelsior today quoted Gov. Francisco Elias of Sonora as saying there had been only seven deaths in the entire State from cerebrospinal meningitis. He denied previous reports to the Department of Public Health that ninety-four persons had died of the disease at Cumpas, Son., alone.

OAKLAND, Feb. 20. (AP)—Charging desertion, Sidney Coe Howard, playwright, filed suit for divorce in Superior Court here today against Clare Eames Howard, actress, member of a prominent Cleveland family. The complaint brings an end to a romance which had its inception nine years ago when Miss Eames, niece of the prima donna of a decade ago, starred in Howard's production "Swords."

In the complaint Howard states his wife deserted him November 8, 1928. He asks for the custody of their 4-year-old daughter, and states a settlement covering community property has been made out of court. Howard married Miss Eames June 1, 1922. In 1925 he won the annual Pulitzer prize for the most original play during the year. The play was "They Knew What They Wanted."

Reports Denied That Portugal Faces Revolt

LISBON (Portugal) Feb. 20. (AP)—Following closely a laconic denial by the police that a revolution is threatening in Portugal, the ministers of the interior and of war issued reassuring statements today which greatly relieved public anxiety.

After urging the nation to ignore false reports spread by enemies, the ministers asked the population to have confidence in the dictatorship which possesses the means to ward off a Monarchist restoration or a coup d'etat by the Democrats.

Goodall Will Contest Filed

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Contest in the $400,000 estate of Capt. Harry W. Goodall of Montecito, who died the 2nd inst. at Long Beach, was filed in the Superior Court today by Reginald Bland of Pasadena, a nephew who was left $1 in Goodall's will.

Bland asserts Goodall was of unsound mind when he wrote the document and that he was unduly influenced by his widow, Mrs. Edwin A. Maxine Goodall, and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin T. Cooper. Bulk of the estate was left to the widow, Cooper and his wife receiving $40,000 each.

FOX MAKES PLEA FOR PLAN

Film Magnate Asks Support of Stockholders in Fight Against Receivership

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—In a long personal plea to stockholders of the Fox Film and Fox Theaters corporations, William Fox, president of both, today asked support for the recapitalization plan offered by the New York banking group and approved by the Fox directors. A negative vote on this proposal by the shareholders, he said, would in effect be a vote for receivership.

The stockholders meet on March 5, next, to act upon the refinancing plan, under which it is proposed to raise $80,000,000 to meet imminent obligations.

Fox asserted that he was making "every personal sacrifice" to safeguard the stockholders' interests, reiterating that he is placing entire control and voting power in the hands of three voting trustees selected by the bankers who would finance the recapitalization, Fox added:

"I have surrendered all control and voting rights of my stock. I am willing, if so desired by the new management, and am anxious, to devote the rest of my life to the further upbuilding and expansion of these great businesses, which I know can be accomplished, but have not reserved to myself any contract for services and am placing my fate in the hands of the new managements until the $59,150,000 (the obligations) has been fully paid."

The statement referred at length to what Fox termed the effort to destroy his life work and reputation and to "poison" the stockholders' minds against him.

In asking for proxies to vote in favor of the bankers' plan, Fox wrote:

"Unless the stockholders affirmatively approve the plan by actual vote it will be lost so that you must now cast your lot as between this plan and receivership. If you fail to vote in person or by proxy you are in effect voting for a receivership."

The letter discusses in some detail the Fox companies' relationship with Halsey, Stuart & Co. and asserts that the rehabilitation proposal brought forward by that banking house is "a mere gesture for the purpose of forcing these properties into receivership because these gentlemen find themselves unable to control it."

WETS ASSAIL DRY LAW ILLS

Varied Array of Witnesses United in Denunciation

Further Testimony Slated for Next Wednesday

all of their witnesses today and Chairman Graham granted them next Wednesday in which to complete their argument. After that, proponents of the Eighteenth Amendment will be heard.

HUNDREDS READY TO AID

Representative Linthicum, Democrat, Maryland, leader of the House wet bloc, who is in charge of the wet witnesses, said that hundreds of prominent people have requested an opportunity to appear in support of repeal.

"We could present witnesses indefinitely," the Marylander said, "but I am afraid we will have to end our argument next Wednesday."

While the hearing was in progress, Representative Luce, Republican, Massachusetts, said in the House that the testimony of Walter W. Liggett, Washington magazine writer, before the Judiciary Committee last week on conditions in Massachusetts, was a "foul and vicious libel on the city of Boston." He received unanimous consent of the House to file in the Congressional Record a report from a Federal Grand Jury in Boston which he said proves that no charge made by Liggett is capable of being sustained.

EVIDENCE READY

Over in the Senate, Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, announced that he will be prepared to lay before the Senate Judiciary Committee next Monday evidence on enforcement of prohibition in event preliminary hearings on his measure to investigate enforcement are undertaken. He will be satisfied merely to lay the evidence before the group, he explained.

All the witnesses before the House Judiciary Committee testified that bootleg liquor is readily found in their cities and disregard for the liquor law is general and outright.

Dr. Church said there is a "welling wave of evidence on hand that in the opinion of many millions of the American people prohibition, after ten years of trial, is unenforceable because it is opposed by the popular will; that it is a social and legal failure, and that it has resulted in an increase of intemperance, corruption and crime."

DICTATION CHARGED

"When we seek to uncover the forces which oppose a constructive policy of adjustment we find that there are some twenty religious organizations," he asserted, "which have presumed to exercise dictatorial powers in the realm of law making.

"Among these societies is the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Morals, its most influential voice that of a medieval ecclesiastic who is put forward as a pattern of public morals, although recently exposed as a bucket shop gambler, but pausing in his travels last week long enough to cable from Europe his instructions to amend the existing law so that every man who takes a drink shall go to prison."

NEW PARTY URGED

He raised the contention that the Republican and Democratic parties virtually have become amalgamated into "one immense prohibition party," and declared a new political party should be formed to seek repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

It also should dedicate itself, he said, to divorcing "the government from every form of religious dictation; reject every law that rests on a religious basis; seek the dissolution of every society that aims to subordinate any portion of our citizenship because of race or creed; and banish from Washington every hypocritical preacher who comes here demanding a law that shall make the morals and manners of other people as good as his own."

Coudert said that if there were a sincere effort made to enforce prohibition, between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 persons would have to be jailed for violation or civil war would result.

NULLIFICATION HELD FACT

Former Senator Williams said nullification is a fact to be observed and not discussed in his section, St. Louis county, and that large alcohol manufacturers have been hiring men to go to jail for them when convicted for prohibition violations.

Williams added the people disregard the prohibition law because they feel they were not considered when it was adopted and approved by the State legislatures rather than by themselves.

Cleveland was described by Crowell, a war-time assistant Secretary of War, as overwhelmingly wet. He said a swing against prohibition has grown steadily since it was given its initial trial. The people believe, he added, that evils brought about by prohibition are worse than those which brought prohibition about.

"TEMPERANCE IMPEDED"

Shaw, who is general counsel for a number of large concerns, said the prohibition laws have impeded temperance and as a result drinking to excess is expected in mixed parties and is not considered opprobrious. He went on to say that everyone knows that the law is flagrantly violated all over the country, both in cities and villages, by people of all ranks and classes in society.

Chenery said that Collier's Magazine has had a survey made of the liquor situation throughout the country and has found that liquor of a poor quality can be obtained any place where a person has the price. He said that a great crime wave and a powerful underworld has developed as a result of the dry laws and that the rural districts have shown more ingenuity than the cities in devising means of law evasion.

CRUSADERS' PLAN

As an organizer of the "Crusaders," Clark said the members are determined to "substitute real temperance for prohibition intemperance." He said that while the "Crusaders" is a young organization, it has more than 50,000 members and is constantly increasing.

Asserting that beyond the slightest doubt sentiment against prohibition has been growing steadily for the past eight years, former Representative Phillips said his observations lead him to believe that drinking is becoming more general and that yearly a new set of hard liquor drinkers is produced.

Eppley, scientist, said Rhode Island is opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment, as has been shown by a survey conducted by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

ABOARD THE BARK CITY OF NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—For the past thirty hours since leaving the barrier the City of New York, carrying the Byrd expedition, has been steaming steadily toward New Zealand and home. We have followed the Ross ice barrier as far as Discovery Inlet, taking our departure from that point, and by noon today had reached a position about fifty miles northwest of Discovery Inlet.

During the night the ship passed through an area of slush and new pancake ice, and probably just got out in time. By morning all this had been passed. We are now making good time, though at present a light head wind has sprung up which prevents using of sail. Since leaving the barrier a steady rise in temperature has been noted.

GALLOWS READY FOR MRS. DUGAN

Hanging at Arizona Prison Set for This Morning

Eleventh-Hour Endeavor to Escape Noose Fails

Octogenarian Father Still Believes Her Innocent

FLORENCE (Ariz.) Feb. 20. (AP)—Mrs. Eva Dugan, mother of two, was prepared tonight to keep her appointment with death tomorrow morning on the gallows at the State prison here.

The 52-year-old condemned slayer of the recluse for whom she had acted as housekeeper, received her last bad "break" this afternoon in her eleventh-hour attempt to escape hanging when State Attorney-General Peterson ruled that an appeal filed by her counsel with the Supreme Court would not affect the carrying out of the extreme penalty.

Her attorneys had appealed from the decision of a sanity hearing that ended yesterday. Last-minute efforts to obtain a reprieve today from the State Board of Pardons and Paroles were futile.

FINAL PREPARATIONS

Mrs. Dugan's final preparations for death were simple. The packing of her wardrobe trunk and suitcase, orders to Warden Wright of the prison to send the things to a sister, Mrs. Ruth Patterson of Weston, Mo., and the last tidying up of her cell.

"It's just as I found it, this room of mine," she said when the housecleaning was finished. Then she offered packages of cigarettes from a full carton to visitors. "I can't smoke them after tomorrow morning," she smiled.

READY FOR END

Asked what final statement she might make on the death trap in the morning, Mrs. Dugan said "I'll have nothing to say but good-by. I'm going to show the world that I can take it."

She disclosed tonight for the first time the name of her daughter, Mrs. Cecil Loveless, believed to be living at the Lincoln Hotel, New York City.

Mrs. Dugan was to be taken to the condemned cell under the execution chamber late tonight. Three men there, awaiting execution, will be moved out.

Mrs. Dugan will be buried in the little prison graveyard southeast of the tall penitentiary walls.

PARENT CONVINCED AS TO HER INNOCENCE

MODESTO, Feb. 20. (AP)—William McDaniels of Ceres, 82-year-old father of Eva Dugan, sentenced to hang at Florence, Ariz., is convinced his daughter is innocent. He also believes her sane.

"I believe in capital punishment," McDaniels, enfeebled and scarcely able to walk, said today. "If she killed Mathis she should hang, but I know she did not. She was convicted on circumstantial evidence and prejudice."

The last letter McDaniels received from his daughter came yesterday. It read:

"Dear Papa:

"Well, the parole board handed down their decision this afternoon that I must die on Friday, and I am sick and don't care much. My lawyer is going to have a trial and see if I am insane or sane this week.

"Don't grieve, Papa, we'll meet in a better world. They'll bury me down in Florence . . . not a scratch of a pen from anybody.

"I hope you will live a long time yet, Papa.

"They have locked me up and put a guard over me. Answer soon . . . or it will be too late.

"Love,

"EVA."

DAUGHTER WIRES FOR MOTHER TO BE BRAVE

FLORENCE (Ariz.) Feb. 20. (AP)—Mrs. Eva Dugan tonight announced receipt of a telegram from her daughter, Mrs. Cecil Loveless.

The message, urging Mrs. Dugan to be brave, was dated from South Bend, Ind. The condemned woman said the last word she had heard from the daughter was from New York City. The telegram follows:

"Dear Mother: Be brave, God is with you. All my love. I will pray for you always.

"CECIL."

The condemned woman expressed a wish to have her 82-year-old father, William McDaniels of Ceres, Cal., to be with her tonight.

YOUTH ADMITS NINE MURDERS

Modern Borgia Poisoned His Victims on Impulse

Trail of Crimes Leads Half Way Around World

Detroit Police Hold Killer on New York Charge

DETROIT, Feb. 20. (AP)—Confessing he had killed eight men with poison and a ninth with a revolver, James Baker, 25 years of age, was held here tonight for New York police, who have sought him for more than a year on a charge of murder.

Baker was arrested last night on a farm near Farmington, a suburb. He had lived there for nearly a year. Informers tipped off Detroit police yesterday they believed Baker was a fugitive. His arrest followed. He talked freely, almost boastfully, of his exploits.

The list of Baker's victims as assembled from his confession shows a trail of death extending from Bombay, India, to Hamburg, Germany, more than half way around the globe.

DESCRIPTION TALLIES

Specifically, Baker is wanted in connection with the poisoning in New York, December 28, 1928, of Henry S. Gaw, a night watchman at the Guggenheim laboratory where Baker also was employed. The description furnished Detroit authorities by New York police is said to tally with Baker's appearance even to some peculiar tatoo marks on his right forearm.

Baker's confession was received almost incredulously by Detroit authorities. He calmly informed them he poisoned his victims because he wanted to witness the effects of the various poisons and because deaths of human beings gave him "a funny sort of mental satisfaction."

Baker said he was born and received his early education at Warren, O. He left there when 16 and shipped on a freighter. It was during his cruises, he said, that most of his poisonings were committed. While a sailor on the tanker Gulfport, bound for Venezuela out of Bayonne, N. J., late in 1927, Baker said he had poisoned the entire crew, three of whom died.

INTERESTED IN POISON

"I was always interested in poisons and usually carried some around with me," Baker said. "In 1924, I was in Houston, Tex. I happened into a sailors' restaurant and sat down beside a man. He had a cup of coffee in front of him. While he was looking away I had a sudden impulse to put some poison in his coffee. He died almost at once. I learned afterward that his name was Honeycut."

Houston authorities have been unable to find a report of the death of a man by that name.

It was after this experience, Baker said, that he became subject to unexpected impulses to poison other persons. "No one in particular, but just anyone who happened to be near," he said.

The impulse moved him in Hamburg in 1926, and he said he poisoned a man there. In 1927, he said, he poisoned a Hindu in Bombay, India, while during the spring of 1928, he killed a man by poison while at Iloilo, a small seaport town on Panay Island, one of the Philippine group.

JOB AT LABORATORY

Returning to the United States soon after, Baker said he went to work for the Guggenheim laboratory in New York. He hoped he would be sent to South America by the company but when he found he was not to have the opportunity he said he left.

"I went to the laboratory after midnight on December 27, 1928," Baker said in his confession. "There was a new watchman there but he let me in. He was drinking some coffee and I put some poison in it when he wasn't looking. He drank it. I stayed there until he was dead.

"When I started to leave two truck drivers came to the laboratory. I recognized them and let them in. Then I held them up and tied them. I was going to kill them but one of them said he had a wife and some small children, so I took their money and left. I caught a subway train for Jersey City. In the spring I came to Detroit and got the job on the farm."

Detective Harry Schouw, one of the officers who arrested Baker, said Baker also had confessed shooting and killing his stepfather, Cyril Parks, on a farm near Warren, O., seven years ago.

New York police were reported here as taking steps to definitely identify Baker preparatory to his extradition.

Decision in Suit of Actress on Film Delayed

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Federal Judge Coleman today reserved decision in the trial of the suit brought by Valeska Suratt, actress and scenario writer, against Will H. Hays and the Producers' Distributing Corporation.

The Hon. Clairine Wilson

OTTAWA, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—With the appointment of Mrs. Clairine Wilson to the Canadian Senate, women of this country today feel that their long fight for a representative of their sex in Parliament has not been in vain. Mrs. Wilson's appointment followed a decision of Privy Council that, constitutionally, women are "eligible persons."

Mrs. Wilson is the wife of Norman F. Wilson of this city and is the mother of eight children. She is the daughter of the late Senator Robert MacKay of Montreal.

NORRIS ASKS ELECTIONS FUND QUIZ

Resolution of Nebraskan Calls for Inquiries on Senatorial Expenditures

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Appointment of a Senate committee to investigate campaign expenditures of Senatorial candidates in the approaching primaries and election was proposed in a resolution introduced today by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska.

The resolution was referred to the Senate Elections Committee for consideration. It called for a far-reaching examination into the expenditures and "influences" employed in the Senatorial primaries and conventions. Senators up for re-election this year would be barred from membership on the committee, which is to be named by the Vice-President.

Senator Norris is a candidate for re-election. So is Senator Borah of Idaho, another leader of the western Republican independents, and Senator Walsh of Montana, acting Democratic leader.

A similar committee was named four years ago and on the basis of its reports of expenditures in Pennsylvania and Illinois the Senate refused to seat Frank L. Smith of Illinois and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, both Republicans and certified as having been elected to the Senate.

FITTS-WRIGHT CASE DECIDED

Supreme Court Holds Both Duly Elected

Mattoon Suit for Ballot Boxes Rejected

State Law Controls Over County Charters

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—The State Supreme Court wrote the last chapter today in the Fitts-Wright election controversy at Los Angeles by a decision which holds the laws of the State of California take precedence over county charters. In the particular point at issue the decision means that elective officers who receive a majority of all votes cast at a primary election are duly elected to that office and need not run again at the general election nor need their names appear on the general election ballot. This settles, for once and all, it is believed, the legality of the election of Buron Fitts as District Attorney and of Henry Wright as Supervisor.

Specifically, the court denied a petition filed by County Counsel Mattoon which sought rehearing of the court's previous denial of an alternative writ of mandate to County Registrar Kerr which would have forced H. E. Russell, county purchasing agent, to provide 500 additional ballot boxes at the next election.

The legality of the elections of Fitts and Wright was bound up in the case.

Contrary to its usual procedure in denying a writ or rehearing, the Supreme Court went to some length today to explain its reasons for the refusal, with the statement that it wished to see the situation clarified.

"In order to set at rest the question sought to be presented herein," the decision reads, "it should now be stated that the petition is without merit. It has always been the policy of our law to preserve uniformity throughout the State as to the time for the election of elective county officers.

SECTIONS CITED

"Sec. 2 3-4 of Art. II of the Constitution preserves that uniformity and provides for the election at the primary elections of nonpartisan county officers who receive votes on a majority of all the ballots cast for such officers. This is a general provision, is applicable throughout the State and is self-executing.

"Sec. 7½ of Art. XI prescribes how and in what manner county freeholders' charters may be adopted. It is therein provided: 'All elective officers of counties shall be nominated and elected in the manner provided by general laws for the nomination and election of such officers.'"

The opinion then cites the sentences in the Constitution which contain the possibility of controversial interpretation and concludes:

CONSTITUTION GOVERNS

"The special provision of Sec. 7½ of Art. XI must, therefore, be controlling over the last sentence of Sec. 2 3-4 of Art. II, which is general in its nature.

"Also any provision of the Los Angeles county charter which is inconsistent with the controlling portion of Sec. 2 3-4 of Art. II of the Constitution must be governed by the latter. Consequently said Sec. 2 3-4 has operated since its adoption in November, 1926, so as to provide for the election of nonpartisan county officers of Los Angeles county at the primary election, and the names of such officers so elected in 1928 were not required to be placed on the ballot at the succeeding general election."

JUDGMENT ENTERED AGAINST FOX FILMS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Judgment for $168,392 was entered in the Supreme Court today against the Fox Film Corporation by the Manufacturers' Trust Company, as the balance due on two notes of $125,000 each. The notes were payable last month. One note is dated October 21, 1929, and payable January 21, last, and the other October 28 and payable January 28.

BILL COMPLETE ON FARM TARIFF

Schedule for Agriculture Highest in History

Efforts Made to Meet With Pleasure of Hoover

Proposed Bread Duty Raises Bitter Senate Row

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—The Senate completed revision of the tariff bill's farm rates today and made certain that the bill to be sent to the White House will carry the highest agricultural schedule in history.

Since both parties are in accord with President Hoover on the need of farm relief, through the tariff, there is every indication that no differences will arise in conference on this score.

Seven additional increases in farm rates were put through today. Four more were turned down after warnings came from both Democrats and Republican Independents that to place in the bill higher levies which obviously were unjustified would only strengthen the President's stand against the debenture plan.

CAUTION SOUND

Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, cautioned that increases in duties on products on a heavy export basis will make the debenture rates so high that the administration's opposition to the debenture will be augmented.

Under the debenture plan incorporated in the bill by the coalition, farmers would be paid out of the Treasury half the tariff on any product they exported.

Senator Blaine, Republican Independent, Wisconsin, expressed a hope that the debenture will be retained, but warned against unjustifiable farm duties that will give the President "excuses to veto the bill."

"I feel it very keenly," he said, "that if we run wild in increases where no justification is warranted, we will create a condition that will give the President the very excuse that will justify him in disapproving the bill."

The increases approved were on almonds of all kinds, vegetable oil cake and oil cake meal, sweet clover, crimson clover, alsike clover and mustard seed and crude horse radish.

ASK BREAD TARIFF

The almond rates approved were those carried in the bill and represented a compromise between higher levies, proposed by Senator Shortridge, Republican, California, and present duties favored by Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York. The bill rates are 5½ cents a pound on unshelled, compared with a present duty of 4 3-4 cents; 16½ cents on shelled, compared with 14 cents; 18½ cents on preserved almonds and almond substitutes, compared with 35 per cent ad valorem, and 18½ cents on almond paste, compared with 14 cents.

Senator Frazier, Republican-Independent, North Dakota, after losing an amendment to raise the duty on timothy seed from 2 to 3 cents a pound, drew the most heated protest by proposing a duty on bread, now on the free list.

"I never thought," shouted Senator Walsh, Democrat, Massachusetts, "that I would see a tariff seriously proposed on bread, the staff of life. It shows how mad and drunk we have become. Isn't there any limit to our greed?—to put a tax even on the crumbs for the poor."

Brookhart replied that bread consumers are in sympathy with the farmers and willing to "help them with this tax." But after Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, observed that no farmer has asked him for a bread tariff, the matter was dropped.

The bill as it now stands carries higher rates all along the line on all forms of agriculture—dairy, cattle, grain, fruits, vegetables, fish, nuts, poultry, horticulture and seed of all varieties.

LAND PROTECTION FAVORED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—The Johnson bill to authorize the Interior Department to investigate conditions in the Palo Verde and Cibola valleys to determine how best to protect the lands from damage by overflow and seepage was reported today by the Senate Commerce Committee.

EVICTED MOTHER SAVES HIS LIFE

Son Found Unconscious From Gas as Woman Breaks Into Locked Home

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. (AP)—The 75-year-old mother he evicted saved Louis Friedman's life last night.

Friedman was fined $200 a week ago for evicting his mother from her home. Last night Mrs. Friedman, returning from a walk, found the doors and windows locked. She believed she had been barred again. Calling a son-in-law, who broke in a window, they found Friedman unconscious on the floor of a gas-filled kitchen.

He was revived several hours later.

ARCTIC YIELDS EIELSON'S BODY

Missing Flyer Located Near Scene of Wreckage

Both Aviators' Remains to be Returned to America

Hardships Encountered by Crew of Rescuers

MOTORSHIP NANUK (North Cape, Siberia) Feb. 20. (AP)—(Via Point Barrow, Alaska.) The frozen lagoon ninety miles southeast of here, where the Eielson-Borland plane crashed November 9, yielded up its second body Tuesday, that of Pilot Carl Ben Eielson. The body of Mechanic Earl Borland, his companion on the ill-fated flight from Teller, Alaska, to North Cape, was found last Thursday.

Word of the finding of Eielson's body was brought back here yesterday by Pilot Harold Gillam, who had flown to the lagoon to check up on the progress of the search. The body was found on a slight mound 200 feet from the broken fuselage, and about 150 feet from where Borland was discovered. The plane had been scattered over a wide area by the force of its impact with the earth. Eielson's body had evidently been hurled through the air when the cockpit and motor were torn from the plane. Both flyers had died instalty, Gillam declared.

BODY NEARLY BARE

While Borland was found under a covering of five feet of ice and snow only a light covering of snow concealed the body of Eielson from view, as the Arctic winds had nearly swept his resting place bare.

The bodies were placed in the cabin of the Junkers plane, flown to the wreck by Commander Slipenov, who was in charge of workmen from the Russian ship Stavropol, ice bound near the Nanuk. Slipenov returned here yesterday with Gillam and was scheduled to fly back again to the wreck with additional gasoline, so that the Junkers plane with the remains of the flyers can be flown here as soon as possible. The Russian plane was low in gasoline, as much of its supply had been used in cooking and for heating purposes by the crew at the wreck, which had mounted to twenty-two men by the time the second body was found.

BODIES TO BE RETURNED

After the bodies are brought here it is planned to take them to the Alaskan mainland as early as weather conditions will permit. They will be taken to Fairbanks by plane and from there by rail and steamer to Seattle.

Ole Eielson, father of the 32-year-old pilot, is now at Fairbanks waiting to receive the body of his son and take it back to Hatton, N. D., the family home, for burial. Borland, 28-year-old mechanic, will be buried at Seattle, the home of his parents. His widow and two small sons live at Fairbanks and will accompany the body to Seattle, she has announced.

Eielson and Borland were engaged in transporting passengers and furs from the Nanuk to Nome, Alaska, when lost. Accompanied by Frank Dorbandt, they had made one trip, taking six passengers and a quantity of furs to Nome. In the second take-off Dorbandt returned to Teller, their base, after a short flight, on account of adverse weather, while Eielson continued. Neither he nor Borland was ever seen alive again.

MUCH BAD LUCK

Repeated efforts were made to go in search of the missing men, but each was frustrated either by the weather or by accidents to planes, until late in December when Pilots Harold Gillam and Joe Crosson succeeded in reaching the Nanuk. Meanwhile three planes were sent north on the Coast Guard cutter Chelan, with a complement of Canadian aviators, to aid in the search. One of these planes was cracked up in an attempted take-off and the two remaining were finally flown to Nome. Before either of them reached North Cape, however, Gillam and Crosson had located the wreckage on January 25.

Workmen were immediately dispatched to the scene from North Cape, most of the men being from the ship Stavropol, to begin the search for the bodies. Their labors were frequently interrupted by storms, but they persevered in the face of difficulties and finally discovered the objectives of their search.

PLANE SCATTERED

The quest was rendered extremely difficult because the plane had been scattered over a wide area by the force of its impact with the earth. The motor, near which Borland's body was found, was thrown 100 feet from the fuselage, while one wing was found 200 feet from the rest of the plane. Constantly recurring Arctic storms had nearly concealed the wreckage from view. The tip of one wing extending above the snow led to the discovery of the wreck.

American members of the relief expedition expressed high praise for the aid the Russians have given them. Had it not been for the splendid co-operation of the Russian detachment under Commander Slipenov it would have been impossible to have located the bodies until next spring, they declared.

A message was sent to President Kemeneff of the Arctic Commission at Moscow requesting permission for Commander Slipenov to accompany the bodies to Fairbanks.

RUSSIAN FLYERS GET PERMIT TO ESCORT BODIES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Dan A. Sutherland, Congressional Delegate from Alaska, announced today the State Department has approved a request that Russian aviators be permitted to escort the bodies of the aviators, Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, from the spot in Siberia where they were found to Fairbanks, Alaska.

Sutherland took to the State Department a request from Mayor De La Vergne of Fairbanks, Alaska, that Commander Slitonov and his mechanic of the Russian Junker plane be permitted to escort the American aviators from Siberia, where their bodies were discovered.

He said the department gave its "unqualified approval." The United States has never recognized the soviet government and, therefore, the permission was deemed necessary.

AUTOMATIC PILOT USED IN GERMANY

Apparatus Keeps Plane on Straight Line or Curves in Foggy Weather

[Copyright, 1930, by the New York Times]

BERLIN, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Ernest Brandenburg, head of the Reich's aviation department, rereceived quite a shock the other day when riding in a Junkers plane. The pilot suddenly left his seat and entered the passengers' cabin to report the machine was doing well and could be left alone.

The pilot was Capt. H. Boykow, formerly of the German naval air forces and inventor of a stabilizer called the "automatic pilot." He reassured Brandenburg that the plane which was fitted with his invention could safely fly for hundreds of kilometers without anyone at the wheel. After the plane had flown automatically for a half-hour, the pilot resumed his place and landed easily.

A few days earlier the apparatus had been tested by a German experimental station for aviation in foggy and stormy weather when regular air traffic had been stopped. A plane was able to fly on a straight line as well as curves with the greatest accuracy.

Father Must Pay in Slaying by Daughter

JACKSON (Miss.) Feb. 20. (AP)—Gov. Bilbo announced today that T. G. Gunter must return to the State penitentiary to complete a five-year sentence for a killing which his daughter, Mrs. Pearl Drew, has confessed.

The sentence was suspended after Mrs. Drew admitted last November that she slew her husband, Marland Drew. She said she permitted her father to go to prison after his conviction because she was an expectant mother. Two weeks after the birth of the child she confessed the slaying.

Mrs. Drew pleaded guilty to manslaughter recently at Ashland and her sentence was deferred by Judge Pegram.

The Seat
nobody would sit in

ACTUALLY, his case was so bad that even when the car was crowded, the seat beside his was vacant. People simply wouldn't sit next to him. And he wondered why he didn't get anywhere, socially or in business.

Do you Offend? Probably

The only one who doesn't realize that he or she has halitosis (unpleasant breath) is the victim. Social ostracism follows. Don't fool yourself that you are always free of halitosis. That is folly. Surveys show 1 person out of 3 is a victim—due to the fact that the mouth is the constant scene of germ activities, some of which result in bad breath.

Don't take a chance

Keep yourself ever free of halitosis by the systematic and frequent use of full strength Listerine as a mouth wash.

Though safe and pleasant, full strength Listerine is an active germicide* which immediately attacks the cause of odors and then, being a powerful deodorant, destroys the odors themselves.

RADIO CALLED VITAL IN FLYING

Young Hoover Says it Will be Required by Law

Wireless Weaves Safety Net Around Air Lines

Interference in Motors Now Greatest Obstacle

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 20. (AP)—Herbert Hoover, Jr., today predicted that radio, knitting an invisible net of safety around air transportation, will be required of aviation lines by law.

The President's son, Western Air Express radio engineer, indicated that civil aeronautics is ready for at least one part of the proposed Department of Commerce regulations requiring transport operators to lay and make use of what the railroader would call "air tracks."

EQUIPMENT AVAILABLE

"Equipment is now available," he said before the Society of Automotive Engineers, meeting at the international aircraft exposition, "that fulfills the needs of commercial air transportation.

"It will probably be only a matter of months before the government will require the use of reliable radio, the fullest use of which is essential to the continued success of air transportation.

"Airplane radio development has occurred within a year and work is being rapidly pushed on additional radio devices to aid in navigation and communication."

INTERFERENCE MUST END

Future success of airplane radio, he said, depends on manufacturers of motors and ships eliminating ignition interference, "the one thing that is holding up progress at the present time."

Aeronautic experts dug deeper for the bed-rock on which they hope to rear a more standardized and substantial industry in 1930.

Flying-school operators discussed plans "to clean out of their field organizations practicing unethical tactics;" a uniform system of air marking was discussed at a national airway marking meeting and plans were considered for a country-wide drive to air-mark every city.

Fire Destroys Lumber Yards

A howling gale made fire fighting difficult, but the direction of the wind saved the planing mill and kilns, as well as employees' homes.

SPAIN'S COURSE LAID BY LEADER

New Premier Explains His Party Government Aims

Dictatorship Held Needless; Idea of Republic Scouted

Return to Cuba Proposed With Completion of Job

MADRID, Feb. 20. (AP)—Gen. Damaso Berenguer, new Spanish Premier, said today that Spain's indispensable need is political party government through Parliament and free elections—all operating under the constitutional monarchy.

"Spain does not need another dictatorship and there is no serious movement for a republic," the Cuban-born Premier told the Associated Press correspondent in an interview.

"No form of dictatorship is the best way of governing a country. The intention of my government and its most difficult task is to restore normal constitutional government and to create conditions favorable to developments of political parties capable of governing. My government expects to last until we can accomplish that political reconstruction of the country and we expect to be succeeded by whatever new government Parliament may select."

Gen. Berenguer said after that job is completed he would like to return to his birthplace in Cuba and spend some time amid the scenes of his early life with his childhood companions.

"I have always believed that the greatest achievements in all the brilliant pages of Spanish history were the discovery and the colonization of America," he added.

Gen. Berenguer said he will not continue the policy of the previous government in shipping gold abroad to create a favorable peseta exchange.

The discontinuance of gold shipments does not mean, he said, repudiation of obligations for gold credits in London and New York inherited from Primo De Rivera. Existing obligations are being fulfilled, but no new gold credits abroad will be made.

"The fundamental economic condition of Spain is not bad," he continued, "and we hope to improve it materially by reduction of expenses."

Naming of Stone to be Reviewed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—The Senate agreed today to reconsider the selection of Charles Augustus Stone to be a member of the Board of Regents of the Smithsonian Institution after Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, asserted Mr. Stone is connected with "one of the greatest power organizations in the United States."

Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, obtained unanimous consent for the consideration of the Stone appointment yesterday and it was approved without debate. He would succeed Charles Evans Hughes, recently elevated to the Chief Justiceship.

A recent survey of all ocean frontage in the Los Angeles area shows that the average front foot price in Palos Verdes is less than a third of the market average.

And because the demand for ocean frontage is now greater than the supply, economic conditions force us to raise the price of all unsold property in the Malaga Cove District 20%. Even then, the dollar value will be greater here than in any other place on the Bay.

However, to safeguard those who are considering an immediate purchase, the advance will not become effective until April 1st. If you are familiar with the desirable features of this world-famous community, this is our personal suggestion that you act quickly—before April 1st.

STATE CHAMBER TO HELP GLIDING

Study to be Made of Laws on Aerial Sport

Steps Urged to Eliminate Racial Outbreaks

Importance of Weather on Business Stressed

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Keen sympathy with the development of aerial gliding as part of its general aviation program, steps to eliminate further racial difficulties such as the recent anti-Filipino demonstrations, and recommendations for more extensive utilization of the air mail were the high lights of reports and recommendations today at the regular meeting of the board of directors of the State Chamber of Commerce at the St. Francis Hotel.

The directors also were told weather conditions in the next few months will do much to determine the general economic situation in the State for the remainder of the year, that an investigator should be sent to Germany to study that market as an outlet for California perishables, that data should be compiled on the Pan-American highway and Pan-American airway, and an investigation should go forward into the ravages of the pine bark beetle, described as destroying a tremendous amount of California timber.

GLIDING DISCUSSED

Gliding, chiefly because of the active interest shown in it at the present time by Col. Lindbergh, is actively in the minds of all persons interested in aviation, the directors were told by the aeronautical committee. The report also brought to light an apparently regulationless situation which, if true, would place Col. Lindbergh in the position of disobeying the laws of California.

The California law as it now stands, the committee reported, seemingly prevents the operation of gliders in California without a Federal license and the Federal government has not as yet been empowered to license gliders. When the point was raised, however, that both Col. Lindbergh and his wife have received gliding licenses, it was agreed the situation is deserving of additional study as there is an apparent discrepancy some place. The board empowered the aeronautical committee to appoint a subcommittee to make a thorough study of the glider situation.

A recommendation was made that the State chamber obtain from chambers of commerce in those vicinities where the anti-Filipino disorders were prevalent a full and complete report for consideration by the State chamber and that Gov. Young be requested to make an official investigation into the causes and take the necessary steps to prevent their recurrence.

MORE RAIN NEEDED

Frederick J. Koster, director, presenting a summary of economic conditions, stressed the importance weather will have upon the general condition of industry and agriculture. Additional rain and snow is essential, he declared, for the most favorable conditions.

Industry, generally, has suffered recession, Koster's report averred, but it emphasized the complete lack of pessimism on the part of those engaged. Generally, he termed present conditions as one of "waiting," without any legitimate reason at the present time to cause worry.

In the north coast district, the report averred, lumber is off, but other activities show a forward tendency. In the central coast district building permits have receded, but road constructoin is going ahead. The San Joaquin Valley, according to the report, needs rain and the surrounding mountains need snow. Live stock, sheep, wool and cotton have shown recessions. The discovery of gold in Mariposa county, however, is set forth as one of the favorable conditions.

Unemployment in Washington Declared Acute

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Five charitable organizations affiliated with the Washington Community Chest joined tonight in a statement that unemployment in Washington has reached the stage where they are having "great difficulty in caring for all the cases of need arising from this cause."

The five groups—the Salvation Army, the Associated Charities, the Jewish Welfare Federation, the Catholic Charities and the Travelers Aid—professed "grave concern unless some steps are taken either to keep nonresidents in need of relief away from Washington or to provide some further form of accommodation for those who arrive here only to find the employment field filled up."

Schwab Mining Charge Argued in Circuit Court

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Charges that Charles M. Schwab, steel magnate, and other financiers "connived and conspired" to acquire the $5,000,000 property of the Tonopah Extension Mining Company through a $300,000 mortgage foreclosure were argued in the United States Circuit Court here today in an appeal of Will Friedrichsen, Los Angeles, from a Nevada Federal court order permitting the foreclosure.

Friedrichsen is a minority stockholder in the Tonopah company and charges that under the court order the bond holders "exercise absolute control and dominion" over the company, which they acquired for "a farthing of its actual value."

WATCH KEPT ON STATE'S OIL MOVES

Wilbur Still Hopeful of Compact Being Effected in Kettleman Field

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—With Secretary Wilbur contending "everyone including the government will lose" unless the co-operative plan of curtailed oil production is carried out, the Department of Interior is closely watching developments in the move by California to prevent wastage of oil and gas in the Kettleman field.

The department is supporting California in its suit to enjoin operators in the Kettleman area from wasting the enormous quantity of natural gas brought up with the oil.

The department has requested Atty.-Gen. Mitchell to intervene in the suit filed by California in order that the interests of the government may be protected.

Meanwhile the department is hopeful the oil companies will keep their compact to defer production until the summer of 1931 in order that all affected parties may benefit by a policy of conservation and by unified operation when conditions in the industry warrant increased production.

ADVENTISTS LOSE SUIT OVER WOMAN'S ESTATE

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 20. (AP)—The Northern California Conference Association of Seventh Day Adventists lost its fight in the State Supreme Court for property left by the late Mrs. Sarah C. Hays when a judgment of the Yolo County Superior Court was affirmed here today. By the terms of the judgment title to 160 acres of land near Woodland was given Theodore Smith of Yolo county. Smith and the Adventist organization claimed the property under separate deeds left by Mrs. Hays, who died in December, 1924. Smith asserts he had paid $12,000 in cash and was given a trust deed for $16,500 before Mrs. Hays died.

TATE APPROVED FOR I.C.C. POST

Senate Confirms Tennessean by 48-to-18 Vote

Southern Democrat Leads Opposing Faction

Influence of Rail Magnate in Appointment Denied

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—After a sharp two-day debate, the Senate late today confirmed the nomination of Hugh M. Tate, of Knoxville, Tenn., to be a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, succeeding Richard V. Taylor of Alabama. The vote was 48 to 18.

Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama, waged the contest against Tate. Debate for the most part centered on Black's contention that Tate was an attorney for the Southern Railway and, therefore, ineligible to office.

Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, backed the nominee. He said Tate's law firm was retained to do some service for the Southern Railway in the Knoxville area, but that this was business brought to the firm by another member.

Senators Norris, Republican, Nebraska, and Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, joined in the attack on the Tennessean, principally on the contention that he was a representative of the railroad and power interests. They voiced a general complaint against appointments to government commissions of men interested in "monopolies, trusts and combinations."

The roll call showed thirty-four Republicans and fourteen Democrats voting for confirmation and eight Republicans and ten Democrats in opposition.

Senator Couzens, Republican, Michigan, who was at the White House today, said he could "authoritatively" deny press reports that Jeremiah Milbank, a director of the Southern Railway, had recommended Tate's appointment.

BRITISH ENVOY TRACES AMITY

Closer Anglo-American Ties Seen by Sir Esme

Retiring Ambassador Speaks at Pilgrims' Dinner

Rapprochement Held to be Design of Destiny

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Sir Esme Howard, retiring British Ambassador, speaking tonight at a dinner of the Pilgrims of the United States, predicted "for reasons material and utilitarian rather than sentimental" that Anglo-American relations will continue steadily to improve.

He cited the huge volume of trade between the two countries, pointing out that the United Kingdom purchases 18 per cent of the United States' entire exports and that the United States is England's best foreign customer.

SCOFFS AT WAR

Sir Esme scoffed at the possibility of war between the two nations over territorial expansion or interference with neutral rights at sea.

After mentioning the ignorance and indifference which formerly marked England's attitude toward the United States, and the "perfectly open and undisguised suspicion of England and everything British" which he found in America on his first visit thirty-five years ago, Sir Esme said:

"I am as certain as that I stand here that the sentiments of our two countries toward each other are growing not worse but better all the time. If you ask me for any specific evidence of this I would say that never was there so little ultra-patriotic denunciation of Great Britain as during the last Presidential elections, and tail-twisting appears to be no longer a popular pastime.

INTEREST IN KINGDOM

"I would point to the immense popular interest taken in the illness of King George and his almost miraculous recovery, and lastly I would refer to the really wonderful welcome given everywhere to the British Prime Minister when he visited this country last autumn. All these things tell their tale.

"I believe that this movement is bound to continue, notwithstanding occasional setbacks over some monetary controversy that will be forgotten the next year, the next week or the next day, because this rapprochement, this coming together of the United States and the British Empire, is really in accordance with the forces of destiny."

JURORS EMPANELED FOR MAYOR'S TRIAL

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (AP)—A jury of six men and six women was empaneled in Superior Court today to hear evidence in the trial of Mayor Swanton of Santa Cruz, the Mayor's wife and Lewis W. Martin on charges they fradulently persuaded Mrs. Ivanora McIntyre of Berkeley to purchase sixty-two lots in Swanton Beach Park at Santa Cruz.

PARIS, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—If Mlle. Solande Mauclaire wins her $75,000 damage suit against a Parisian motorist she will not have to divide her award with an attorney, for she is appearing as her own counsel. And a perfect right she has, too, for Mlle. Solande is considered one of the most promising of young barristers in Paris.

In her suit Mlle. Solande charges she was standing in a safety island when struck by the automobile and was so severely injured that for many months she was bedridden. She took into court testimony of medical experts regarding the permanency of disfiguring facial scars.

MINER MAY GET PLACE OF PRINCE

Ex-Lord Commissioner of Church of Scotland Due to Regain Post This Year

LONDON, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—James Brown, former coal miner, will soon begin unpacking his gold lace uniform and cocked hat, which he wore as Lord Commissioner of the Church of Scotland in 1924. The expectation in political circles is that Brown will be reappointed to his old post this year, succeeding the King's second son, the Duke of York, as the occupant of the Holy Rood Palace during the meeting of the church assembly.

Brown and his wife, who was once a mill girl, would then drive in state through Edinburgh with a cavalry escort and as the representatives of the King and Queen, give state dinners, receptions and garden parties in the historic palace.

Six years ago Brown's appointment by the first Labor government was popular in Scotland and he and his wife fulfilled their unaccustomed duties with dignity and efficiency.

CHICAGO PLANS NEW "PAY OFF"

Victims of City's Racketeers to Finance Inquiry

Millions May be Spent for Anticrime Campaign

Business Men Will Appeal to State Officials

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—A $1,000,000 inquiry—financed from the money that business has been paying in tribute to racketeers—to gather evidence that will rid Chicago of its gangsters, racketeers, crooked officials and corrupt politicians is the program which will be submitted to the executive committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce tomorrow.

The money which is to pay for the inquiry is to come from the business men and the industries who have been yielding tribute to racketeers, crooked labor-union chiefs, extortionists, "trade association" entrepreneurs and other business leeches. The fund is said to be unlimited. A $1,000,000 may be necessary, but if $2,000,000 or $3,000,000 is necessary, it is said the money will be forthcoming. Not only will this money furnish ample funds for the inquiry, it was pointed out, but its withdrawal from the racketeers will cripple them in their defense against the inquiry.

It was made plain that if the police or the prosecutors fail to carry on with the evidence submitted, the business men will appeal to the Attorney-General and the Governor.

Already in the Association of Commerce offices there are three bushels of letters telling of crime conditions in certain sections of the city and county. Every one of these letters will be thoroughly investigated.

League Ponders Truce on Tariff

GENEVA, Feb. 20. (AP)—The League of Nations tariff truce conference tonight concluded its general discussions and began consideration in committee of proposals for a tariff truce, using as a basis a draft convention prepared by the League's economic committee.

A second committee will deliberate on a plan for the program of subsequent negotiations between the governments with the view to reduction of customs barriers and the encouragement of international trade. They will hold public sessions beginning tomorrow with all the delegations represented.

LION MENU ESTIMATED AT ONE DEER A WEEK

FLAGSTAFF (Ariz.) Feb. 20. (AP) A mountain lion eats one deer a week, according to Supervisor Miller of the Coconino National Forest, who estimated that there are forty of the big cats roaming the forest. Their kill accounts in one year for a greater loss in the number of deer than all the hunters, Miller said.

CHICAGO CASH TO BE PLEDGED

Pool of $50,000,000 Due by Today

Large Taxpayers Expected to Offer Money

Many Fail to See Chance of Early Pay-off

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Some 43,000 employees tonight experienced that feeling which comes only on the eve of pay day as Chicago began converting words into cash to relieve the city's financial embarrassment.

Silas H. Strawn, chairman of the citizens' rescue committee, said he expects to have $50,000,000 pledged by taxpayers by tomorrow. City and county officials added the cheerful word that checks will follow within twenty-four hours.

Some bankers of the citizens' committee were skeptical of the promise, pointing out that the mechanics of organizing the pool and collecting the money would be more than a one-day task. It appeared certain, however, that every public employee would be paid up to February 15 by Tuesday at the latest.

Subscription blanks, asking contributions to the pool, were distributed among large taxpayers today. They carried the promise that no money would be collected until the full $50,000,000 has been pledged.

The pool as a means of rescuing the various governments of Cook county from the financial situation in which they have floundered since December grew out of a meeting of taxpayers yesterday. Many of the large taxpayers have money on deposit waiting for 1928 and 1929 tax bills which cannot be sent out until June.

Under the plan the money will be used to buy tax anticipation warrants through the "Cook county taxpayers' warrant fund," which will act as a holding company.

A special committee will designate how the money shall be distributed to the various governments.

MUSCLE SHOALS INQUIRY FEARED

Industrialist Told to Shun Lobby Investigation

Farm Bureau Leader Admits He So Advised Bell

Cyanamid Company Fosters Publicity on Project

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—How he had advised W. B. Bell, president of the American Cyanamid Company, to stay away from Washington lest he be called before the Senate lobby committee, was related to that committee today by Chester H. Gray, the representative here of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The lobby inquisitors have been examining efforts to influence the Congressional course of Muscle Shoals legislation. The Cyanamid company for years has had a proposal up to lease the wartime project in Alabama.

Gray also said he had suggested to Bell that he appear before the House Military Affairs Committee to testify concerning the company's Muscle Shoals proposal, which is advocated by the farm organization.

"He had been before that committee several times and had laid his whole proposition before them," Gray explained, "and he owed an obligation to that committee which he does not owe to any committee on this side of Congress."

The committee has announced that Bell will be called before the Muscle Shoals investigation is completed. The examination of Gray will be resumed tomorrow.

The committee also learned from Gray that the American Cyanamid Company had paid $7000 toward distribution of Muscle Shoals publicity two years ago, which was handled through the National Agricultural Publishing Company of Washington.

TEXANS VOLUNTARILY DESTROY CITRUS FRUIT

MISSION (Tex.) Feb. 20. (AP)—Ralph G. Bray, editor of the Mission (Tex.) Times, today said that the January cold spell, most severe in Texas in thirty years, cost citrus fruit growers of this vicinity more than $500,000 in fruit voluntarily destroyed by members of the Texas Citrus Fruit Growers' Exchange because of fear that it might have been damaged.

GIGANTIC DISPOSAL OF WAREHOUSE SHOE STOCKS

The Shoe Market at 224-226-228 So. Hill Street To Cut Their Stock in Half by Drastic Price Reductions

Finding their retail shoe stores tremendously overstocked and unable to take in any more merchandise, The Shoe Market located at 224-226 and 228 South Hill St., faces the necessity of liquidating over $100,000.00 worth of brand new shoes direct to the public.

Thoughts of cost or profit have been entirely forgotten in this extreme effort at stock reduction; and prices have been graded in most instances even lower than independent shoe stores actually pay for their merchandise. The opportunity for saving on quality footwear for every member of the family is tremendous. Ample provision has been made to take care of the crowds and free parking for the patrons has been provided in the large parking lot directly acros the street from The Shoe Market.—[Advertisement.

Mayme Layton

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (Exclusive) Police today entertained little hope of ever bringing to justice the men who shot and killed Mayme Layton, 27-year-old dance-hall hostess, and her ex-convict lover, Carmine Barelli, 34.

The woman and Barelli were fired upon as they walked along a street in the Upper Bronx section. Barelli fell mortally wounded at the first volley. His companion, wounded, endeavored to run but stumbled and fell. One of the attacking gangsters fired three shots into her body as she lay upon the sidewalk.

Police are apparently up against a stone wall in locating either the slayers or a motive. "Just another gang killing," the report sets forth.

UNION ASKS JAILING OF ESPEE TRIO

Clerks' Brotherhood Says Officials Have Failed to Carry Out Court Orders

HOUSTON (Tex.) Feb. 20. (AP)—Jailing of three officials of the Southern Pacific Lines in Texas and Louisiana until they purge themselves of asserted contempt of court was asked today by the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks.

The brotherhood petitioned the United States District Court clerk to serve processes Monday on H. M. Lull, executive vice-president of the railroad; G. S. Wald, vice-president and general manager, and J. G. Torian, assistant to the vice-president and general manager.

In its petition the brotherhood charged the officials have failed to carry out orders of Federal Judge Hutcheson in a contempt order entered February 11, 1928, dissolving a "company union" of clerical employees, asserted to have been promoted by the management, and restoring certain rights to brotherhood members.

The order provided that if the three officials should fail to carry out the orders of the court the clerk should issue a writ to have them placed in jail and held until they have purged themselves in the manner prescribed by the court.

The dispute between the brotherhood and company officials arose in 1927 when the brotherhood sought a wage increase.

Antichain Store Body Sues Radio Station Owner

AUSTIN, Feb. 20. (AP)—The Texas Antichain Association today filed suit in United States District Court here against W. K. Henderson of Shreveport, La., and his "Hello World" broadcasting station for $50,000.

The suit was filed by E. G. Senter of Dallas, as attorney for the plaintiffs. It was charged that false, malicious and defamatory statements made, published and circulated about the plaintiff have caused it to suffer irreparable damage.

The suit is the outcome of a controversy between Henderson and the Texas Antichain Association, although both are supposed to be fighting chain stores.

British Women Insist on Right to Be Hanged

LONDON, Feb. 20. (AP).—Great Britain is having a great controversy over the propriety of capital punishment where women are concerned, with many leading feminists contending, as one of the sisterhood puts it, "women have as much right to be hanged as men."

Dr. Methven, governor of Maidstone prison, recently urged that women be exempted from the death penalty in murder cases. He immediately aroused the antagonism of the Women's Freedom League, whose secretary, Miss Underwood, said in effect she is strongly opposed to capital punishment, but she "would be hanged" rather than agree to exemption of women while men are not exempt.

Gain Shown by Cities Service

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (Exclusive) Cities Service Company today reported January net income of $4,655,056 after charges but before reserves, as compared with $2,828,281 in the same month last year, an increase of $1,826,775, or 64 per cent.

The directors declared the regular monthly dividends of 2½ cents in cash and ½ of 1 per cent in stock on the common shares and 50 cents on the preferred and preference "BB" and 5 cents on preference "B," all payable April 1 to stock of record March 15.

RADIO OFFICIALS TO KEEP PLACES

Members of Federal Board Reappointed by Hoover

Immediate Confirmation for Three Held Assured

Chairmanship Likely to Go to Saltzman or Lafount

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (NANA) Much of the doubt and uncertainty that has clouded the Federal control of radio was removed today by the reappointment of all of the present members of the Federal Radio Commission.

President Hoover's decision was not unexpected, for the prevailing opinion here was that changes in the commission's personnel would have precipitated a spirited battle in the Senate.

Confirmation by the Senate of at least a majority of the commission is expected soon, although the mere routine of confirming the commissioners is bound to precipitate all manner of discussion about radio.

QUORUM PROSPECT

Senate leaders in radio legislation express the conviction that there is little doubt about the immediate confirmation of three of the five commissioners. This would constitute a quorum and enable the radio board to continue functioning after midnight Saturday, when the terms otherwise expire. Some delay may be experienced with the others, for Senator Wheeler announced that he will ask for an inquiry into the qualifications of Commissioners Saltzman and Starbuck.

Within the commission, the way will be opened for more orderly procedure and closer attention to the details of administering broadcasting, transoceanic and domestic radio, aviation radio, television and the numerous other matters that fall within its ken. One of its first tasks will be the appointment of a chief engineer and two assistants, as authorized in the bill recently passed by Congress, which also continued the life of the commission indefinitely.

MORE INDEPENDENCE

Confirmation will also insure a certain amount of freedom from the restraint of Congressional influence, usually exercised on behalf of local and sectional as against the national interests of radio. There is no secret about the fact that Senators and Representatives have literally beseiged the commission's offices seeking privileges for radio stations within their constituencies. The expectation is that the commissioners will now exercise more independence of political control.

The chairmanship, held for the last two years by Judge Robinson, will probably fall to either Gen. Charles McK. Saltzman, or Harold A. LaFount, the other Republican commissioners, as a natural consequence of the reappointments. Judge Robinson wants to relinquish the post in favor of one of his colleagues. Since other Federal commissions under Republican administrations have had Democrats as chairmen by rotation, there is a possibility that Judge Sykes may be elected chairman.

TERMS ASSIGNED

Gen. Saltzman, an Iowan, is named for the six-year term, representing the fourth zone of middle western States. Commissioner La Fount of Utah, is nominated for the five-year term, representing the Rocky Mountain and the Pacific Coast States. W. D. L. Starbuck of New York, the other Democrat on the commission, is named for the four-year term, representing the first zone of New England and Northern States.

Judge Sykes, who hails from Mississippi and represents the third zone of Southern States, obtains the three-year appointment. Chairman Robinson, a West Virginian, whose zone embraces the eastern central group of States, is named for the two-year term.

BY ROBERT B. ARMSTRONG
"Times" Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Lewis H. Schwaebe, collector of customs at Los Angeles, was elected one of the vice-chairmen of the permanent organization in the meeting of customs officers of the United States which adjourned here today after a week's conference with Secretary Mellon.

Collector Schwaebe extended a cordial invitation for the next customs conference to be held in Los Angeles in 1932.

The officers selected in addition to Schwaebe, are:

Wilfred W. Lufkin, collector of customs, Boston, temporary chairman; Frank Kaley, purchasing agent, New York, secretary; Roy Fisher, special agent, New York, assistant secretary; F. X. A. Eble, commissioner of customs, Washington, permanent chairman; John L. Crupper, collector, Newport News and Norfolk, vice-chairman, and Frederick J. H. Kracks, appraiser, New York, vice-chairman.

Army Canaries Will Sing Again in Canal Zone

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—The inroads of mechanical transportation on the military scope of horses and mules have received a temporary setback in the Panama Canal Zone, where a battalion of American field artillery has been ordered converted from "portee" to pack artillery.

Because of the character of the country, seventy-five-millimeter howitzers in the future are to be carried on horseback. Ammunition, equipment and men likewise will travel on sure-footed beasts instead of relying upon tractors and trucks as at present.

The War Department has ordered 590 animals shipped from the United States between March and November and tractor and truck sheds will be converted into stables.

FUN POKED AT CAPITOL DEPLORED

Mrs. Owen Asserts Press Fails to Report Stress of Work Done in Congress

NEW YORK, Dec. 20. (Exclusive) Regret that "Congress is so often in the humorous columns of the newspapers" was expressed by Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, Representative in Congress from Florida, who addressed the League of Political Education at Town Hall today.

"I think it's only a habit with the papers," she continued. "If people knew just the quality of the Representative they had in Congress they would not only feel safer about their representation, but they would be prouder to be citizens of the republic. I am sorry that what gets into the headlines is some casual remark, some epithet, some piece of irrelevant dialogue. That's all you hear of the work of 400 Congressmen, for the calling of some one a queer name is odd and that's what constitutes news.

"There is a tremendous amount of breakdowns from overwork in Congress but that is not news. And I am sorry that the public from the gallery sees so little of the work done in Congress. I wish they could see the long hours in the offices."

EX-DRY AGENT ACQUITTED

MIAMI (Fla.) Feb. 20. (AP)—Joseph E. Courtney, former agent in charge of prohibition forces in Miami, was found not guilty of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition laws by a Federal court today.

Twenty Years Of Ill Health Ended, She Says

The marvelous new, scientific treatment, Sargon, seems to be at the very peak of its powers when combatting stubborn cases that have apparently defied every other effort for relief. Take as an example, the case of Mrs H. A. Gardner, 2823 Juniper St., San Diego.

MRS. H. A. GARDNER

who in a recent statement said:

"I hadn't enjoyed good health for twenty years, and I was so discouraged over taking medicines and treatments without getting any lasting relief I'd about lost faith in them all until I started this wonderful Sargon treatment.

"I used to have such terrible pains like neuritis all through my limbs and shoulders at times I couldn't relax in a comfortable position to save my life, and it was a common thing for me to lie awake nearly all night long. I had spells of dizziness and nervous headaches that would almost drive me into hysterics, and I'd have to take a laxative every night for constipation. My stomach gave me so much trouble I could scarcely eat a meal without suffering with indigestion—I'd have a burning clear up in my throat and frequently became so nauseated I'd just have to give up and go to bed.

"The very first few doses of Sargon convinced me that I'd found something different, because I felt so wonderfully strengthened right from the start! I've already gained back eight pounds of the weight I'd lost and have more strength and feel better in every way than I have in years! The pains like neuritis that used to torment me day and night have entirely disappeared and I don't know when I've enjoyed such sound, refreshing sleep! My digestion seems perfect and I can eat three hearty meals every day without worrying at all about my after effects!

"Since Sargon Pills overcame my constipation and got me regulated right, I no longer have dizzy spells and the headaches have apparently passed into history! I just wouldn't take anything in the world for the wonderful benefits I got from Sargon and I'm singing its praises every day!"

The Sargon Man is at the Owl Drug Store, 6th & Broadway, meeting the public and giving the facts about this remarkable new scientific discovery. He cites case after case of Sargon's wonderful powers at work; personal instances of health renewed and happiness restored, right here in this city. Sargon may also be obtained at all Owl Drug Stores and Liggett's Drug Stores in Los Angeles and other cities.—[Advertisement.

Romance With Heiress on Rocks in Chicago

Girl Spurns Him Despite Love Plea from Cell

"He Never Told Me" She Sobs to Her Mother

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—George Howell, 26 years of age, is in a cell at the detective bureau tonight, charged with bigamy and renounced by the heiress with whom he eloped in Los Angeles a month ago.

Howell, having run a $300 stake up to $40,000 in stock speculation, lost it all in the stock market crash last fall and went to California to join his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Howell, formerly of Glencoe, Ill. At the Ambassador in Los Angeles he met Miss Marjorie Heisenbuttal, 21 years of age.

The girl was there with her mother, Mrs. Max Strauss, New York, Mrs. Strauss having divorced her father, Frederick Heisenbuttal, a tobacco manufacturer, and married Max Strauss, trader on the New York Stock Exchange. Miss Heisenbuttal inherited $670,000 from her grandmother.

ELOPED HERE

In the third week of their acquaintanceship Howell persuaded Miss Heisenbuttal to elope to Santa Monica, where a minister united them. Ignorant of the ceremony, Mrs. Strauss decided a week ago that it was time that she and Marjorie were returning to New York.

Howell, who was penniless, came along to Chicago on money given him by his bride, arriving Tuesday morning.

Two minutes before time for departure of Mrs. Strauss and her daughter for New York, Howell appeared in the train shed. The girl saw him, jumped off the train and scampered with him down the platform to a waiting taxicab, with Mrs. Strauss in laborious pursuit.

Mrs. Strauss went to police headquarters and signed a complaint charging the young man with kidnaping. Then she consulted a telephone directory, vaguely recalling that Howell had mentioned having once been married to a Chicago girl named Kahnweiler.

GIRL SPURNS HIM

By telephone Mrs. Strauss found Alex Kahnweiler, an insurance broker, who informed her that his daughter Artelia had married Howell four years ago and separated from him after five months, but still is his legal wife.

Mr. Kahnweiler signed the complaint charging Howell with bigamy.

"He never told me he was married," Miss Heisenbuttal tearfully informed her mother. "I'd never have eloped with him if I knew. Now that I know the sort he is, I'll never see him again."

From his cell, Howell issued notes to the girl, pledging his love to her and promising to have his marriage with Miss Kahnweiler annulled.

NEW COMET DISCOVERED BY OHIO MAN

Member of Amateur Star Observing Group Picks Up Strange Traveler in Skies

CAMBRIDGE (Mass.) Feb. 20. (AP) Harvard University today announced receipt of word of the discovery of a comet believed to be new to astronomers. It was found by L. C. Peltier of Delphos, O., member of the American Association of Variable Star Observers, who having no means of measuring the comet communicated his discovery to Prof. George Vanbiesbrock of Yerkes Observatory in Wisconsin.

Measurements of the celestial body were made by Prof. Vanbiesbrock and the following data were submitted:

Position, right ascension, 9 hours 22 minutes, 38.9 seconds; declination, north, 40 deg. 21 minutes, 55 seconds; magnitude 11; daily motion 13 minutes west, 4 deg. north; image, very diffuse.

Mr. Peltier is a member of an organization comprised largely of amateur astronomers whose ranks girdle the globe. Most of their observations are made through relatively small telescopes often mounted at their homes. They report observations to the Harvard observatory, where a headquarters is maintained.

Flyer Fined for Operating Plane Without License

SAN LEANDRO (Cal.) Feb. 20. (AP)—In what is believed to have been the first penalty meted out for a violation of the new California Air Navigation Act, James T. Canavan, San Francisco flyer, was sentenced to serve 125 days in jail or pay a $250 fine by Justice of the Peace W. T. Gannon here today.

Pleading guilty to flying an unlicensed plane without a pilot's license in connection with the crash of an old army "jenny" near San Lorenzo yesterday, Canavan said he would pay the fine.

Adams has been ordered to appear before Edison E. Mouton, Department of Commerce aeronautical inspector, at Oakland Airport tomorrow to explain why the plane was not licensed.

CARTOONIST'S HANDS INSURED FOR $20,000

ALTADENA, Feb. 20.—The "funny" hands of Jacob B. Abbott, comic strip artist who resides at 2377 Mar Vista avenue, were insured today for $20,000 each, or $4000 a finger. Abbott's new contract with a New York syndicate called for a total insurance on his hands of $40,000. The local cartoonist formerly was engaged in the bond business in New York City. While a student at Harvard University, he drew for the college humor publication, the Lampoon. Besides his comic strips, Abbott also has done considerable magazine illustration.

WOMAN BRANDS SELF SCARLET

Mrs. Brandon Tells of Talks With Gillespie's Wife

Heart Balm Plaintiff Says Spouse Knew Relations

Society Matrons Testify to Loss of Friendship

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—On the witness stand today Mrs. Frances Marion Brandon told of discussions by the two women of "the scarlet triangle" which she used to describe the relations she said existed between herself, George J. Gillespie and Gillespie's invalid wife, now dead.

At one point in the conversation, Mrs. Brandon said, Mrs. Gillespie remarked:

"You are one of the saddest persons I have ever known in my life."

TELLS OF VISIT TO WIFE

Mrs. Brandon, an assistant corporation counsel who is suing the elderly Gillespie, prominent city official, for $574,165, charging breach of promise and the theft of a "$40,000-a-year" law practice, declared on the stand in Supreme Court yesterday that the death of Mrs. Gillespie, in 1924, ought to be investigated.

In the summer of 1922, she testified today, while her relationship with Gillespie was of a most intimate nature, she called on Mrs. Gillespie at Cliff Haven, N. Y.

"It was then," she said, "that Mrs. Gillespie told me that she knew of my relations with her husband."

"When I went up to visit her," she added, "I asked her whether she knew why Mr. Gillespie and I saw a great deal of each other and how it had become so well known. I told her that he had a great deal of interest in my affairs, and that I had told him to tell his wife."

Whereupon, Mrs. Brandon testified, Mrs. Gillespie quietly remarked:

"We sick people understand things. I know why you are up here."

SOCIETY WOMEN TESTIFY

Asked by Gillespie's counsel if that was her sole reason for saying that Mrs. Gillespie knew of her relations with Gillespie, Mrs. Brandon replied:

"She said it in such a way that it was obvious she knew."

In reply to further questioning by Theodore Keindl, Gillespie's attorney, Mrs. Brandon admitted, apparently with relish, that she had referred to Gillespie as "an aged, unkempt, pot-bellied, sleek-haired shyster" and as "a glassy-eyed hard-boiled mug." She also said that at one time she had "thought more of him than of God himself."

In her behalf, three society matrons, all members of the Junior League, took the stand today and corroborated Mrs. Brandon's previous statement that she had been deserted by her friends after acquiring notoriety by reason of her troubles with Gillespie.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Patterson, Mrs. Lillian Franklin, and Mrs. Elizabeth M. Chapin, all testified that they had severed their acquaintanceships with Mrs. Brandon in 1925 after her difficulties came to public notice.

Liner to Bring in Record List for San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 20.—Bringing the greatest number of passengers to disembark here of any Panama Pacific Steamship Company vessel, since the line began operating here, the liner Virginia is due to arrive from New York, Havana and the Panama Canal at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow with 640 passengers on board. Of this number 135 are to disembark here.

A year ago the average number of passengers disembarking here from the Panama Pacific liners Virginia, California and Pennsylvania, was forty, although the record number up to now for vessels of the line is eighty-one.

The Virginia is to be open to inspection by the public at 2 p.m. as part of a program in observance of Foreign Trade Week. Visitors will be allowed aboard for a two-hour period. That San Diegans are interested in the harbor and in the steamships which call here was the statement made by President Hal Hotchkiss of the Chamber of Commerce, who said that 2000 passes to visit the Virginia have been distributed.

TRIP IN REAL ESTATE CAR ENDS IN DEATH

LONG BEACH, Feb. 20.—Harry J. Hill, 42 years of age, of 421 Daisy avenue, was killed when the real estate car in which he was a passenger collided with a street car on Atlantic avenue this afternoon. His elderly parents and two other occupants of the car sustained minor injuries.

Failure of brakes to hold the car on wet, slippery pavement caused the accident, the second crash between a street car and an automobile at that intersection today. Ten persons suffered injuries in traffic accidents today, due, according to police reports, to slippery pavement caused by rainfall.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Cremer, Seattle residents who are visiting relatives here, were the most seriously injured among the victims exclusive of Hill. They each sustained a broken leg and a broken arm.

Peter B. Kyne Sued in Crash

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Peter B. Kyne, author, was made defendant in a damage suit for $31,072, filed here today by Henry U. Yip, buyer for Miller & Lux.

Yip asserts that Kyne's car, driven by D. A. Baird and A. Clarkson, collided with his on the Pacheco Pass road January 26, last. Yip said he lost several teeth, suffered other injuries and lost two months' work. He said his salary was $2000 a month.

SOUTHLAND IN LINE FOR NEW REGENT

Another Membership on U.C. Board Expected to be Obtained Soon

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Southern California will be given another membership on the University of California board of regents next month when the terms of two of the present board expire, Gov. Young indicated here today.

The terms of regents Ralph P. Merritt of Fresno and George I. Cochran of Los Angeles will expire and the Governor has it in mind to give Merritt's place to Los Angeles or vicinity.

Of the sixteen appointive regents, only four are from Southern California at present. Reappointment of Cochran is expected by those close to the Governor. Because of the large number of students from the south in attendance at the University of California, both in Berkeley and at Los Angeles, the Governor feels Southern California should have a larger share in the management of the State university. It also will help to build needed political strength there, observers point out.

Death Takes Kin of Mrs. Lincoln

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Feb. 20. (AP)—Mrs. Emile Todd Helm, 94 years of age, half-sister of Abraham Lincoln's wife, Mary Todd Lincoln, died today. She was the widow of Brig.-Gen. Hardin Helm of the Confederate Army, who was killed in battle. Her death removes the last surviving person intimately associated with Lincoln.

BEACH CITY WATCHES FREEING OF STEAMER

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 20. At 2:15 a.m. today when the high tide was coming in the British motor vessel City of Lille, stranded on the beach two miles south of Huntington Beach, was pulled off of the sand by the tugs Louis Black, Peacock and Milton S. Patrick. It is reported that the fog which caused the steamer to go aground was denser than at any other time this season. It was an interesting sight to see the largest vessel ever stranded on this coast with, at times, as many as a dozen tugs, launches and patrol boats plying alongside.

TROOPS MENACE RUMANIA FRONT

New Bolshevik Military Peril Feared

Railways Reported Clogged With Soldiers

England Regards Activity as Winter Maneuver

[Copyright, 1930, by the Chicago Tribune.]

BUCHAREST, Feb. 20. (Exclusive) Large movements of Russian troops to the Polish and Rumanian frontiers has led France and Poland to warn Rumania today of a new Bolshevik military menace, according to reliable information received here tonight.

The Russian military preparations are reported to be directed especially against Rumania. According to military intelligence received by the French and passed on to their little Balkan ally, the railroad between Kiev and Odessa has been clogged with troop trains the last few days.

The move of soviet forces apparently is concentrated just northwest of Odessa along the lower part of the Bessarabian frontier. All garrisons in the neighborhood are reported to be heavily reinforced with troops and artillery.

Warned of such conditions by its big brother, France, the Rumanian government, nevertheless, requested information and advice from Great Britain. London is evidently without news of anything out of the ordinary on the Russian side of the border and is reported to have suggested to the Bucharest government that the reports were probably exaggerated and the Russian troop movements are really nothing but the annual winter maneuvers of the Red army.

In order to quiet the general alarm the government issued a communique tonight denying any trouble on the Russian frontier.

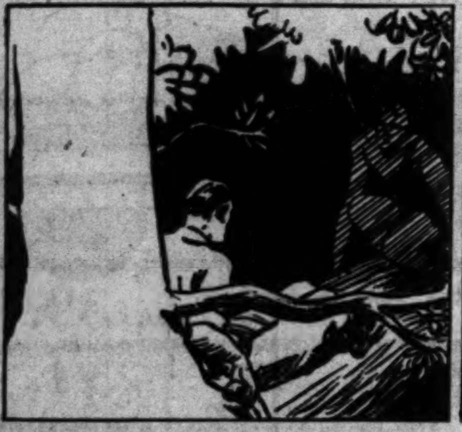
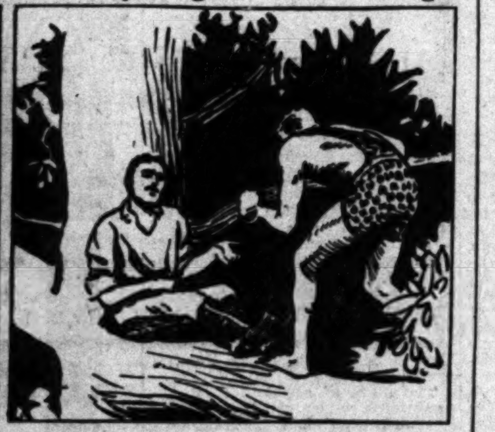
A CHUCKLE FOR EVERYBODY

THE SON OF TARZAN

By Edgar Rice Burroughs



The ape-man shouted down at the lion, unable to climb trees. He taunted him in the language of the great apes. Baynes, listening, felt assured a gorilla had captured him. He was stealthily reaching for his revolver when a voice asked in perfectly good English: "Who are you?" Baynes started so that he nearly fell from the branch. "Ye gods!" he exclaimed. "Are you a man?" He tried to see the features behind the voice.



"Don't be afraid," laughed Korak, "I'm a man—a white man, like you. They call me the Killer," giving the English translation of the name the apes called him. Then, after a pause, he again questioned Baynes. Bit by bit, he learned the story up to the moment Baynes had fallen into the ape-man's hands. Before they had done, the first gray dawn relieved the darkness. Korak brought water from the river, and fruit to Baynes to eat.

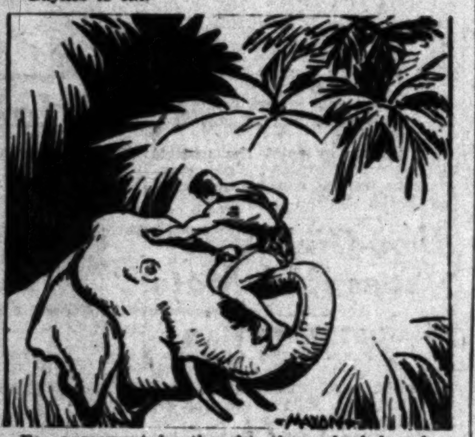
"I am going to the Swede's camp," he announced, "and find this girl you speak of. I will come back with her." And so Korak set out rapidly toward the north, leaving behind the man too weary and wounded to accompany him. Some hours later Korak came out upon the river bank directly across from Malbihn's camp. He could see men moving about amid the huts. But how was he to cross? Not even he would dare.



For a moment he thought, then wheeled and sped away into the jungle uttering a peculiar cry, shrill and piercing. Finally his ears were rewarded by the sound he craved—the trumpeting of a bull elephant. Tantor broke through the trees, standing with upraised trunk before his friend and master. A low-spoken command and the mighty pachyderm swung Korak to his head and lumbered off, guided by the ape-man's naked feet against his hide.

HORSE AND AUTO FIGHT IT OUT

Wild Steed Killed in First Rush of Battle Over Right of Way

WALKER (Cal.) Feb. 20. (AP) A horse and an automobile argued the right of way here, and as usual in such arguments, the automobile won, although the equine disputant was a wild horse.

Westly Quigley and Gene Selby, driving on the Lichen ranch, sighted a wild horse in the road. They kept driving. The horse charged and was killed in the first rush.

Western Pacific Railroad, informed of the Interstate Commerce Commission's denial of permission to the railroad to construct 134 miles of new line on the east side of the San Joaquin River, said he would not comment on his company's next step in the matter until he had opportunity to read the complete text of the decision.

The Western Pacific in 1928 applied for permission to build a line from Nile Garden, a Western Pacific junction eleven miles southwest of Stockton, southward to Kings River in Northern Tulare county at an estimated cost of $8,500,000. It was proposed to use about ten miles of the Tidewater Southern Railroad in Merced county.

The purpose, it was explained by the Western Pacific, was to develop an agricultural zone lying east of the San Joaquin and to give the railroad direct connection over its own lines with the city of Fresno.

Fortune Picked Out of Gutter

CEDAR RAPIDS (Iowa) Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Never in his career as a street sweeper did Frank Drahos ever run across a $5000 gold note, so he can't be blamed for sweeping it along with the trash that he encountered in the gutter. But when the folded piece of paper persisted in clinging to the wet street, Drahos decided to look into the matter. When he saw the value of the badly soiled note he was uncertain what to do about it, but decided to turn it in to his boss.

The note was the property of a Mt. Vernon man. Drahos received a reward today which amounted to more than he receives for several days' work as a street sweeper.

The proposed structure will be of modern design, 119x120 feet in area and two stories and basement in height. Provisions will be made for additional stories to be added as the space is needed. No estimate of the cost has been made.

NAVAL SESSION FAILURE SEEN

Britten Bitterly Scores British Obstinacy

Plea for America to Build Called Ridiculous

Says Talk of Safeguarding Rights "Flapdoodle"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Chairman Britten of the House Naval Affairs Committee said tonight if the London arms conference fails, "and it probably will, it will be the third one that has been a fizzle because of British obstinacy.

"There must be no diplomatic victory at the expense of our naval defense," he said in an address before the Illinois Manufactuers' Association, "there must be no agreement that does not insure actual naval fighting parity with England, ton for ton, and each nation to build the kind of cruisers it deems suited for its position in domestic and world peace."

Describing as "ridiculous" the suggestion "that we build 77,000 tons of small-gun cruisers at a cost of $130,000,000, merely to meet the British expansion proposal," Britten appealed for "limitation, not expansion."

GREAT YANKEE SPIRIT

"If the British admiralty are the friends they pretend to be," he continued, "let them make a friendly gesture aimed at world peace, forget that Britannia rules the waves and give thought to the world's overburdened taxpayers. The adjournment of the conference for a week due to the fall of the French government strongly brings out the fact that we are dickering with a group of governments whose stability is most insecure and who may become politically bankrupt at a day's notice. This knowledge may be responsible for Ramsay MacDonald's back somersault from limitation to expansion and from parity to continued sea control."

"That great Yankee spirit we talk so much about over here seems to become an inferiority complex over there whenever our statesmen get up against a group of old-world diplomats," he said after referring to "$15,000,000,000 worth of American merchandise which found its way into every seaport on earth last year."

MERE SCRAPS OF PAPER

"To protect that commerce we require cruisers of the greatest steaming radius because we do not possess bases all over the world as England does," he added. "When war actually occurs, treaties are but scraps of paper and the rights of neutrals at sea are weighed almost wholly by the military power they have to enforce the respect of the warring nations.

"Today the law governing the use of the seas in time of war is in a state of unprecedented confusion and chaos and all this talk in London about safeguarding the legal rights of neutral shipping in time of war is just a lot of flapdoodle."

STIMSON AND MACDONALD HAVE CONFERENCE

LONDON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Although a week's adjournment of the London naval conference began today, an undercurrent of activity was maintained by the delegations at London.

Secretary Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald had an important two-hour conference at the House of Commons this afternoon to discuss how the conference will be reopened when the French delegation is reconstituted and returns to London.

It was decided tentatively that no formal plenary session will be held, but that negotiations will be resumed where they were left off. It is the opinion of the delegates here that whoever heads the French group will not be prepared for new formal declarations of policy at an opening session.

Immediately after his conference with MacDonald, where he was accompanied by Senator Reed, Col. Stimson returned to his hotel for the latest dispatches from Washington.

Then he left for Stanmore, where he will work through the week-end.

The delegations in London are carefully considering the developments in the French political situation, scanning every item of news from across the channel.

The question of the French policy at the conference does not worry the delegations, but there is some apprehension whether the new French government can be formed and get a vote of confidence from the Chamber in time to send a delegation back to London before the 26th inst.

Neither the British nor the Americans consider that one week's delay will have a bad effect on the negotiations, but they don't like to consider the possibility of the longer adjournment.

ADMIRAL PRATT SPEAKS AT LONDON DINNER

LONDON, Feb. 20. (AP)—Speaking on British-American relations, Admiral William V. Pratt, one of the American naval advisers at the London conference, tonight declared "We know that if the time should ever come—and it will never come between sane and sound-thinking peoples—that we should ever fight, vultures would pick our bones. We do not intend to let that happen."

Admiral Pratt spoke at a dinner given to American naval officers in London by the Royal Navy Volunteer Reserve.

"To Americans and American naval men, the limitation of armaments means, to begin with, elimination of friction, so long as the powers compete in naval armaments with each other, particularly where there might grow up a certain rivalry among those peoples who were born to be friends, we feel that the proper thing to do is to arrive at the proper degree of limitation.

"Mind you, no naval man believes that disarmament is possible in a world of arms. I have often maintained that the greatest mishap that could come to your country would be disarmament carried to too great an extent. For the greatest arm of a government for preserving peace is the power vested in sea forces.

"There may be a little misunderstanding on the part of some people as to why America wants parity. They may say that America is perfectly safe by reason of her geographical position. But they would have to look back 300 years to the landing of the Pilgrim fathers to find the reason. Americans are just as much part of your stock as you will find in your own country, and that is what is really at the bottom of parity."

SHERIFF NAMED IN RUM SCANDAL

Becker of Alameda County Accused of Bribe Deals

Ormsby, Former Legal Aide to Evangelist, Involved

Charges Made in Affidavit by Grand Theft Suspect

OAKLAND, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Burton F. Becker, Alameda county Sheriff, and three of his deputies, connived in the protection of bootleggers and gamblers, and Cromwell Ormsby, formerly attorney for Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, was their "go-between," according to charges made today in an affidavit submitted to Dist.-Atty. Warren. The maker of the affidavit is Fre dC. Smith, former San Leandro automobile dealer, now under indictment for grand theft, who was brought back to this city from Los Angeles a few days ago.

Smith is in custody of the District Attorney at an unnamed location, it was announced, it being deemed advisable not to confine him to Alameda County Jail, which is presided over by the Sheriff.

SMITH'S AFFIDAVIT

The Smith affidavit has been filed with the grand jury, Dist.-Atty. Warren said.

The deputies accused are J. J. Collier, J. L. Davis and Richard Shurtleff. Each denied the charges. Collier and Davis had been under suspension because of charges previously made in the present inquiry, but when the affidavit was filed Sheriff Becker reinstated them.

After the filing of the document the District Attorney issued a subpoena for Ormsby, which cites him to appear before the grand jury next Monday.

Smith's affidavit accuses him of collecting $4200, which Ormsby is asserted to have given Smith with instructions for Smith to turn it over to Sheriff Becker to tip off raids on bootleggers and lotteries. Smith's affidavit said he carried out those instructions. One of the payments, according to the document, was for $1500 and the second for $2700. They were paid, according to the affidavit, shortly after Becker was elected Sheriff with William H. Parker as his campaign manager. Parker, subsequently named commissioner of streets, has been accused in the investigation of being bribed by the so-called paving combine. Since the investigation began he has been removed as commissioner of streets and placed in charge of another department.

NOT HIS DAY TO TALK

Parker, when asked to comment, issued a statement through a clerk in which he said:

"This is not my day to talk."

Smith said he was commissioned later as a collector of graft money, 25 per cent of which he kept, 25 per cent of which went into a campaign fund and 50 per cent of which went to the Sheriff and Deputies Collier and Davis. Later, he charged, he was told Shurtleff had to be cut in.

Ormsby was an Oakland attorney before he went to Los Angeles about three years ago.

ORMSBY'S WHEREABOUTS UNKNOWN HERE

Cromwell Ormsby, former attorney for Aimee Semple McPherson, and mentioned in connection with lottery graft charges at Oakland, is in an "eastern sanitarium," suffering from a nervous breakdown and a severe attack of stomach trouble, friends here said yesterday.

Ormsby closed his law offices here more than six weeks ago and left for the East. Judd Royal, an associate, has returned to Oakland and as far as is known here, no one knows or is willing to tell where Ormsby is.

DAUNTLESS TENDERFOOT SEARCHES FOR OLD WEST

ALBUQUERQUE (N. M.) Feb. 20. (AP)—Fank J. Mullen, self-confessed eastern tenderfoot, is somewhere out on the endless plains of the Southwest today with a pack burro and a police dog as his only companions.

He set out from here yesterday much in the same manner as the picturesque old sourdoughs of another day, clad in boots, blue jeans and a lumberjack's shirt. He was carrying a bedroll, cooking utensils, provisions, a rifle, pickax and shovel in the burro pack.

"They told me the old West has disappeared," said Mullen as he started on a prospective 2500-mile trek across New Mexico, Arizona and Colorado.

"I'm going to see if I can't find it and I'm going out just as the old sourdoughs did. I'm going to knock along, picking at rocks, shooting tin cans, laying over when I want to, cook my own grub, sleep out in the open and forget about shaving."

Unlike the picturesque prospectors of the old West, Mullen is seeking neither fame nor the fortune in gold that lies in the hills of the western country. The light-haired, lanky youth, 25 years of age, is seeking to regain in the forests, deserts and mountains of the West the health he lost through strain of overwork as a steel salesman in Detroit.

"If I'm not well by the time I finish my trip," vowed the dauntless tenderfoot, "I'll just start over again."

Cliff Dweller Ruins in Mesa Verde Park Attract World Archeologists

The Most Extensive and Best Preserved Cliff Dweller Ruins in the United States are located in the Mesa Verde National Park in Southwestern Colorado. Police Get New Uniforms

January 14. Los Angeles policemen are to have fine new uniforms which will cost about $40 each. The hats are round, domeshaped and stiff with rolling brims and cords of black and gold. Coats are of navy blue cloth with large brass buttons, embossed with the insigna of the department. The usual gold stripe has been omitted from the pants so that the officers can wear them with ordinary coats as well as with their uniforms.

"LAMP" EXPLAINS SLASH IN CRUDE

New Jersey Standard Organ Defends Action

Says Revision in Interest of Conservation

Declares Price Cut Forced by Competition

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, in the current issue of its house publication, The Lamp, discusses the crude-oil situation with special reference to the recent price cuts and asserts that improvement in the industry or the solution of its important problems "cannot be realized while additions are being made to the already burdensome stocks."

"The immediate problem before the industry," says The Lamp, "is to effect a material decrease in the present surplus stock of gasoline."

The company says it accepts recent criticisms of its crude-oil price revision policy as sincere and in the interest of conservation.

CRITICS ANSWERED

"It has been represented," adds the company, "that the revision was not justified by conditions and that it would cause the withdrawal of support from the conservation movement. Whatever difference of opinion may exist as to the responsibility for the surplus stocks overhanging the market, there is a unanimity of view that these stocks are oppressively large and that if they continue to increase they will materially affect the result of this year's operations.

"The Standard Oil Company (N. J.) through its affiliated companies, in addition to its own production, is purchasing each day large quantities of crude oil at the posted prices. On the other hand, a number of other companies with refineries on the Gulf or in the Midcontinent field are producers of crude in an amount equal to or in excess of their own refinery runs. They are, therefore, more concerned with the posted price of crude as sellers than as buyers. These producer-refiners have been able to sell products at prices below the equivalent of the posted price of crude at the wells plus transportation and manufacturing costs.

ADJUSTMENT NECESSARY

"Since the only measure of the value of crude," continues The Lamp, "is the price realized for the products, the companies affiliated with the Standard Oil Company found it necessary to adjust their posted prices at which they would purchase crude to a gasoline market that had been steadily declining."

W. S. Fitzpatrick, chairman of the board of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company, said in a statement today that the refined prices initiated by the Standard were "unjustified and a backward step for the industry."

"The fact that our company continued to pay the old prices for crude oil for thirty days after the Standard made its cuts, is the best evidence that we did not consider those reductions justified," he said. "We do not think that economic conditions, nor statistics of the oil industry warranted the cuts, and we made them with great reluctance because we were forced to do so to protect our own customers."

OIL RUMOR WELL FOUNDED

Richfield-Pacific Western Discussions in Progress; Would Create Powerful Unit

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Substantial justification exists, it is understood, for the reports of negotiations between the Pacific Western Oil Corporation and the Richfield Oil Company. The rumor first arose in San Francisco a few days ago, but since that time developments have proceeded to the point where it is believed a trading basis may be reached that will warrant appraisal of physical assets and examination of financial statements.

So far the proposition is in the conversational stage, with both parties apparently recognizing certain mutual advantages to a consolidation and in the right frame of mind to talk terms. The properties are complementary in that Pacific Western is solely a producing company, and there is already a connection through the contract running eight more years under which Richfield purchases oil from Pacific Western.

WOULD SWELL RESERVES

From people familiar with both companies it is learned that the consolidation would give to Richfield crude-oil reserves equal to or larger than any other company in California with the exception of the Standard Oil Company of California. The Richfield reserves are already substantial, but Pacific Western has built up, principally through its holdings in Kettleman Hills and Elwood, properties of enormous potential value.

Asset value of Pacific Western is estimated at more than $45 a share. Its 1760 acres at Kettleman Hills, controlled jointly with the Kettleman Oil Corporation, were estimated to cover a reserve in excess of 25,000,000 barrels. One well has been drilled to the sand on this acreage but remains uncompleted in accordance with the Kettleman shut-in agreement.

At Elwood, Pacific Western holds shore and tidal acreage on which three wells have been drilled which flowed better than 11,000 barrels when opened up the other day. Its Ventura and Inglewood actual and potential production also constitute valuable assets.

From the managerial point of view, the inclusion of W. C. McDuffie, president of Pacific Western, in the Richfield management would undoubtedly be regarded as a brilliant stroke. His experience is world-wide, including service with the Royal Dutch-Shell as officer in charge of all production. He was formerly with the Shell Company of California.

McDUFFIE FACTOR

Richfield is given credit in the industry for possessing able and aggressive management, particularly in sales and financial direction, through C. M. Fuller, president, and James A. Talbot, chairman. The addition of Mr. McDuffie would round out a trio of executives difficult to equal by any other company in the business.

Through several recent trades and developments, Richfield has built up its crude-oil production and reserves to substantial figures, but its rapid marketing expansion calling for larger gasoline gallonage demands increasing insurance against a possible crude-oil shortage some time in the future. Purchase of controlling interest in Universal Consolidated Oil and the acquisition of 12,000 acres in the Lost Hills district have materially improved the company's position in this respect.

The destiny of Pacific Western, as a producing company, is manifestly as a complement to some larger unit engaged in refining, marketing and producing. Companies well represented in all phases of the business are best equipped to meet the increasing competition in petroleum and one by one the larger producing units have bowed to this trend.

Magnavox Will Reincorporate

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—The Magnavox Company is today incorporating under the laws of Delaware a new company to be known as Magnavox Company, Ltd., according to an announcement by M. W. Dobrzensky, secretary. Stock of the new company, which is no par stock, will be presently offered to stockholders in exchange for the present stock. The company announces it has decided upon the establishment of an eastern factory.

Reasons given for changing the capital structure are to facilitate activities in eastern fields and to facilitate ready participation in merger or consolidation, "if and when the occasion arises, and participation seems desirable and expedient." Mr. Dobrzensky also announced that the company had been granted a patent covering the use of a loud speaker in combination with a radio receiving circuit and a phonograph.

NEW LEADER ELECTED BY BOLSA CHICA

W. T. Ford, Chairman of Owns-Illinois Glass, to Take Vacant Post

William T. Ford, chairman of the Owens-Illinois Glass Company, has been elected president of the Bolsa Chica Oil Corporation to succeed the late Irving V. Augur, according to an announcement issued by the company yesterday. The election was held at a special meeting of the company's directors, held at Ojai. Mrs. Dora D. Augur, widow of Mr. Augur, and Ord Slater, manager of the Smith-Emery Company, were elected directors to fill the vacancies caused by Mr. Augur's death and the resignation of John B. Elliott, who was also first vice-president.

The new Bolsa Chica president, who has been a stockholder in the company for some time, was made a director last October. He maintains a winter home at Ojai and spends much of the year in Southern California. He is the largest stockholder in the Libbey-Owens Sheet Glass Company and in connection with his various business activities is well known in New York and Chicago financial circles. He was also the organizer of the Eastern Finance Corporation of Los Angeles, a closed corporation, which specializes in building finance.

According to a statement issued by the Bolsa Chica board, the oil company will carry forward the plans developed by Mr. Augur, particularly the development of the Santa Barbara tidelands.

Mr. Augur's Bolsa Chica and other holdings are controlled by a personel company, the South Pacific Oil Company. Mrs. Augur, it was reported, intends to retain the Augur holdings in the Bolsa Chica corporation and to assist in the development of the company as planned by Mr. Augur.

S. A. Reed, second vice-president and treasurer, becomes first vice-president, succeeding Mr. Elliott, and continues as treasurer, while F. B. Gormley remains as secretary of the company.

Larger Navels Top Demand on Orange Market

Improvement in the demand for large sizes of California navels is a feature of the present orange market, according to Dana C. King, orange sales manager of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange, in the advance copy of the exchange monthly, issued yesterday. A freer sale and better prices on 150's and larger has resulted from special efforts of the exchange directed to sales on large sizes, he said.

The exchange has marketed a considerably greater percentage of the California orange crop this season and a firmer stability in the market has prevailed, he stated. Comparing all auction sales with Florida sales discloses that the exchange's California fruit has been outselling Florida fruit from 80 cents to $1 a box, he states.

The lemon situation in California this year is particularly favorable, with a crop of excellent quality and picks well scattered throughout the year, the bulletin points out. Prices for the first quarter of the 1929-1930 season averaged higher than ever before and storage is still far below the average of recent years.

North American Utility Net Up

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (Exclusive) North American Company for the year ended December 31, last, in a preliminary report today announced consolidated net income of $28,806,824 after charges and depreciation, equal after preferred dividends to $5.03 a share on the average common shares outstanding, as compared with $24,402,753, or $4.68 a share on the average common shares in 1928.

The regular quarterly dividends of 2½ per cent in stock on the common and 75 cents on the preferred were declared by the directors, payable April 1 to stock of record March 5.

YOUR INCOME TAX

NO. 16

Under the Revenue Act the maximum amount which may be claimed as earned income to which a credit of 25 per cent applies is $30,000. To claim this credit on the tax due on net income in excess of $5000, the income must actually be earned by the taxpayer as "wages, salaries, professional fees and other amounts received as compensation for personal services."

The tax on an earned income of $30,000 is computed, in the case of a married person without dependents, as follows:

Net income	$30,000
Less personal exemption	3,500
Balance taxable	26,500
One-half of 1 per cent on first $4000	20
2 per cent on next $4000	80
4 per cent on remaining $18,500	740
Surtax on net income of $30,000	880
Total normal and surtax	1,720
Less 25 per cent of $1720, earned income credit	430
Balance of tax payable	1,290

A taxpayer may have earned during the year a salary of $100,000 or more, but the 25 per cent credit applies only to $30,000 of such amount.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—In two weeks—March 5—the Fox film stockholders will determine which banking group they favor in the struggle now going on for the control of the Fox organization.

Not since the fight over control of the Standard Oil of Indiana has there been such a banking contest.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Western Electric and two vice-presidents and directors of the Fox companies, Winfield Sheehan and Saul Rogers, oppose the financial plan and setup by Lehman Brothers, Bancamerica Blair, Inc., and Dillon, Read & Co., which the Fox stockholders will vote upon.

Under this plan the Fox Film Corporation would issue $65,000,000 of new securities, composed of $40,000,000 in debentures, each bond carrying warrants to subscribe to twenty-five shares of common at $20 for the first five years and $25,000,000 new 7 per cent preferred convertible into common stock starting at $25.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Western Electric oppose this proposition because both of them have fifteen-year preferential contracts, one on Fox financing and the other on Fox equipment. Under the plan submitted both of these contracts are in danger.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. have submitted a counter-proposition, providing for the issue of $40,000,000 debentures, with the remaining funds necessary to come from the sale of new common stock to the banking group.

Samuel Untermeyer, the Fox counsel, opposes the Halsey-Stuart plan as being more expensive, because it involves an issue of 350,000 to 600,000 more shares than the Lehman plan, and further provides a five-year option to Halsey, Stuart & Co. on 500,000 shares of Fox Film Corporation stock at $20 a share, in addition to the banking and underwriting commission of over $9,000,000.

So the Lehman-Dillon-Read-Bancamerica-Blair group plan has the backing of William Fox, through $975,000 will have to be paid out even if the plan is rejected by the stockholders.

So there you are. It's a battle to the bitter end.

The stocks of other amusement corporations, like Paramount, Warner's, Loew's, Radio-Keith-Orpheum, continue in active demand.

Will a major gold import movement begin in the next few weeks again?

It looks like it. Gold imports since January have been confined almost entirely to South America and Japan, but the European exchanges have steadily declined during the past sixty days to a point in several countries now where it will pay to ship the gold rather than to pay the exchange rate. Economists call it the gold point.

Should the pound sterling reach $4.95 gold probably would start moving from London to the United States.

The French situation is different. With plenty of credit still in England and the United States, France could prevent gold export; but owing to the eagerness of French banking leaders to establish Paris as an international exchange and gold market, they probably would prefer to see some gold moved back to the United States. The shipping gold point from Paris is about 3.90 cents a franc. It stands today at 3.915 cents.

Should such a condition occur and a major gold import movement start, the Federal Reserve banks could neutralize the situation of this gold by selling securities and acceptance holdings in the open market, thus preventing any inflationary move.

This is why the gold movements are being watched with particular care these days by Federal Reserve officials.

Sinclair Offer Turned Down by Rio Grande Oil

Confirming press reports from New York that C. S. Jones, vice-president of the Rio Grande Oil Company, had announced negotiations with the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Corporation have been broken off, L. M. Lockhart, vice-president of Rio Grande, at the Los Angeles offices yesterday said that Mr. Jones had telephoned that he had not received a favorable offer from Sinclair and that he was leaving New York to arrive here Saturday. Mr. Lockhart said that apparently the merger deal is definitely off and that Rio Grande Oil Company will continue operations as an independent company.

Mr. Lockhart, when asked as to the future dividend policy of the company, said that in view of the excellent showing last year the company was in a position to continue its quarterly rate of 50 cents which directors recently established with the declaration of their intention to continue it. Mr. Lockhart said he did not anticipate any stock dividend, "at least not a small one, as it involves too much clerical work and trouble in issuing scrip," he explained. Last year the company paid two stock dividends of 1½ per cent each.

The consolidated balance sheet as of December 31, last, which was released yesterday, lists total assets at $49,007,612.83, as compared with $42,589,946.36 at the end of 1928. Charges for depreciation and depletion amounted to $5,097,884.99 as against $3,015,913.85 in 1928. Cash was given at $429,737.73 as against $154,176.30; notes receivable, $81,355.81 as against $168,968.74, and inventories of crude and refined oil at the market or less, $2,186,388 against $637,330.18. Total current assets were $6,041,856.19 against $2,869,295.24 at the close of the previous year, while total current liabilities were $4,017,664.27 as compared with $2,047,201.36 at the end of 1928. Earned surplus increased from $1,799,700.38 at the close of 1928 to $4,321,911.36 at December 31, last.

Complete Tax Exemption

Interest You?

THE approach of March and the time for filing California Personal Property Tax and Federal Income Tax declarations brings forcibly to the attention of every investor the desirability of holding securities completely exempt from such taxes.

Many investors, however, hold the opinion that high-grade tax-exempt securities yield too low a return to meet their requirements. Such is not the case. Completely tax-free bonds issued by the City and County of Los Angeles and payable from direct ad valorem taxes are available to yield as high as 6%.

Indicative of current opportunities of this character is our recent offering of Los Angeles County Acquisition & Improvement District No. 70 Serial Bonds, due 1932 to 1949 and priced to yield 6%. Bonds are issued for the paving of a portion of Normandie Avenue which is now being improved as a major traffic boulevard extending from the City of Los Angeles to Wilmington.

The importance of this highway is shown by the fact that the County of Los Angeles has contributed a considerable portion of the cost from its general fund. These bonds are legal investments for savings banks, trust funds, etc., in California.

Detailed circular descriptive of this attractive 6% tax-free bond will be gladly furnished. Simply send name and address below.

BANKER STRESSES NEED OF BUDGET

Stewart McKee, vice-president of the Bank of America of California, in an address last night to the members of the California Association of Bank Auditors and Comptrollers, stressed the need of a budget in modern bank control. He pointed out that the growth in size of banks and the construction of banking systems comprising a great many units have created problems of management and administration which hitherto did not exist, and necessitated the adoption of the principles of management now successfully employed by the largest American corporations.

WESTINGHOUSE OFF

In the industrials and utilities Westinghouse Electric lost nearly 8 points, and United States Steel, American Telephone, Johns-Manville, American Tobacco, Eastman Kodak, Standard Gas, American Can, and Western Union lost about 4 to 7 points. Auburn Auto and Otis Elevator lost about 9 points each. Radio was heavily bought for a time, rising to 46 3-8, a new 1930 high, but it closed at 43½, off about 2 points net.

Wheat futures closed off 1 1-4 to 2 cents, after selling still lower and establishing new low records for the season. The decline was attributed to further pressure of offerings in foreign markets. Pressure was lifted in the corn market, and closing prices were about ¼ cent higher. Cotton declined in sympathy with wheat, and the Liverpool and Bombay markets, the latter influenced by renewed weakness in silver, but rallied as shorts covered with improved buying later in the day, and closing prices showed slight net gains.

In the foreign exchanges, the leading European rates rallied, after the steady declines to new low levels for the year during last fortnight. Sterling mounted 3-16 to $4.86 1-16 for cables, reflecting the favorable statement of the Bank of England.

$50,000.00 Vision and Courage

May secure control of a Corporation composed of New York and Montreal business executives of the highest type, who have invested $100,000.00 cash in this company, which has its first unit in Southern California. The utilization of a waste product which "processed" under our patents results in a food commodity which is in universal demand. Practically all of the griefs of a new company have been overcome, and we are now ready to "go over the top." This opportunity for someone only made possible by the recent financial upset. LOS ANGELES EXCHANGE

Stock Market Turns Suddenly Active While Prices Fluctuate Irregularly

Rio Grande, Pacific Western and Security-First National Bank yesterday featured an unusually active market on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange on which prices fluctuated in a confusing manner. Heavy trading in Pacific Finance, Southern California Edison, Transamerica and Standard Oil of California also helped to swell the value of the day's operations to a figure nearly 80 per cent higher than the preceding session.

More than 7000 shares of Rio Grande crossed the board following publication of its annual report, and the stock advanced 7-8 to 17 7-8 and ended at 17 5-8. Reports from the East indicated that the merger deal with Sinclair Consolidated has been called off. Pacific Western, linked with Richfield in merger discussions, shot up to the top for the year at 15⅛ and closed at 14 7-8, up 1 3-8 net on sales of 4000 shares.

Security-First National Bank provided a surprise by becoming suddenly active and jumped 3 points to a high and close at 113. More than 2000 shares of the stock were transferred. California Bank dropped 1½ points to 113½ while Citizens held firm at 110. Transamerica dipped ½ to 46. Pacific Finance traded to the extent of 4300 shares and yielded 3-4 to 38.

Southern California Edison dropped a point to 62 on a turnover of nearly 3000 shares and the rights fell off 10 cents to 3.50 while Pacific Public Service rallied 1 1-8 points to 36 7-8. Pacific Lighting flopped 2 1-4 points to 88 3-4, and Pacific Gas, 1 1-4 to 62½.

Standard Oil of California, on a turnover of 2500 shares, slumped to 56 and rallied to close at 56 7-8, off 3-8 net. Union Oil issues were lightly traded and held firmly while Richfield, on a very small turnover, added 1-4 to end at 22 3-4.

Douglas Aircraft and Hydraulic Brake, on brisk trading, yielded ½ each to 15 and 40 respectively. Byron Jackson firmed up ½ to 21 3-4.

Sales totaled 37,600 shares valued at $1,403,642; previous day, 32,168 shares valued at $796,291.

RUBBER MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Bringing to a termination several days of advancing prices, futures on the rubber exchange of New York today in the most active session in about a month underwent commission house selling and fell from 10 to 30 points below previous closes. Liquidation, which was heaviest at the outset, was prompted by lower cables from the London market and an easier tone in Singapore. During the day's trading, however, important buying was attributed to the operator for a large trade interest, but this only tended to check the decline somewhat and slight rallies were effected early in the afternoon. Sales amounted to 736 lots, or 1240 tons, the largest turnover since January 19. Of this total 519 lots were transacted in the morning session.

In London the spot delivery fell 1-16d to 8 3-16d. The March delivery in Singapore was quoted at 7⅝d, with the final tone of the market there easy. In the outside market here spot fell ¼c to 16⅝c.

Outside prices were:

Smoked rubbed sheets, spot, 16⅝; March, 16½; April-June, 16⅞; July-September, 17⅛.

First latex crepe, 16¾.

Clean thin brown crepe, 14½.

Amber No. 3, 14½.

Para upriver fine, 16¾.

SUGAR MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Raw sugar, 3.58; refined, 4.95.

Futures closed easy; approximated sales, 54,950 tons. March, 1.67; May, 1.77; July, 1.86; September, 1.93; December, 2.02.

FLAXSEED MARKET

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—May closed 3.01¾.

Duluth: May closed 2.99½; July, 3.00.

GASOLINE CUT

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (Exclusive) Effective today, Standard Oil Company of New Jersey has reduced the price of bulk gasoline 1-4 cent to 8 1-2 cents a gallon in tank cars at its South Atlantic seaports.

LOS ANGELES CURB

Prices moved irregularly lower on the Los Angeles Curb Exchange yesterday as the trading activity slackened to a slow pace. Practically all recessions, however, were of a fractional nature.

Fox Theaters "A" was a strong spot with an advance of 1 1-8 points to 7½ and with the exception of a small improvement marked up for a few of the penny stocks no other advances were registered. Samson Tire broke 1 point to 5 and fifty shares of United Linen preferred crossed the board at 33, marking a drop of 11½ points from previous sales some time ago.

Gladding McBean fell off 3-4 to 58 1-4 and Neon of New York, 7-8 to 14 3-8. Pacific Cottonseed Products sold for 17. Small fractional recessions were marked up for Fokker, Detroit Aircraft, Cities Service, Kinner and Kemper.

Sales totaled 42,816 shares valued at $139,600; previous day, 28,499 shares valued at $158,786.

METAL MARKETS

CLEVELAND, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Daily Metal Trade today says:

Strip steel specifications are being received in steady volume, although new business still is confined to small lots. Sheet mills at Chicago are receiving better specifications for black and galvanized sheets and operations have been stepped up to 75 per cent capacity. Buying of steel wire products continues to lag, although improvement in demand for some grades of wire is noted.

Semifinished steel shipments are extended three to four weeks in the West and buyers in the open market are being forced to await their turn on deliveries. Pig iron buying continues restricted, although shipments on contracts show some improvement.

METAL PRICES

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Copper quiet; electrolytic spot and future, 18.

Iron quiet, unchanged.

NEW YORK BOND PRICES

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Another advance by Liberties and Treasuries gave a more cheerful tone to the bond list today. Firmer tendencies were evident in the remainder of the market, although net changes were mixed. Time money remained firm.

Convertibles afforded the widest moves, turning downward in sympathy with the weakness of stocks. American Telephone 4½s lost 4¼ points net, while Atchison 4½s and International Telephone 4½s each declined 2. American International 5½s, American I. G. Chemical 5½s, the Allegheny 5s and Texas Corporation 5s sailed, with declines in the minor fractions.

Prime rails displayed considerable resistance in a generally thin market. New York Central issues were especially active, making a general upward turn. Rock Island refunding 4s, Chesapeake and Ohio 4½s, Northern Pacific prior lien 4s, Baltimore and Ohio 5s and St. Louis Southwestern 4½s also made slightly higher ground.

There were transactions of fair size in Chile Copper 5s, Goodyear 5s, International Telephone 5s, and other issues, several of which slipped off a point.

The Fourth Liberty Loan continued its recent activity, moving up 3-32 of a point, but the Treasury 3¾s displayed the best strength with an advance of ⅜. Only the Treasury 3⅜s of 1943-47 failed to show a net advance and these were down 1-32.

Traders in foreign bonds were in larger volume and prices tended higher. French bonds were firm.

An oversubscription was reported on the $16,000,000 issue of Pacific Northwest Public Service Company 6 per cent twenty-year convertible debentures.

The quotations represent sales of bonds (in thousands of dollars) and the high, low and closing prices in order given. To expedite transmission, the close is omitted when the same as the low, and both low and close when same as high.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Cotton was rather nervous and irregular today. Early declines, influenced by relatively easy Liverpool cables and weakness in wheat, were checked by trade buying and covering, but the rallies met further liquidation and some southern selling was reported. The midafternoon market was quiet and steady within a point or two of yesterday's closing quotations.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Cottonseed oil was quiet and unsettled, closing 3 to 11 points lower and at new lows for the move. March was relatively easy under commission house liquidation, while the latter months yielded on local pressure that was stimulated by the continued heaviness of outside markets, as well as tallow and crude oil. Refiners and shorts absorbed to offerings of March against sales of the latter months. The March-July difference was 60 points, the widest thus far. Sales, 9900 barrels. LONDON RATE FIRM

LONDON, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—The rate of discount of the Bank of England remained unchanged today at 4½ per cent.

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—A bear attack centering on the utilities chopped sizeable chunks from curb stock quotations today. The selling, which assumed considerable proportions in the final hour when several large blocks came out, proved fairly general, although some of the industrials and a few utilities offered stubborn resistance and closed with small net gains.

Operations for the decline showed most prominently in issues which led the recent advance. Electric Bond and Share was whittled off 4½ points and closed virtually at the bottom. American Superpower, American Gas and Electric, Central States Electric, Middle West Utilities, International Superpower and Niagara Hudson Power lost about 1 to 2 points, while Standard Power and Light dropped 5½, and Northern States Power A 3½.

The most spectacular change was in Siemens & Halske, an extremely inactive issue, which tumbled 167 points on a ten-share transaction. Deere & Co., old, another high-priced stock, fell 20 points, while the new, when issued, lost 2½. Otis Elevator, new, declined more than 3 points in sympathy with the break in the old shares on the Big Board. Republic Steel lost nearly 3 and the preferred 2. Technicolor was off 4 at the close.

Investment company shares met considerable selling and gave ground rather readily. Goldman Sachs Trading, Lehman Corporation, Marine Midland, Electric Power Associates A and National Investors were down 1 to 2½ points.

Oils held up fairly well early, but joined the downward movement toward the close. Gulf and Humble each yielded about 2 points, while Vacuum sagged a point. The Standards were firm and dull.

Miscellaneous strong spots included American Salamandra, up 3, Charis Corporation, up 2¾, Sierra Pacific Electric, up 1½, Newport, up 2, and Rike Kumler, up 1.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Western stocks today resisted the selling pressure of "secondary reactionists" in firmer fashion than Wall street shares. Sutro averages of Pacific Coast stocks slid off less than a ½ point, while Dow Jones averages of New York leaders, though not comparable on a point basis, showed a far greater decline of more than 5 points. Trading here quieted on price recessions, while Wall street activity was a bit accelerated.

Shares sold on the San Francisco Stock Exchange today were 52,3[illegible], the market value being $2,139,094. Both being lower than yesterday. Montgomery street's conclusion was that western speculators are in no hurry to take moderate profits, but would prefer to await prices more in line with appraisals on Pacific Coast prospects. Bond sales were only $2000.

Irregularity was apparent in all groups. Pacific Telephone led the utilities, up 5½

MARKET FLASHES

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (AP)—Stocks weak; many leading industrials sag 3 to 6 points.

Bonds mixed; U. S. governments advance.

Curb heavy; Electric Bond and Share loses nearly 4 points.

Foreign exchanges firm; many continental currencies show slight gains.

Cotton steady; trade support.

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Wheat lower; weak cables.

Corn firm; better cash demand.

Hogs lower.

so far as depth is concerned. The project yesterday was drilling below 9060 feet and had not yet encountered showings of oil or gas. The venture is strictly wildcat and quite a distance from any other test. It may go to 10,000 feet before stopping.

Continues Repressuring

The Union Oil Company continues to pump gas into company leases near Lompoc for the purpose of building up gas pressure to improve the possible production from a number of old wells. A short time ago the company's Purisima No. 6 blew out suddenly and yielded considerable oil for an hour or two, but it quickly subsided. Not since that occurrence has any other well showed indications of blowing out, it is asserted.

Wheat Futures Continue Drop on Bear Market

CHICAGO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Possibilities of wheat at less than a dollar a bushel in the United States this season found expression among Chicago wheat traders today. With the market here overwhelmed by stop-loss selling and showing about 12½c a bushel drop since last week as a result of severe curtailment of trans-Atlantic buying, comparisons were circulated showing that Liverpool wheat prices today were almost the same as on May 31, 1929, and that Chicago May delivery of wheat sold then at 98¼ cents. Today was the fourth consecutive day wheat values here collapsed.

Indications of crop damage in connection with present unseasonable weather led to sharp rallies of wheat prices, but the close here was nervous 1c to 2c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed unchanged to ¾c higher, with oats varying from ⅛c decline to ⅛@⅛c advance, and provisions unchanged to 20c down.

It was pointed out by one of the foremost commission houses in Chicago that Liverpool March wheat was quoted at $1.11 a bushel and May $1.16 and that on the last day of May, 1929, Liverpool May was quoted around $1.11 with Chicago selling about 17c a bushel lower. The statement was added that if Liverpool and Buenos Aires reflect world appraisal of wheat values, United States prices are now 15c out of line. Assertions were also current here from a leading British trade authority that European import buying of wheat will not again become active until April. Under such circumstances, heavy selling pressure developed in the Chicago wheat future delivery market, and season low-price records were speedily outdone.

Increasing numbers of unfavorable crop reports about domestic winter wheat were a factor tending to bring about speculative buying which had a further incentive in knowledge that wheat prices have smashed down to about 54c a bushel below the best figure for the crop.

Rapid fluctuations and big trading formed the rule here, with the maximum setback 2⅛c under yesterday's finish. North American wheat export business totaled 1,000,000 bushels, mainly Canadian.

Corn, oats and rye yielded temporarily to influence of wheat market weakness and went below any bottom price levels reached this season. Subsequently, however, corn developed relative strength owing to signs of falling off in receipts. Oats were swayed by corn.

Provisions averaged lower, sympathizing chiefly with hog market downturns.

Canadian Pacific Rail Agent Reports Keen Race

Main California Ports After Passenger Honors

Seattle Competition Against Entire Field Noted

BY WALDO DRAKE

California's two major ports, Los Angeles Harbor and San Francisco, are becoming the focal points in the race for passenger-traffic supremacy on the Pacific, fast developing among all leading maritime nations. That is the opinion of William Baird, steamship passenger traffic agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who arrived here yesterday from his Montreal headquarters on an inspection trip of all principal American ports.

"Definite efforts to stimulate activity of Pacific trade to particular ports are becoming most noticeable," said Mr. Baird. "The Seattle Port Commission, for example, has set the ball rolling to extend and enhance its functions and to try to divert from Los Angeles, San Francisco and Vancouver some of the ever-increasing traffic of these ports."

He characterized as remarkable the gains in passenger and freight traffic over the California-Hawaii-Orient route during the past three years.

"For the first time in history," continued Mr. Baird, "Japan and the United States are challenging the Canadian Pacific's white Empresses in fast trans-Pacific service. With the aid of government finance Japan is now commissioning three large new liners, while in 1932 the United States will have the first two of the new Dollar liners contesting the Empresses for premier position. The United States Merchant Marine Act of 1928 not only provides cheap loans for building new ships, but mail subsidies make it more economical for American owners to operate ships against foreign competitors."

Mr. Baird said the continuation of abnormal economic conditions in Europe serves to prolong opportunities and stimulate new trade in the Pacific area. China, he pointed out, offers unlimited possibilities for commercial development, her exports alone gaining from a total of $306,000,000 in 1913 to $509,000,000 in 1929.

With Mr. Baird is J. F. Forster, general passenger agent of Canadian Pacific Steamships, from Vancouver. They will be at the Biltmore this week and will hold several conferences with William McIlroy, local Canadian Pacific Railroad agent, before continuing to gulf ports.

RECORD LIST DUE ON LINER VIRGINIA

Bringing 591 passengers, Panama-Pacific's electric liner Virginia is due at the port tomorrow morning with the year's record for intercoastal passenger travel. Of her total list, 250 passengers are from New York, forty-five from Pennsylvania and thirty-nine from Massachusetts, with twenty-one other States and ten foreign countries included.

Californians returning include Kenneth R. Kingsbury, president of the Standard Oil Company of California, with Mrs. Kingsbury; Oscar Sutro, San Francisco attorney; Leslie W. Hills, coffee manufacturer, and Mrs. Hills; and from Los Angeles, Miss M. E. Cooper, Miss G. C. Davidge, G. E. Davidge and Mr. and Mrs. Harry S. Peterson.

Cursory examination failed to disclose any damage to the British motorship City of Lille, brought to Berth 90 yesterday after going ashore near Huntington Beach in a fog the day before. Divers still were down last night examining the ship's bottom, but prospects were declared bright that surveyors would give her a seaworthy certificate permitting her to sail today for the Orient. The Johnson motor liner Axel Johnson sailed for Europe last night after receiving temporary patches at Bethlehem yards over two holes in her fuel tanks, received when she hit Santa Rosa Island last week.

Los Angeles Steamship Company's liner City of Honolulu is due from Hawaii this morning with 373 passengers and island merchandise. She will rush cargo off and on to permit her quick turn-around, and will sail back tomorrow noon with 225 travelers for Hawaii. Passengers arriving include Spencer B. Greene, representative of the United States Department of Commerce at Montevideo, Uruguay; Richard A. Bixby, Long Beach capitalist; John Scott, Pasadena attorney, and Mrs. Mabel Hanna Parsons, daughter of the late Senator Mark Hanna. The line's steamer Diamond Head is due early next week from Hawaii with sixteen passengers and freight.

The Admiral liner Admiral Farragut will take the run of the Admiral Benson, ashore near Astoria, and will arrive here from San Francisco at 9 p.m. the 23rd inst., sailing at 8 p.m. the 25th inst., for San Francisco and Portland.

Motorship Tai-Ping Yang was back from her first trip to the Orient for the Barber Line yesterday, discharging hardwood, copra meal, porcelain and toys. She left last night for New York.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (AP)—The commander of the government vessel S-29 reported to the local branch of the United States Hydrographic Office today that while coming up the coast he sighted a wooden mast extending ten feet above the water and carrying a lantern and red flag about five miles north of Coronado. The mast, he said, apparently was part of a partially submerged wreck. Investigation into the identity of the vessel proved unavailing, and marine authorities chalked up the mast as being an indication of a mystifying sea disaster.

Closely following similar action by the Matson and Dollar lines, officials of the N.Y.K. Line today announced inauguration of a direct service between San Francisco and the Philippine Islands. The service will be started by the liner Tenyo Maru sailing from here Saturday for Manila by way of the usual Japanese and Chinese ports of call. Three steamers of the line, the Tenyo Maru, Shinyo Maru and Taiyo Maru, are scheduled to make eight calls at Manila under the company's 1930 schedule.

SEATTLE, Feb. 20.—Chartering of the steamship El Cedro from James Griffiths & Sons to carry 500,000 feet of lumber, 1000 piles and iron work to rebuild the dock at Dutch Harbor, Alaska, was announced here today by the Alaska Commercial Company. The dock was wrecked in a storm last fall. John Hirschfelder, well-known San Francisco engineer, went north in November to make a survey of work needed, returning here today on the Northwestern. The El Cedro will go on berth here March 17.

Dutch Harbor is an important port on the Aleutian Peninsula and one of the few bases of supplies for seafaring men along the hundreds of miles of coast. It is open the year around.

PORTLAND, Feb. 20.—The Kawasaki Line steamer Atlantic Maru will arrive here tomorrow with a full cargo of silk valued at about $1,500,000, from Yokohama, S. E. Semple, manager here for the Yamashita Shipping Company, agents for the "K" Line, announced today. The silk will be trans-shipped to a special train, which is scheduled to arrive at New York eighty hours after the Atlantic Maru docks here.

TACOMA, Feb. 20.—Refined copper was loaded here today by the Nelson carrier Sutherland, which shifted from Seattle late last night and sailed for New York this evening.

The McCormick freighter Celilo was in and out today, discharging California general freight before shifting to Seattle.

Then the touring car was stolen. He reported the theft to police. Yesterday he left his sedan at Francisco and Tenth streets. When he returned it was gone. He went to the Georgia-street station and discovered that Officer Tisdale had "recovered" the machine, which, according to Land's previous report, was the "stolen" car. WOMAN ARRESTED FOR DENVER POLICE

Miss Georgia Ham

Miss Georgia Ham, 25 years of age, who is said by police to have absconded from Denver with $600 worth of silverware from the home of A. B. Williams at 2025 Clarkson avenue, was taken into custody here yesterday and is being held for Denver police at the County Jail.

The arrest was made at the request of Chief of Police Reed of Denver who stated he holds a warrant charging burglary. She was employed in the Williams home as a maid, Reed said.

RETIRED OIL OPERATOR SUCCUMBS

W. M. Graham Pioneer in Petroleum Field of East and California

William Miller Graham, pioneer Southern California independent oil operator and clubman, died unexpectedly yesterday at his home, 424 North Harvard Boulevard. Although he had been in ill health several years, the end came as a distinct shock to members of his family. He was 69 years of age.

Mr. Graham amassed and lost several fortunes during his lifetime association with the oil industry. Born in Pittsburgh, he grew up in the shadows of derricks along Oil Creek in the Smoky City.

He came to California thirty years ago and acquired leases in the old Coalinga field. The holdings are now operated by the Shell Oil Company.

Ten years ago he retired and a few years later moved from Santa Barbara to Los Angeles. He was a Mason and member of the California Club, Santa Barbara Club and Pacific Union Club.

Besides his widow he leaves one son, William L. Graham of Indio, and one daughter, Mrs. Charles Dabney, Jr., of Santa Barbara.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Monday in the Hollywood Cemetery chapel under Masonic auspices, with burial in Hollywood Cemetery.

Settlement for Child's Injuries Made at Trial

Little Marion Harutunian, 4 years of age, yesterday was given $3750 damages for injuries she received when struck by a taxicab operated by the Yellow Cab Company, while crossing a street to get groceries for her mother.

The amount was agreed upon in a settlement during a recess in the trial of her $25,000 suit which began Wednesday before a jury in Superior Judge Hahn's court. The agreement brought the trial to an end.

The child had both legs broken, one of them being paralyzed.

Wife Resents Meal Meddling

Frederick W. Haas was constantly interfering with the culinary department of his home, Mrs. Zadie Eloise Haas, his wife, testified yesterday when granted a divorce by Superior Judge Hahn.

"Once, when she was frying eggs," said a woman witness for Mrs. Haas, "he took some of the grease out of the pan because he said she was using too much."

The wife declared that on one occasion Haas threw a 50-cent piece on the table and told her to go out and buy a roast. When she told him it wasn't enough money to buy a roast he told her, she said, to get out and earn it.

NOTAS TELEGRAFICAS

En mensaje de hoy recibido de Hermosillo por "Excelsior", se noticia a este diario que el gobernador de Sonora, don Francisco Elías, manifiesta que sólo ha habido siete defunciones en todo el Estado causadas por meningitis cerebro-espinal. Desmiente el referido funcionario la información enviada a la Dirección de Sanidad Pública, de que sólo en Cumpas habían fallecido de dicha enfermedad noventa y cuatro personas.

Desmiéntense los Informes de que Amanece Revolución en Portugal

LISBOA (Portugal), Febrero 20.—A raíz de un lacónico mentís dado por la policía a los que hayan asegurado que estaba en puerta un levantamiento en Portugal, los ministros de lo Interior y de la Guerra han hecho hoy tranquilizadoras declaraciones, que han aliviado notablemente la ansiedad pública.

Después de encarecerle a la nación que no haga caso de falsos reportes propalados por los enemigos del gobierno, ruegan los ministros al pueblo tenga confianza en la dictadura, que posee los medios de prevenir una restauración monárquica o un golpe de estado de los demócratas.

Muere el Ultimo Pariente Próximo de Lincoln

LEXINGTON (Kentucky), Febrero 20.—Ha bajado hoy al sepulcro la señora Emile Todd Helm, de 94 años de edad. Era media hermana de Mary Todd Lincoln, esposa del presidente mártir. Era viuda del general de brigada Hardin Helm, del ejército confederado, que fué muerto en combate. Con esta defunción, pasa a otra vida la última persona superviviente de las íntimamente ligadas con Lincoln.

Ha Sido Nombrado el Sucesor de Hughes

WASHINGTON, Febrero 20.—El Presidente Hoover acaba de nombrar a Thomas Day Thacher, que es juez del distrito sur de Nueva York, sucesor de Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., en el puesto de Procurador General de los Estados Unidos.

Thacher fué nombrado juez federal en 1925 por el presidente Coolidge.

Está Listo el Cadalso para la Señora Dugan

FLORENCE (Arizona), Febrero 20.—La señora Eva Dugan, madre de dos hijos, se prepara esta noche para asistir mañana a la cita que tiene con la muerte en la horca de la prisión del Estado en esta ciudad.

La homicida de 52 años de edad recibió esta tarde la noticia fatal, después de las últimas tentativas desesperadas que hicieron sus defensores por salvarla de la pena capital. El señor Peterson, procurador general del Estado, decretó que la apelación interpuesta por la defensa ante la suprema corte en nada afectaría el cumplimiento de la sentencia capital.

Sus defensores habían apelado de la decisión sobre normalidad de facultades mentales pronunciada en audiencia que terminó ayer. Resultaron también infructuosos los esfuerzos de última hora de los defensores, que trataron de obtener de la Junta de Indultos del Estado la suspensión de la sentencia de la condenada.

Desigual Contienda Entre un Auto y un Caballo

WALKER, Febrero 20.—Un caballo y un automóvil disputaron aquí por el derecho de vía, y, como era de esperar en conflicto tal, ganó el pleito el auto, no obstante ser caballo silvestre el equino contrincante.

Westley Quigley y Gene Selby viajaban en auto por el rancho de Lichen, cuando vieron un caballo silvestre que les interceptaba el camino. Siguieron rodando, y el caballo cargó contra ellos. Claro está que fué muerto al primer encuentro.

NOTAS LOCALES

Administrador de Hotel que Recibe un Autógrafo de Coolidge

Charles Baad, gerente del Biltmore, fué ayer objeto de la envidia de todos los coleccionadores de autógrafo, pues recibió, de manos de Calvin Coolidge, un ejemplar de "Mi Autobiografía", libro escrito por el ex-presidente.

El autor puso al libro la siguiente dedicatoria de su puño y letra: "A mi querido amigo, Charles Baad. Calvin Coolidge."

La Costa del Pacífico es Rival de Europa en lo que Atañe al Turismo

Mathew Foulds, del Hotel de Grosvenor, en Londres, que estuvo ayer alojado en nuestro Hotel Biltmore, dijo que el oeste de los Estados Unidos es el más temible rival de Europa en lo que ve al favor de los turistas.

Nos informa Foulds de que el tráfico de turistas norteamericanos en Inglaterra y la Europa continental ha disminuído tanto, que las gerencias de los más grandes hoteles de las Islas Británicas y el continente han mandado agentes a este país para animar a los yanquis a cruzar el Atlántico.

"Al llegar a Los Angeles", dice Foulds, "hallé la explicación de tamaña baja en el turismo hacia Europa. El turista norteamericano quiere ahora ver primero los Estados Unidos, comenzando por la costa occidental."

Se hallan en el Biltmore otros dos importantes gerentes de hoteles ingleses y egipcios.

El Juez dijo que debía ponérseles lumbre a los locos (The judge said that the insane people ought to have a fire). Hizo a los administradores instalar una estufa en el lugar donde los tenían (He made the managers put up a stove in the place where they were kept).

Luego fué la señorita Dix a otras poblaciones, pues quería ver cómo trataban a los dementes (Then Miss Dix went to other towns. She wanted to see how the insane people were treated). A algunos los encerrabas en celdas oscuras y húmedas (Some of them were shut up in dark, damp cells). A un joven lo tenían encadenado con un collar de hierro en el pescuezo (One young man was chained up with an iron collar about his neck).

BRIDGE PLEA RENEWED

Efforts of Atwater residents to obtain a footbridge across the Los Angeles River to gain access to the Griffith Park playgrounds, first started more than a year ago, were renewed yesterday by the Atwater Improvement Association, assisted by Councilman Randall, before the Playground and Recreation Commission, which referred the matter to the superintendent for a report. The City Engineer's office estimates the cost at $9000 and Councilman Randall wanted to know if the City Council approved the plan would the playground department share the cost.

CANFIELD ESTATE WINS

Appellate Court Upsets Ruling Giving $111,809 to Son and His Two Children

Decision that $111,809.57, the profit from the sale of certain bonds and shares of stock left by the late Charles A. Canfield, represented increased market value of the property left by the decedent and must be considered a part of the estate was handed down yesterday by the District Court of Appeal.

The court ruling was on an appeal by Charles A. Canfield and the Security Trust and Savings Bank, trustee, from that portion of an order by Superior Judge Guerin settling an account and which said that the sum is not part of the estate but constitutes an accumulation of income in the hands of the trustee.

As an accumulation of income, in accordance with the terms of the will, the money would have been distributed to Charles O. Canfield, a son of the decedent, and his two children. They receive the net income from the estate.

The total value of the estate was in the neighborhood of $1,000,000.

K. P. TO ENTERTAIN

West Coast Lodge, No. 353, Knights of Pythias, will play host to fellow-members of the order and their wives tomorrow evening at a Washington's Birthday reception and ball in the Municipal Auditorium at Culver City. The affair will be featured by several short patriotic addresses. Chancellor Commander Claude C. Lint, Past Chancellor Roy S. Stockton, C. F. Colston, Charles Baughman and Tom Allen comprise the arrangement committee.

BUNKER HILL GROUP ASKS COUNTY AID

Supervisors Urged to Give $5000 Toward Survey on Reduction of Grade

In a communication received yesterday by the Board of Supervisors, the county and city are requested to contribute $5000 toward a survey to determine the feasibility of lowering the territory known as Bunker Hill to the level of adjacent property in the downtown district.

The request was made by an organization known as the Bigelow plan, which, it is said, plans to lower the hill between Figueroa and Hill streets and from Sunset Boulevard to Fifth street.

If the project is determined to be feasible, it was stated, property owners in the affected area will be asked to dispose of their holdings to a syndicate or take stock in the concern which is planning the improvement.

The Supervisors referred the communication to County Counsel Mattoon for legal advice.

STANBERRY FOLK TO MEET

A basket dinner and program will be given by the Stanberry (Mo.) Society next Sunday at the south entrance of Sycamore Grove Park, it is announced by Mrs. Glenn W. Butler, secretary.

OIL-GAS CURB TASK PUSHED

Fact-Finding Group Fixes Signal Hill Program and Prepares to Act on Santa Fe Springs

The fact-finding committee of petroleum engineers, which is acting in an advisory capacity to the general committee on oil curtailment in California, called a meeting yesterday. The members convened in the assembly-room of the California Oil and Gas Association late in the afternoon in the expectation of working far into the night, in order to make recommendations today as to future curtailment to be based on the recent six-day flow tests.

Before adjournment for dinner the committee made known that it had reached a definite conclusion concerning production at Signal Hill between now and April 30, next, and was ready to take up Santa Fe Springs. It was announced, however, that no figures will be given out until after the fact-finding group's recommendations have been transmitted to the general committee for ratification.

It was not expected that the fact-finding committee would be able to hold a meeting yesterday, as it was doubtful as to whether the umpires would have their figures concerning the six-day flow tests ready. They succeeded in winding up their reports, and the situation was regarded as being so urgent that the committee went into session forthwith.

Inasmuch as there are only sixty-eight more days to go in the present production curtailment period for which a large majority of the oil producers signed up prior to the 1st inst., leaders in the industry believe that there is a good prospect for accord concerning the new field potentials to be fixed today or tomorrow by the general committee, and that the curtailment program will continue in full force until the overproduction crisis is past.

The Santa Fe Springs field started

COL. LINDBERGH HOPEFUL FOR GLIDER-TEST BREEZE

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is expecting freshening winds from yesterday's light rainstorm to make possible soaring glider flights at San Diego.

He denied, however, press reports from San Diego stating that he is going to San Diego with the purpose of assisting Hawley Bowlus, American glider champion, in bringing to America all the world's gliding records, now held by Germany.

"Records are secondary," Col. Lindbergh stated. "I will assist Mr. Bowlus in any way that I can, but I have not been informed of any plans to break Germany's records.

"That would be, in fact, quite a task, as they certainly have some fine pilots over there.

"I expect to go to San Diego, possibly within the next two days. A wind of at least fifteen miles an hour will be necessary—one that will hold steady for several hours."

Rain and a low ceiling held Col. Lindbergh on the ground yesterday, while Jerry Vultee, chief engineer of the Lockheed Aircraft Company, continued adjustments on the new adjustable temperature speed cowling on the colonel's new Sirius monoplane.

Bowlus received incorporation notice yesterday for the glider com-

COOLIDGES VIEW ISLE'S CHARMS

Stay on Catalina Will End This Afternoon

Former President and Wife Guests on Mt. Ada

Voyage Over Takes on Real Sea-Trip Aspects

BY GUY C. STAFFORD
"Times" Staff Correspondent

AVALON (Santa Catalina Island) Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—After a day spent viewing submarine gardens from a glass-bottomed boat and seeing other wonders of this Pacific isle as the guests of William Wrigley, Jr., former President and Mrs. Coolidge announced tonight they will return to the mainland tomorrow evening.

The Coolidge party will embark at 4 p.m. tomorrow on the steamer Catalina, flagship of the Wrigley fleet, and about 7 p.m. will return again to the Biltmore suite. Until time of departure, however, the party will visit the bird farm, tour skyline drive and see Middle Ranch where, it is expected, luncheon will be served.

LIVELY OCEAN TRIP

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, with Mr. Wrigley, visited and inspected the island's $2,000,000 pleasure casino on the waterfront, which, for the occasion, was ablaze with thousands of many-colored lights. They returned to the Wrigley home atop Mount Ada early for retirement.

The "voyage" of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge across the channel today was enlivened by all the features of an ocean trip—a stiff, salty breeze, drizzling rain and a choppy sea that lifted and rolled the steamer. The rain continued until late this afternoon, when warm sunshine bathed the party. The steamer was in full-dress and flags afiutter.

RESIDENTS LINE STREET

In deference to the request of Mr. Coolidge, no formal reception was attempted at the pier, and only the host awaited them as they left the boat. Residents of the island, however, lined the streets through which the two cars carrying the Coolidges and Mr. and Mrs. George M. Reynolds of Chicago hurried to the Wrigley residence atop Mt. Ada.

After lunch, which was extremely informal, the party met the photographers and posed on the steps and balconies of the palatial home for a number of pictures. Mr. Coolidge also obliged the news reel operators by discussing the view of the harbor and asking the chewing-gum magnate several questions relative to his 48,430-acre holdings.

Then followed the thirty-minute special boat ride during which the various kelps and mosses that lie on the ocean bottom and the many kinds of fish that inhabit the crystalline waters were explained to the Coolidges. Both showed extreme interest in the growths and asked several questions of the lecturers.

DIVER INTERESTS THEM

The exhibition of deep-sea diving by Harry Boosinger, professional, drew the closest attention of both Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge, and a remark by Wrigley that the expert holds a record of three minutes, twenty-one seconds playing around under water drew a word of praise from both.

Mr. Coolidge was noticed timing the diver as he stayed under the boat and after the exhibition said he had remained there for one minute, twenty-eight seconds. Mrs. Coolidge appeared greatly relieved when Boosinger completed his exhibition and climbed back into the boat.

Accompanying the Coolidges on the boat trip were Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Wrigley, Mrs. Sarah Wrigley and E. M. Renton, superintendent of the island company.

COOLIDGE ON BRIDGE

On the trip from Los Angeles Harbor the Coolidges were accompanied by J. H. Patrick, personal representative of Wrigley and president of the Santa Catalina Island Company. They occupied the private Wrigley cabin on the steamer. The former President stood on the bridge with Capt. Leisk as the tourist boat moved through the channel and, although the drizzle was insistent, braved the storm to acknowledge the salutes and cheers given him from vessels at anchor. During the remainder of the cross-channel journey the distinguished party remained in their quarters.

HOTEL MANAGER GETS BOOK BY AUTHOR COOLIDGE

Manager Charles Baad of the Biltmore was envied by all autograph collectors yesterday. For he received a copy of "My Autobiography" from the hands of the author, Calvin Coolidge.

Author Coolidge inscribed the book, "To my dear friend, Charles Baad—Calvin Coolidge."

War Mothers in Deal With Theater Group

A deal whereby Loyal Chapter of the American War Mothers has taken over the Civic Repertory Theater, players and all, for a period of three months or longer, was announced yesterday by officers of the women's organization. The arrangement provides that the war mothers are to underwrite the shows and net proceeds will be turned over to the welfare fund for the relief of disabled war veterans and their families.

The first performance under the auspices of the mothers' group will be given Friday evening, March 7, at the Hollywood Music Box Theater, where the repertory company has been playing for several weeks. Stars of stage and screen are expected to be present at this performance.

An arrangement also has been made with the government, the announcement stated, which provides for distribution of tickets C.O.D. by mail.

CANCER RESEARCH AIDED

W. K. Kellogg, Cereal Manufacturer, Endows Clinical Study of Coffey-Humber Treatment

A substantial endowment by W. K. Kellogg, cereal manufacturer of Battle Creek, Mich., for a cancer research foundation in Southern California to investigate further the scientific secrets of the Coffey-Humber cancer extract was announced yesterday by Dr. Percy T. Magan, president of the College of Medical Evangelists.

The amount of the Kellogg endowment was not announced, but Dr. Magan said it "is no small trust and is sufficient to carry on the work in Southern California." Research under the foundation is expected to become active within two weeks, he said.

DIRECTORS OF FUND

Dr. Magan announced that the Kellogg fund is to be incorporated in trust and administered by the following directors: Dr. Newton Evans, dean of the College of Medical Evangelists, which is associated with the White Memorial Hospital; Dr. Benton Colver of the faculty; Dr. George Thomason, head of the department of surgery; Frank Corson, chairman of the board of trustees of the college, and himself as head of the institution and faculty.

In making the announcement Dr. Magan expressly stated that neither he nor his colleagues wished to arouse high hopes in the many cancer sufferers, nor did he wish it understood that the extract is a cure for the dread disease; it is not so regarded, he said, and only minute research of the myriad scientific problems and time will provide a verdict.

MUST BE PROVED

"It would be a desperately bad thing," he said, "for the treatment to be now regarded as a cure-all, and the research foundation misunderstood as a clinic for all cases. It is true we have seen some seem-

WATER GROUPS GET NEW HOPE

Compromise Believed Near on River Problem

Demands of Metropolitan District Reduced

Formula for Division of State's Share Changed

An entirely new formula as a possible basis for agreement between the California groups interested in securing water from the Colorado River, and a reduction to 880,000 acre feet of water in the demands of the Metropolitan Water District featured the meeting of committees representing the cities and agricultural groups yesterday.

Just what the proposed new formula is was left to conjecture. Prof. Franklin Thomas, Pasadena's member on the board of directors of the Metropolitan Water District and one of the committeemen at yesterday's conference, proposed the new formula.

"What we are trying to get away from in proposing the new formula is the labeling of the waters of the river," is all that Prof. Thomas would say as to what the formula is, adding "We are approaching the problem from an entirely new angle."

HOPES AROUSED

Whatever the formula is, it apparently has made an appeal to the two groups at the conference, for they adjourned last night in good spirits, some even expressing confidence that the two groups can get together. John Bullock and Harry Heffner, particularly, on the Metropolitan committee, said they felt quite optimistic as to the final outcome.

The supposition on the formula is that the conferees are going to try the method of dividing the water allocated to California without specifying to begin with the kind of water it is to be. That is to say, California is allotted 4,400,000 acre feet of titled or "A" water, then 500,000 acre feet of "B" water, and then she can have one-half of the surplus water. It is supposed that the new formula lumps all of the water in the river together, divides it among the groups, and then the question of what kinds of water each group is to get and in what proportion, will be decided later.

BOTH SIDES YIELD

The proposal of the new formula followed announcement by the Metropolitan group that they thought they could finance their project—the Colorado River aqueduct—if they had 880,000 acre feet of water allotted them. They have held in the past that they would have to have 1,100,000 acre feet. The Imperial Valley and allied agricultural groups formerly had yielded about 550,000 acre feet of water from their original demand of 4,400,000 acre feet—the entire block of Class A water to be given California.

The fact that the Metropolitan district expressed its willingness to yield about 20 per cent of its estimated requirements for water was made known to the press when the meeting took the noon recess. According to unofficial reports some confusion as to the intention or attitude of the Metropolitan district on this point has unwittingly existed in the minds of those representing the agricultural group. The Metropolitan people thought they had expressed themselves on this point before, but yesterday was the first time that the ranchers understood that the cities were willing to concede this amount of water.

The conferees will resume their deliberations on the proposed new formula this morning at the Governor's office. Each group is being represented by a full committee.

ORGANIZATION FORMED TO STUDY WATER PROBLEM

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

GLENDALE, Feb. 20. (Exclusive) Officials of ten Southern California cities in the Metropolitan Water District tonight met in the banquet hall of Grand Central Air Terminal and formed an organization to study problems connected with bringing water from the Colorado River to the Southland.

Mayor C. E. Kimlin of Glendale was elected temporary chairman, President W. J. Sanborn of the Los Angeles City Council was elected vice-chairman, and City Manager J. W. Charleville of Glendale was chosen secretary. Mayor Kimlin was authorized to appoint a committee to form a permanent organization for the next meeting.

Kimlin outlined the objects of the BANK robberies and hold-ups are becoming so frequent that it's tedious to read about them. But, by gosh! there are criminals that we just pull in our belts and catch, whether or no.

As, for instance, the white boy who has been "apprehended" and is to be brought back to California to answer for the crime of marrying a Chinese girl. Just why he shouldn't marry a Chinese girl is not clear.

The laws against such intermarriages oozed from the foul mouth of a sand-lot agitator named Denis Kearney—he was the one who stirred up the anti-Chinese riots of early California. I know a number of charming, highly educated Chinese girls whom anybody would be lucky if he could marry.

NICE PEOPLE

Col. Lindbergh and other celebrities who balk at newspaper interviewers would do well to study the movements of Calvin Coolidge.

The Coolidges would have had a better time if they could have come to Los Angeles as "just folks." All this hullabaloo is a nuisance and a bore to them—whatever they say about it.

But it would be hard to imagine any conduct more gracious than theirs. They have yielded to the inevitable like good sports. They pay the debt they owe to fame the same as they pay their grocery bills. And if you can imagine Cal with an unpaid grocery bill . . .

HUGHES AND WASHINGTON

I reel from the shock of discovering that George Washington wrote poetry in his old age. Except for that, I am for George.

Incidentally, Maj. Rupert Hughes's third volume of his remarkable biography of Washington has been issued. It is amazing that, at first, this work was received with gooseflesh and horror by some of the patriotic societies who preferred to think of Washington as a stuffed prophet rather than as a strong, virile, masterful, aggressive character.

To the laurels that Maj. Hughes has gained in literature as a result of this work I think he deserves a patriotic laurel for having rescued one of the most interesting and human of our national heroes.

Down here, in a scared whisper, I always, as a child, had contempt for the George Washington they told about in school. He seemed like a grown-up Rollo of the Sunday-school reward-of-merit books. I can imagine the frozen horror of our first real estate subdivider if—in spirit land—he reads some of those books about himself. If Gen. Washington were alive right now he would probably be living in California as the head of an oil company, and with a new real estate tract ready for the market.

Rain Postpones Flyers' Tribute

Rain caused the postponement yesterday to next Monday afternoon of ceremonies by a fifteen-plane squadron from Los Angeles Metropolitan Airport that planned to strew flowers on the ocean over the spot where Pilots Ross Cook and Hallock Rouse met their death in a head-on air collision two miles off Point Vicente.

Waldo Waterman, manager of the local airdrome, said yesterday's low ceiling and rain would have made formation flying hazardous.

Relatives of the two pilots will participate in the ceremony.

JULIAN ACTION ARGUED TODAY

Order Quashing Suit Against Exchange to be Sought

Lewis Takes Stand Monday for More Questioning

Source of Attorneys' Fees Subject of Inquiry

Arguments on motions to quash will be made today in behalf of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange in Superior Judge Tappaan's court in the $15,000,000 action brought by stockholders of the Julian Petroleum Corporation against the exchange and a group of local stockbrokers.

With the arguments expected to occupy the entire court day, S. C. Lewis, former president of the defunct oil corporation, will not return to the witness stand, which he left last evening after three and a half full days of cross-examination, until Monday morning.

Lewis took the stand following Jacob Berman, and under direct examination by Attorneys Guy H. Crump and Joseph L. Lewinson for four days gave a deposition for use in the civil action when that matter comes up for trial. Then questioned by Walter K. Tuller, counsel for the stock exchange, his cross-examination got under way.

FOUR MORE DAYS

At the close of court yesterday Tuller announced that his examination was completed and Monday morning when Lewis again takes the stand he will be questioned by H. T. Morrow representing a number of brokers named in the stockholders' action. It is expected that at least four days will be required to complete the examination.

Yesterday most of the court day went to the introduction of advertisements written by Lewis, which appeared in various local newspapers during 1926.

During the morning session Lewis was questioned relative to his connection with the California Stock Exchange and H. R. Rule & Co., brokers. The witness denied any official connection with the exchange or the brokerage house but admitted that at one time he had owned and sold a number of seats on the California Stock Exchange and had advanced money to H. R. Rule & Co., for which he was to receive a one-half interest in any profits of that company.

SOURCE OF FEES

Late in the day Lewis was questioned about who paid the attorneys' fees for the stockholders in their action and stated that he had never advanced any money to Attorney Joseph L. Lewinson and that to his knowledge the California Stock Exchange had not paid any portion of the attorneys' fees in the present action.

It was while Lewis was testifying relative to how Crump and Lewinson had been paid for their legal services in the action that Lewinson informed the court that he had not received any money from Lewis or the California Stock Exchange.

During the first few days of his testimony Lewis declared that he had solicited funds from various former Julian stockholders to advance the present action and defray expenses both legal and otherwise. The money collected by Lewis, the testimony developed, went through various stockholders' committees to the firm of Hewitt, McCormick & Crump.

BERMAN AND GETZOFF APPEAR FOR TRIAL TODAY

Showdown on several matters involving Jacob Berman and Ben Getzoff is scheduled to take place in Superior Judge McComb's court this morning.

Berman and Getzoff are scheduled to appear for trial on an old indictment charging that they bribed former Dist.-Atty. Keyes to "lay down" on the prosecution of Berman when the latter was brought to trial in the Julian stock overissue cases. The things that will be decided this morning might be listed as follows:

(1.) If the charges against Berman and Getzoff are dismissed, Getzoff will walk out of court without fear of further prosecutions. Convicted with Keyes and Ed Rosenberg a year ago on a conspiracy charge, he was granted probation when he turned State's evidence and testified at the trials of former Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Davis and Chief Trial Deputy McKay.

(2.) Berman's appearance in court will definitely establish whether he intends to "blow the lid off the Julian case" as he announced he intended to do when he was thrown in jail for contempt of court last Monday. Released on bail Wednesday, he, though in a considerable less vociferous manner, maintained he intended to "talk" as soon as an interview could be arranged with Dist.-Atty. Fitts. Fitts is scheduled to be in court this morning.

The District Attorney's office is known to favor dismissal of the charges against Berman and Getzoff, on the ground that both have been used as State's witnesses in obtaining the conviction of corrupt officials, but Judge McComb has indicated that he wants to hear their reasons in open court before ordering the dismissal.

DEAF MEETING SET

Mrs. Theodore Poindexter of San Francisco, vice-president of the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing, is expected to arrive here tomorrow for a series of conferences with the Los Angeles League for the Hard of Hearing and other allied groups. She will have headquarters at 2026 West Ninth street.

EVA TANGUAY TO SELL PALATIAL HOME

Actress Plans Theatrical Tour After Disposing of Property

Vaudeville Star's Residence
Tanguay home at Toluca Lake with inset showing Eva.

EVA TANGUAY, vivacious vaudeville actress, is going to sell her $45,000 home on Toluca Lake and its $50,000 worth of furnishings and objets d'art, and by next week will have left Los Angeles preparatory to going back on the road again, she announced yesterday.

The furnishings of her ten-room home have been moved to Netzel & Netzel Studios, 245 North Vermont avenue, where Auctioneer Albert H. Weil will begin selling them at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Weil will dispose of the home, a Spanish place at 9936 Toluca Lake avenue, later. Some of the actress' silk costumes in which she added to her fame will be disposed of during the auction.

Miss Tanguay came here with a new husband early in 1927 and established a home, but within a few months she began an annulment suit charging that she had been deceived by her husband. She complained that she was married to her piano accompanist on the stage and that at the time she believed him to be Allen Parado, son of a prominent vaudeville director. She then learned, she said, that he was known also by the name Alexander Brooke and finally that his real name is Chandos Ksiazkiewicz, a Hungarian.

Dates Set for Dedication of Temple Israel

Temple Israel of Hollywood, on Ivar street, will be dedicated March 13, Rabbi Isadore Isaacson announces. The opening exercises will be conducted at Hollywood Music Box at the same time that the Temple Brotherhood and Sisterhood give their Purim theater party.

March 14 ceremonies will be conducted at the temple, when the ark, donated by Mr. and Mrs. Sol Wurtzel, together with other gifts from friends of the temple, will be presented.

INQUIRY ORDERED ON CANYON GRAVE

Capt. Bright of the Sheriff's homicide detail yesterday ordered an investigation into the finding of a number of bones believed to be those of humans which were found by a county road gang near the detention camp in Bouquet Canyon late last Wednesday. The bones were uncovered under about two feet of soil.

DISMISSAL UPHELD

Removal by Chief Scott of Fireman Cox from the department on charges that he has failed to pay bills for necessities of life was approved by the Fire Commission yesterday. The commission has taken the stand to discharge those failing to pay for necessities but holds creditors must take their own risks in selling luxuries to firemen.

Sheriff Urges Increased Pay for Constables

Increased salaries for the constables in eight townships of the country was asked of the Board of Supervisors yesterday by Sheriff Traeger.

A 25 per cent increase in the work of the constables was given as the reason for the request. The present salary of the constables is $140 a month. Sheriff Traeger asked that their remuneration be increased to from $190 to $200 a month.

The Supervisors referred the request to the County Efficiency Bureau.

Business School Plans Expansion

With the leasing of floor space to accommodate ten additional classrooms and a library, Woodbury College yesterday launched an expansion program that will give it two entire floors in the building at 727 South Figueroa street. The new quarters on the ground floor will be ready for occupancy March 17. Seven instructors will be added to the staff and more than 1500 books to the library.

President R. H. Whitten announces the extra space will house the degree-course department, which embraces business administration, higher accountancy and secretarial science divisions.

Modern Business Trend Discussed

"Increased wages, shorter hours and improved working conditions have proved their practicability in increased profits and production," said Monroe Butler of the California Reserve Company, in a talk yesterday to members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. G. C. Gearheart of the Hammond Lumber Company spoke on opportunities in foreign markets for young business men.

Eric Pedley, noted polo player and a director of the junior chamber, introduced members of the Argentine polo team. The meeting was in charge of Halsey Denman, vice-president.

NEW TRUCK APPROVED

Approval of the purchase of one motor propeller, tractor drawn, six-wheel city service truck from the Seagrave Corporation, lowest bidder, was given by the Fire Commission yesterday for the action of the city purchasing department. The price of the truck is $11,490.

GLAB CASE TESTIMONY SCRUTINIZED

Circumstantial Evidence Will Warrant Indictment of Two, Officials Say

Sufficient circumstantial evidence to warrant an indictment of two in the Glab murder case has been compiled and will be presented to the grand jury next week, according to a statement made yesterday by the District Attorney's office. Dep. Dist.-Atty. Jordan and Detective Lieutenants Sanderson and Jones of the police homicide detail are going over all the written testimony taken immediately after the murder of John R. Glab on June 18, 1928. That of Mrs. Hazel Glab, the widow, and of Miss Ethel Kaser, a niece, who were in the Glab home at the time the shot was fired, according to the officers, is being scrutinized closely.

According to Jordan every former witness in the case will be requisitioned or summoned before the grand jury when the District Attorney's office gets ready to start with the case.

cutting back production Wednesday, after the flow tests ended, and yesterday it was running 201,000 barrels. It was reported that Signal Hill and Seal Beach also had started pinching down their output.

ARGUMENTS END IN FIGHT ON NEW LAW

Arguments before Superior Judge Hazlett for and against California's newly enacted Gas and Oil Conservation Act ended late yesterday. The judge took his decision on the validity of the new law under submission until March 12, next, at 10 a.m.

The arguments before the court were made at the hearing on the petition of the State for an injunction to restrain oil operators in the Santa Fe Springs field from wasting natural gas in the production of petroleum. It required three weeks to present them.

Should Judge Hazlett decide that the new law is constitutional, the hearing will proceed with the taking of testimony. Geologists, engineers and other experts will be placed on the witness stand by the State to prove that millions of cubic feet of natural gas are being wasted every day in the Santa Fe Springs field, which wastage can be stopped by the establishment of a gas-oil ratio in the field, that is, permitting only a certain number of cubic feet of gas to escape with the production of each barrel of oil.

Should Judge Hazlett find that the new law is unconstitutional, then the court proceedings will end at once.

A vigorous attack on the validity of the new law was made by Attorneys Walter Haas, William B. Murphy and Neil McCarthy, representing a group of the smaller oil companies in the Santa Fe Springs field. The law was upheld by Attorneys James S. Bennett and George R. Larwill, representing Fred F. Stevenot, director of natural resources, who began the action in behalf of the State.

COOLIDGE ASKED TO DEDICATE DAM

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20. (AP)—President Hoover today dispatched a telegram to former President Coolidge asking him, if convenient, to go to Arizona and dedicate the Coolidge Dam.

The dam, on the Gila River, was constructed during Mr. Coolidge's administration and named in his honor. It supplies water for one of the largest reclamation projects ever built by the United States government.

When asked at Catalina Island if he will accept President Hoover's suggestion, Mr. Coolidge yesterday said he has not yet received the telegram mentioned in the Washington dispatch, adding he will give out a statement after its delivery.

ingly favorable results from the extract, but the scientific problems that remain to be investigated are all-important and must be proved in every instance before the extract is given to the world."

The discoverers of the extract—which is taken from suprarenal glands—are Drs. Walter B. Coffey and John D. Humber, chief surgeon and assistant chief surgeon, respectively, of the Southern Pacific Company at San Francisco. Dr. Magan and his associates are working in conjunction with those surgeons.

SEEKS NATIONAL BOARD

Under the Kellogg foundation Dr. Magan said that conduct of the research is to be guided by a committee of physicians of national standing, the personnel of which is to be determined later. He said he has hopes that well-established medical societies will name the physicians and surgeons for the committee, "through which it is hoped ultimately to obtain "a scientific verdict by scientific men."

Dr. Magan has known Dr. Coffey, one of the discoverers, since 1888, and it is through that friendship that their connections in the research work have been made. Other physicians of the board have known Dr. Coffey for approximately thirty years.

FINANCIAL AID GIVEN

After the existence of the extract became known publicly in San Francisco, Dr. Coffey consulted with Dr. Magan and others of the college and the associated White Memorial Hospital to determine if they would undertake research with the extract in Southern California.

During those consultations Kellogg was apprised of the extract and its possible usefulness and agreed to give financial aid to the physicians and surgeons for further study and investigation, thus the W. K. Kellogg Foundation for Cancer Research came into being.

Dr. Magan said that sufferers from cancer will be chosen to aid the research under plans yet to be determined and announced—but meanwhile he desires that the extract be regarded calmly as only in the first stages of research, demanding broad and careful scientific inquiry—and not an invincible cure for the dread malady.

"Surely," he said, "it is most evident that any research work which will bring hope or relief or amelioration from suffering to patients afflicted with this terrible and up to the present almost utterly hopeless disease will be of infinite value to the human race."

MORE THAN 500 BEING TREATED WITH EXTRACT

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Dr. Walter B. Coffey, co-discoverer with Dr. John D. Humber of a new treatment for cancer, disclosed today that more than 500 cancer sufferers are being treated with the cancer extract. Six patients, bedridden at the St. Francis Hospital, he said, were so improved they were released today and are now "up and around." They will receive further treatment at the Southern Pacific general hospital clinics.

Dr. Coffey appealed to the people of San Francisco who can afford it to subsidize the University of California and Stanford hospitals so these institutions may carry investigations of the extract. He announced the College of Medical Evangelists in Southern California has promised a $300,000 endowment to investigate the extract.

Mrs. Gertrude Edwins, brought here in a plane from Wenatchee, Wash., by her husband, Irving Edwins, to receive the treatment, was reported today as "pretty good," but her condition was still "very serious."

Prayers for the success of the extract were offered today by the congregation of Grace Cathedral, seat of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of California.

COFFEY ACCEPTS SENATE'S INVITATION

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Dr. Walter B. Coffey, co-discoverer with Dr. John D. Humber of an extract for cancer treatment, today announced acceptance of an invitation to appear before a Senate committee considering means of government aid in finding a cancer cure. He said:

"I do not know just when we can go; we are so busy."

EMPLOYEE-RESIDENCE ORDINANCE UP TODAY

The City Council this morning will take up consideration of the ordinance which will require city employees to maintain their residences within the boundaries of the municipality. This proposed ordinance has been opposed by numerous employees whom it will affect. The Los Angeles Municipal Engineers' Association yesterday filed with the Council a resolution opposing the ordinance.

admitted making in their testimony Maxwell, accused of grand theft, Billie Packer, 20 years of age, and Shirley O'Farrell, 25, both of 424 North Coronado street, were sent to County Jail for six hours each by Municipal Judge Turney yesterday when he found them guilty of contempt of court. Judge Turney also instructed Stahlman to ex- of their testi- to filing perjury in her testimony said that the lat- and Miss O'Farrel home January 28, last, he took a $125 finger and also took purse, which she had to pay for gasoline which she purchased. He left their apartment at 8 a.m. next day, she said, and did not return. Her testimony was corroborated by Miss O'Farrell.

On the stand yesterday, both girls admitted that Maxwell, after leaving their apartment with Miss O'Farrell, returned a few minutes later and took them to work about noon. Judge Turney, after finding the two girls guilty of contempt, dismissed the charges against Maxwell, after excoriating the latter for his actions with regard to the girls.

ANGELS HELD TO BLAME FOR SECT LEADERS' ACTS

Angels were blamed for a lot of things yesterday in Superior Judge Fricke's court.

Mrs. May Otis Blackburn, religious leader charged with grand theft, testified that she didn't do a number of things, but when confronted with documentary evidence that she did, her reply was:

"Well, I didn't do it; it was the angels that dictated that it should be done; it was God's work and I was only the medium."

The angels were a distinct financial debit as far as she was concerned, Mrs. Blackburn's testimony indicated. When they started dictating and she started writing it down, their command was that the pen should be used only in the service of the Lord.

ANGELS CAUSE LOSS

She had, she said, a house and a number of lots in Portland, Or., and her agent wrote her that something must be done about a mortgage promptly or there was danger of losing the entire property, but she was unable to answer the letter because the angels were dictating. It was not disclosed what eventually happened to the property, but its value was set in the neighborhood of $25,000.

Divine command also ordered that Mrs. Blackburn's followers "separate" themselves from donations before she could accept them, according to her testimony. Mrs. Blackburn testified that she did not take a check from a certain person but when shown her indorsement, she explained that the check was laid upon the ground by the donor before she picked it up. In the matter of Clifford Dabney, complaining witness, who testified that he gave her a deed to an $18,000 oil royalty while she was sitting in an automobile, she explained that she moved over and Dabney put the deed on the seat beside her from which she retrieved it.

"LORD'S FURNITURE"

"You say you didn't own the 'Lord's furniture' that was a part of your church furnishings?" questioned Dep. Dist.-Atty. Ferguson.

"No, I didn't."

"Well, who did own it then?"

"The Lord."

It developed, however, that the material deed was once in Mrs. Blackburn's possession and later in the name of one of her followers.

Mrs. Blackburn's cross-examination is expected to be finished this morning. A final surprise witness is then promised by Defense Attorney Cochran before he closes his case.

CLARA BOW RETURNS TO HOLLYWOOD

Actress Says She's Still Engaged to Richman and Will Wed Him in April

Clara Bow, red-headed screen actress, returned to Hollywood last night more than ever engaged to Harry Richman, New York nightclub owner, who recently made his motion-picture debut. She came back with a gorgeous new marquise diamond engagement ring, "twice as big as the other one."

"Certainly we're still engaged and we're going to get married, too," Miss Bow declared last night as she stepped from the Chief, and showed the new ring. "The reason we didn't get married while I was in New York was because the newspapers bothered us too much and weren't a bit nice to us."

Richman, she said, expects to come back to Hollywood in April for another picture.

"When he gets back we will make our plans for our wedding," she said. "We want to be married quietly and that's the way we intend to do it."

The actress said they had planned to slip away from New York and go to Miami, Fla., to get married, but that Paramount-Famous-Lasky insisted on her immediate return to start her new talkie.

Two other things happened to Miss Bow while she was vacationing in New York. First of all she lost twenty-five pounds on the trip and now tips the scales at 110. Secondly, she had a narrow escape in New York from being permanently scarred about her face. She fell asleep under a violet-ray light and was badly burned, she said, but her physicians saved her face from being marred.

BISHOP URGES CHURCH TO STICK TO RELIGION

Declaring that the enthusiastic spirit which marks the activities of Kiwanis and Rotary in fraternal and commercial activities, if manifest by nominal Christians in winning souls for the kingdom of heaven, would result in a revival of religion that would revitalize the church, reform society and eradicate many evils of modern life, Bishop Charles Wesley Burns, in an address to the Los Angeles District Men's Council at First Methodist Church, yesterday criticised those moribund churches which devote more attention to political problems than to the fundamental business of pure religion.

"I speak not as a cynic, for I do not doubt the ultimate victory of Christ, but we may as well face the truth that the church has gone as far as it can with its social, religious and missionary programs unless those programs become recharged with the dynamic spirit of Christ," said Bishop Burns. "There are churches in the San Francisco area that are losing thousands of members every year without a single addition on profession of faith, because the pastors and lay members, in their burning desire to enlighten the people concerning affairs in Japan, China, Mexico and Russia, neglect the vital business of bringing souls into the fold of Christ."

Bert Edward Smith, general secretary of the World Brotherhood, pleaded for greater co-operation among ministers and laymen and he proposed, as a slogan for men's work, "one million Methodist men mobilized to make the mind of the Master their chief motive and ambition."

"The great need of the day is the creation of a living faith in the hearts of men, especially among young men," said Dr. J. Lewis Gillies, superintendent of the Los Angeles District.

The session in the afternoon included an address by Dr. W. S. Bovard, corresponding secretary of the board of education of the Methodist Church, who spoke in favor of a more adequate program for religious education, voicing the need for more suitable buildings and more and better trained teachers.

Another speaker was Corliss P. Hargraves, secretary of missionary education, who spoke in behalf of the church's program of world service (missionary and benevolent work,) explaining that the seven great boards of the church can accomplish little unless supported by the 5,000,000 members of this great denomination.

A banquet was given in the church in the evening and F. A. Ballinger, Los Angeles, district president, served as toastmaster.

Miss Harris's Salary Attached

The salary of Mildred Harris, screen actress and former wife of Charles Chaplin, was attached yesterday following filing of a civil suit against her in Municipal Court.

E. A. Kline, attorney, who filed the suit, asserts the actress failed to pay a promissory note for $100 given Ben Enlanger, Hollywood employment broker, for services in obtaining a film position for her. The note is dated August 28, 1929. Kline asks the face value of the note, $100, and $25 additional as collection costs and interest. The actress's address is given as 1842 North Cherokee street.

BOAT TAKEN IN PURSUIT HELD HERE

Motor Launch Arrives at Port Under Convoy of Coast Guard Craft

Seized after being fired upon, the motor launch Liberty was convoyed yesterday to the Coast Guard pier at San Pedro by the patrol boat Montgomery. Twenty-one rounds of one-pound shells were fired by the patrol boat Tingard, which pursued the Liberty Wednesday, forcing the motor launch to halt at a point 150 miles northwest of San Pedro and a few miles offshore. Machine gun bullets also were sprayed after the Liberty.

Aboard the launch were Capt. A. R. Gingross, with an engineer and a deckhand. They protested they did not know they were being fired upon. The Liberty was turned over to the Montgomery to take into port for investigation. No liquor was found aboard.

The Liberty is registered as owned by Fred Orlando of Long Beach. She is seventy feet long and has two new 275-horsepower motors capable of developing speed of seventeen knots.

POISONER OF DOG NEARLY KILLS CHILD

Baby Saved as it Starts to Eat Meat Tossed in Yard Taking Pet's Life

Poisoned meat tossed by a dog poisoner to a canine pet yesterday nearly caused the death of a 2-year-old child, Mrs. Cecil H. Rathman of 4196 Rogers street, City Terrace, reported to Homer J. Daniels, secretary to the State Commission for the Protection of Children and Animals.

Mrs. Rathman told the officials that her little daughter seized a handful of raw hamburger and was about to eat it when she took it away from her. The dog, which was devouring the food, died in convulsions fifteen minutes later. Analysis of the meat was made and, according to Daniels, it contained a quantity of strychnine. The meat apparently was thrown into the yard by Southern California's roving dog poisoner.

This makes the tenth dog to be poisoned in this vicinity the past few weeks, officials report. Other cases of dog poisoning are being investigated by South Pasadena and Hollywood police.

At Culver City police report that a score of complaints have been received within the past month of dogs that were poisoned.

Army Officers to Have Dance

The blue and the gray of Civil War days and the uniforms of cadets will intermingle with the smartly dressed present-day officers when they gather at the Broadway Arcade basement tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. to celebrate Washington's Birthday with a formal dinner-dance.

More than 3000 invitations have been sent to officers in all branches of the military service, active and retired, to attend the party being given by the Army Officers' Mess, a group of active military men in Los Angeles county.

More than half of the available 1000 reservations have already been taken.

City Attorney Aides in Shifts

The City Council yesterday adopted an ordinance which creates a new assistanship for City Attorney Werner, at the same time dropping a deputyship. The promotion, it is understood, will go to Deputy William E. Neal. The salary will be $600 per month. Neal will continue to handle proceedings before the Council and will supervise the activities of eight deputies who have charge of street improvement work.

It is also understood that Deputy Frederick Von Schrader is scheduled to succeed to the position of first assistant when Mark Herron, now occupying this post, leaves the office March 1 to resume private practice.

"SINGING IN THE RAIN"

There is a grave suspicion that singing in the rain was invented in the bathtub. Singing in the shower was the natural evolution.

BIGGER, NOT BETTER

At that Chicago seems to have a bigger bill than she is able to negotiate. Possibly if she could rid herself of her "Big Bill," her bigger bill would vanish.

NEO-FIGHTS

Several noted persons in Hollywood have recently qualified as candidates for the Husband-of-the-Month Club. A Wife-of-the-Week Club might be organized as its corresponding sorority.

OVER THE WALL

Aviators are now trying to snatch mail sacks from one of the tall sky-scraping towers of Wall street. Evidently trying to grab the stocks as they go up! However, the fellows let in on the ground floor will still get theirs.

SEE-SAW

The criminal population of Great Britain has fallen off 70 per cent since 1914 and now they are closing some of the jails. While they are running them out, we are running them in. How about a conference to maintain a parity of thugs?

DIAPHRAGMATIC SPASMS

Violet Michael cried for a week at Attleboro, Mass., as the result of what her doctors called "diaphragmatic spasms." Hitherto those suffering from "diaphragmatic spasms" have caused their audiences to weep. But then the radio can be turned off.

COACHES FOR CHURCHES

A new field is opening for athletes. Coach Howard Jones of the University of Southern California spoke in a church recently and the bleaching benches that are usually empty were filled from choir loft to back seat. The greatest need of churches seems to be bigger and better coaches.

TALK CHEAP? HUH!

Hugh Barrett Dobbs has been imported by a big oil concern of San Francisco to broadcast for it at a salary of $85,000 a year. "Dobsie" will begin to lubricate the static along about the 15th of March. Talking as a radio announcer will soon be worth as much as being silent as a President—or knocking home runs as Babe Ruth.

NOT ALL FAIRY TALES

After 118 years of litigation, heirs of the owners of a Canadian ship illegally seized by an American ship on Lake Ontario are to receive as compensation from Uncle Sam nearly five times the original value of the boat and its cargo. Heirs of the man "who owned the heart of Peoria, Ill.," the claimants of Manhattan Island and similar groups, who have been supporting lawyers for a number of years, please take notice.

THAT WARRANT BUGABOO

The indignant manager of a famous Philadelphia hotel puts the police of Penn's city on the griddle because they raided a booze party in a suite of the hostelry. His "excuse" was not that he didn't know the affair was in progress, but that the officers didn't have a search warrant. The "dignity" of the law must be upheld, he contends. If it were not for such sticklers for "dignity" the problem of enforcement would be much easier to solve.

JUST FOLKS

Not since Roosevelt has an ex-President of the United States proved to be the popular idol that Calvin Coolidge is. He and Mrs. Coolidge are typical Americans, the kind that inspire confidence, just folks. Those who believe that Mr. Coolidge's famous phrase, "I do not choose to run," meant that he would retire permanently from politics and who regretted his decision must have been deeply impressed by the sincerity of his reception in Los Angeles.

THE FILM AGREEMENT

Definite lessening of the chances for the Actors' Equity Association to make further trouble, at least for some years, for the producers of motion and sound pictures, is accomplished by the agreement just made in Hollywood which makes the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences the balance-wheel of the profession. The agreement, or contract (it is said to be enforceable in court,) has already been signed by some 300 leading actors and by most of the producers, with the expectation that many more names will be added today, and it is to be in force five years.

It fixes working hours elastically and has a tentative arrangement for a rest period which is believed to meet the requirements of the industry and to meet the principal actors' grievance upon which Equity based its campaign of last summer. If this plan does not work satisfactorily it is to be replaced with a fifty-four-hour week. Actors working by the day (which includes extras) will be put on an eight-hour-day basis with overtime allowed.

Disputes and grievances are referred to a committee of actor-members of the academy, with an appeal to a conciliation committee of academy members representing all branches.

This gives the actors all that Equity could possibly have won for them without wrecking the industry, and preserves the open shop, which has been the basis of prosperity for actors and producers alike. It also means that the motion-picture business will be managed in the film capital and will not be subject to the orders of a rival, if allied, group in far-off New York.

The signing of such an agreement must dash the hopes of Frank Gillmore, Equity boss, for dominance of both stage and screen. Gillmore declared war on the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences with even greater bitterness than upon the producers, and the success of this organization where he failed to make a dent is a blow to his prestige.

Ever since his ignominious departure from Hollywood last fall, Gillmore is reported to have been gathering his forces for another assault, which doubtless would have been made if he had been able to arrange an alliance (through the American Federation of Labor) with the studio and stagecraft unions, including the musicians, upon his own terms. Gillmore, while willing enough that stage hands and the like should strike to aid the actors, has been unwilling to reciprocate and this has been the sticking point in the negotiations. Gillmore declines to have his hands tied by any sort of an agreement which might interfere with his own plans.

It now appears to be too late for the alliance to do any good, since without the signers of this new agreement a strike of motion and sound-picture actors would be hopeless. He can get membership, as he did before, among extras and minor-part players, whose places can readily be filled with substitutes, but the academy contract bars his road to success.

The readiness with which this agreement was negotiated and signed proves that the leading actors of the film industry fully realize that Equity has nothing to offer them but trouble. They will not put on Gillmore's yoke.

AUTO INSURANCE CHANGES

By virtue of their undeniable right to do so, despite whatever protest car owners may register against their action, the underwriters have raised the public liability insurance rates on automobiles an average of 18 per cent in the State. Highest is the rise in Los Angeles, this being 20 per cent on private cars and 14 on commercial cars. What the insurance people mean by public liability is the liability of a car driver in the matter of personal injury to others.

The advance in such rates, it is explained, is due to heavy losses paid in late years by the insurance companies because of the increase in the number of accidents in which people have been killed or injured. But as it has been conclusively shown that this increase is not in proportion to that of the number of cars in use throughout the country, it is not precisely clear why it has been ordered, unless the money loss has been in greater proportion, which probably would be difficult to prove.

Under the new State law, which was adopted as a modification of the compulsory insurance plan which has not worked well in States adopting it, the person found responsible for killing or injuring another and ordered to pay damages assessed by the court must satisfy the judgment within thirty days or lose his license. Other alternatives are the posting of a bond to cover the judgment and the taking out of a $5000-$10,000 insurance policy. Doubtless the increase in the liability rates will be considered a hardship by such persons as well as many others. But all that a judgment-proof driver need to do if he cannot pay the higher rates will be to cease driving.

A partial offset to the increased liability rate is found in the decreases in property-damage insurance, which range from 9 per cent on private and 4 on commercial cars up to 15 and 11 per cent. In Los Angeles the decreases in these rates are 9 on private and 14 on commercial cars.

Perhaps the stiffening of liability rates will make certain drivers a little less reckless, though it would seem that their tendency to take a chance would be subdued by a still more important consideration—the danger to their own lives, leaving those of others out of the question, as some of them evidently do.

MODERN CHINA GIRLS

Chinese girls are going our flappers one better. We have been hearing stories of bobbed hair and rouged cheeks and short dresses, coupled with beginnings of questioning of marriages made, not in heaven, but by very earthly parents. Reports come now from Canton that not only have Chinese women gained the monopoly of the work of unrolling the silk from the cocoon in the silk mills near Canton, but that having secured their financial independence, they are refusing to enter into the matriarchal marriages where the wife is taken to the husband's home and becomes subject to her mother-in-law.

The LEE SIDE o' L.A.
BY Lee Shippey

HAVE you joined the Bottle Hunters of the Southwest?

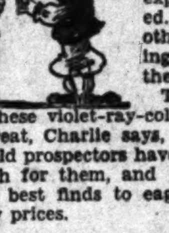
Tremble not. This is no dry-squad inquisition! We were referring only to the latest faddists, those who are searching the ghost towns of the deserts for bottles which once were clear white glass, but now are of an inimitable violet color, because of the violet rays absorbed from the Southern California sunshine.

AH! WIO-LET!
HEY HEY!

New Stunts For Old Prospectors

Charles Hamilton Owens, the artist, who has been tripping his light fantastic auto all over the Southwest for years, and lately has developed an especial passion for deserts, tells us the story. According to Charlie, he has come on many bottle hunters in Death Valley and around Ryolite and Beatty, Nev., lately. It is not uncommon, he says, to see these bottle hunters alight from cars driven by liveried chauffeurs, toss their costly furs back in the cars because the desert sunshine makes them an incumbrance, and proceed to the dump heap behind some ancient mining-town saloon, where they eagerly poke about in the rubbish (with gold-headed Malacca canes and ivory-handled parasols) in quest of bottles. And when they find a bottle, he says, they do not look to see if it still contains anything, nor do they even sniff at it to see if the scent of the roses clings 'round it still. They rub the dirt off of it with dainty handkerchiefs and hold it up to the light—and if it is of a lovely violet shade they are enraptured.

There is plenty of broken glass which is beautifully colored, he says, but perfect specimens are rare. In some cases, part of a bottle has been exposed to the sunshine while the rest has not, and only the part which has been exposed is colored. In many others, the coloring is uneven, for the same reason. The demand for these violet-ray-colored bottles is so great, Charlie says, that many of the old prospectors have taken up the search for them, and are retailing their best finds to eager tourists at fancy prices.



HOW! CHARLIE!
NOT SO FAST!

Bottles Valued for Color Alone

In proof of all these things, he showed us a bottle and a glass he had brought home from his latest trip into the desert. The bottle was as empty as a fifty-year-old whisky bottle could be. It was picked up back of a ghost-town saloon which was abandoned more than forty years ago. It is of a beautiful violet shade, yet still as transparent as when it was clear glass. The tumbler, which probably had been exposed to the sun only five or six years, was not deeply colored like the bottle, but seems undoubtedly to have been colored by the same method.

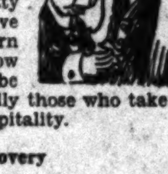
The cheaper glass made since the war, it is said, does not absorb violet rays from the sun as did the glass generally used for bottles before the war, as some element formerly used is now lacking. For that reason, it is for prewar bottles that the hunters look, even though no spirit of the past lingers about them.

Scientists Interested

Not only do people make special trips to Death Valley, Ryolite and other ghost-town areas, Charlie says, but university scientists are interested and tests now are being made under their direction to ascertain the effects of sun rays in coloring glass and other things.

WOY'S THAT DOO-DAD, CHARLES?

Nearly everywhere you go in the desert country now, it is said, you are shown violet-ray-colored glassware. No matter what kind of bottle it is, it is treasured if it shows the violet tint. One party recently came back from Stovepipe Wells happy over the finding of a beautifully tinted bottle into which was blown the label, "Embalming Fluid." And beside the old town pump at Beatty, Nev., there is an old-fashioned beer "schooner," for the use of all passers who wish to drink from the town well. The schooner is tinted with the violet rays, but no tourist dreams of carrying it off for a souvenir. Stealing souvenirs from hotels and restaurants in big cities may seem to them a delightful sport, but around Beatty they still have crude western ideas of how thieves should be treated, especially those who take advantage of hospitality.



WE SHOULD LOOK INTO IT—!

The Great Discovery

All men are seeking happiness, and I
Have found it. Not in triumph, not in wealth,
Not in success, for I've not risen high,
Not even in the buoyancy of health;

Not in the praise of men, though that is sweet,
Not in strange lands which I have chanced to roam,
Not in all men pursue with eager feet,
But help within the walls of my own home!

I love my work, and when I find it good
I know a joy which gold can never buy.
I love my friends, and in men's brotherhood
I could rejoice though I were soon to die.

But it is when my children climb my knee,
Exuberantly glad that I have come,
And their fond mother smiles on them and me

"SINS" OF PROHIBITION

Witnesses before the House Judiciary Committee, where hearings are being conducted on the proposed repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, have to date blamed prohibition for about every evil since the Flood. Channing Pollock, a playwright, capped the keystone when he declared that "bootleg money" invested in New York theaters is the reason for dirty plays.

To complete the list, the drys ought to stipulate now that further witnesses will testify that prohibition:

Caused the San Francisco fire.

Makes Bill Borah so obstreperous.

Is the basis of the French naval demands.

Chased King George out of Chicago.
Murdered Arnold Rothstein.
Made the sailfish stop biting.
Started the Chinese revolving.
Exiled Leon Trotzky.
Caused the foot-and-mouth disease.
Enlivens the pink bollworm.

And so on. Such a stipulation ought to save a lot of time and let Congress get down to the business of the country.

LOOKS ARE ENOUGH

By James J. Montague

Little Cutie Crumpett
Never will be bright,
But she has eyes like summer skies
And cheeks of pink and white.
She cannot spell, she cannot add,
She cannot multiply,
But no one cares for such affairs
When Cutie passes by.

Many other maidens
Study night and day,
But Cutie whiles with idle smiles
Her lesson time away.
And though she's empty-headed
She never lacks for beaux;
She can't recite, but every night
She goes to "speakie" shows.

When examinations
Worry half the class
Cutie has her mind on jazz
And so she doesn't pass.
And never does she bother
Her pretty, fluffy pate,
Or shed hot tears because she fears
She will not graduate.

Little Cutie Crumpett
Will marry by and by
Some rich man's son of twenty-one
And afterward live high.
And she'll be gay and happy
Through all the years to come
And neither she, nor even he,
Will ever know she's dumb.

WHAT OTHERS THINK ABOUT IT

BUYERS AND BILLBOARDS

[Christian Science Monitor]

A unanimous resolution to favor products not advertised on billboards was recently passed by the southeastern council of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. Many an advertiser, thus bringing his product into disfavor with the women, the true buyers of the nation, will doubtless feel that, after all, there is something behind this agitation against billboards.

LEAGUERS IN DETROIT

[Chicago Tribune]

The Anti-Saloon League held its annual meeting in Detroit. It had ten years of constitutional prohibition to consider and probably, in selecting one of the largest rum-running centers for the occasion, wished to give encouragement to the bootleggers who are dependent on the league's activities if they are to continue prosperous. It would have added to the authenticity of the proceedings if reports could have been made by representatives of the larger concerns which look upon the Volstead law as the source of their fortunes.

The runners and leggers in Detroit are busy men, but it would have been a pleasure for them to appear before the league and testify to the value, to them, of the good work. The leggers and the leaguers are necessary to each other and no doubt appreciate it. Each keeps the other side going.

A VANISHING HOST

[New York Herald-Tribune]

It is still the fashion to assume that if it were not for Ireland this city would be lacking a police force. Yet a perusal of the list of recent graduates from our police academy will soon convince one that this notion, once grounded in fact, is now merely traditional. There are some Irish names proudly bunched among the M's and O's and a thin scattering elsewhere, but all are submerged in a Sargasso sea of "monickers"—Italian, Jewish, Polish, Bohemian, Russian, Swedish, and plain Yankee—that are as strange to the Emerald Isle as they are common to the metropolis. Take, for example, the S's among the members of the class of July, 1929, who have just received warrants of appointment to the force—Saggese, Savino, Schaefer, Scheller, Schillbersky, Schleimer, Schlosmer, Schrimpf, Schuchman, Schuck, Seliger, Seymour, Shaffer, Silvey, Smith, Smith, Smith, Solomon, Sparacino, Staib, Stainkamp, Stanton, Sullivan, Sullivan, Svendsen. What company for a couple of Sullivans!

CONGRESS IS RESTIVE OVER FACTS

[Kansas City Star]

Leaders in Congress are beginning to express impatience with President Hoover's frequent requests for the appointment of committees and commissions which are to study and report on important questions. The leaders cannot understand why so many of these bodies should be considered necessary. They themselves don't mind acting on political considerations rather than on the facts. So why should the President be so fussy?

Probably he just can't help it. Some men have a passion for facts. Congress has discovered Mr. Hoover belongs to this class and it is all worn out trying to deal with him and with the facts he is pouring out on Capitol Hill.

HOW EX-PRESIDENTS HAVE FARED

BY JANE FREDERICKSON

With the Coolidges in our midst trying unsuccessfully to be just Mr. and Mrs. instead of ex-President and Mrs., and with the eyes of the nation turned toward the sick room of our other living ex-President, William Howard Taft, one is interested to inquire:

What becomes of our Presidents after they leave the White House?

With Calvin Coolidge's articles eagerly bought by the magazines as fast as he can turn them out and avidly read by an interested public, one wonders what became of his predecessors after they retired to private life.

One of the very few who retired from the Presidency wealthy was George Washington, who was worth more than half a million dollars, exclusive of his wife's considerable property, when he entered life as a private citizen, after having served as the first President. Washington, however, previously had known comparative poverty and was land poor much of the time. When he entered the White House he owed taxes, a doctor's bill, and was forced to borrow money to take him to the inauguration. Washington, after retiring to his home at Mt. Vernon, Va., engaged in no active work.

John Adams, our second President, retired from the Presidency on March 4, 1800, driving from Washington at daybreak and after that time engaged in very little work public or private, because he was embittered and disappointed at being defeated by Jefferson. Both of these men died on the Fourth of July, 1826.

Thomas Jefferson is one of the very few who remained a leader of his party after retiring to private life. Our third President left Washington in poverty, even fearing that his enemies might have him jailed for debt. His wife and four of his five children had died, his property at Monticello, to which he retired, had been allowed to run down, and he had a large family of grandchildren and other relatives looking to him for support. A friend, whose notes he had indorsed, could not pay them and Jefferson was forced to assume them, and in order to partly meet his obligations, he sold his much-loved library to Congress. A grateful public could not see the author of the Declaration of Independence, the man who had acquired for the United States the Louisiana Purchase, end his life in poverty, and a fund was made up that relieved him of financial worries during his last days.

Madison was also worried by poverty in his declining days. He retired to his home at Montpellier, Va., lived there during his last years and died with the shadow of poverty dogging him constantly. His stepson dissipated his property so that Madison's widow was grateful to accept gifts of food from her neighbor, Daniel Webster, and from others.

James Monroe, the last President to wear knee breeches, who served his country in various capacities for almost half a century, tottered from the White House in 1825, wrinkled, bent, old and poverty-stricken. He was compelled to accept the office of a justice of the peace in a small New York township in order to eke out a living. After the death of his wife, soon after leaving the White House, he sold his last remaining property, Oak Hill, in Virginia, and accepted a home with a son-in-law in New York, feeling very much like an exile as he left his southern home.

John Quincy Adams served his country from the age of 14, at which time he was secretary of legation, until he died in harness in his eighty-fourth year, while addressing the Lower House. When Adams left the White House in his sixty-second year, his property was mortgaged and his income from his estate insufficient for the needs of his family. Adams did not feel that he was demeaning himself or his past grandeur by serving as a selectman in his home town, and later by representing his district in Congress, where even though weakened by age, he waged a determined fight against slavery.

Andrew Jackson, the first President to have been born in a log cabin and the son of poor Irish immigrants, a man who is said to have read only one book, "The Vicar of Wakefield," during his entire life, declared after leaving the White House that he went back to private life having completely realized every personal desire. He, too, was haunted by poverty and debt on his Tennessee farm, to which he retired, but found life to be good, anyway, because he had carried to the end with him the love and confidence of his people.

Martin Van Buren, the first President who had been born under the American flag and the first to ride to the inauguration in a train, was active in political life for ten years after leaving Washington. After those ten years he retired to the little village in which he had been born on the banks of the Hudson, living there ten more years and passing away at the ripe old age of 79.

John Tyler of Virginia, after the close of his term, retired from public life, except to do some teaching in the University of Virginia. At the beginning of the Civil War he was elected to the House of Representatives of the Confederacy and died as a member of that body.

James Knox Polk, one of the colorless Presidents, was in ill health due to the heavy duties of his office when he left the Presidency and passed away fifteen weeks later at his home in Nashville, Tenn.

Millard Fillmore, as Presidents go, did not make much of a stir, but he at least did not die in poverty. He found himself on retirement from public office able to take a European trip and on his return married a wealthy widow and passed his last days in comfort.

Franklin Pierce lived nine years after retiring from public life and history tells little of his financial condition or of his activities.

James Buchanan, the last President to wear a stock instead of a collar, was born in a log cabin, inaugurated at 65 and died at the age of 77. Little is recorded except that "he sadly tottered into the shadows."

Andrew Johnson, the only President who never attended school, and who stepped from the Vice-Presidency into the office of President, following the death of Lincoln, left the office of chief pilot of the land as the only President who had been almost impeached while in office, failing of impeachment by only one or two votes. He was so embittered at the United States Senate for the attempted impeachment that he determined to become a member of that body. In 1876 he was elected Senator from Tennessee, but died while in attendance at a short session.

Ulysses S. Grant, President from 1868 to 1876, had money enough when he left the White House to take a trip around the world, but returned very much in need of employment. He put what little money he had into a Wall-street bank, the first President to go into this particular mart of trade, and became a partner in this bank, which failed. Grant then started writing his memoirs, living the while on borrowed money. The last of the two volumes was nearly finished with the former general able only to whisper his dictation, owing to a cancer in the throat, which finally rendered him speechless. The last chapters were written in long hand when he could no longer talk. He died in 1885 at the age of 63 on the day that his book was completed. There is still standing, in Humboldt county, though in a state of dilapidation, a small shack which he made his headquarters while stationed at Fort Seward.

Rutherford Birchard Hayes, another colorless President, was one of the few who had not known poverty and hardship previous to entering the White House, thanks to the generosity of a wealthy bachelor uncle. Nor did he retire to a life of poverty. He completely retired from politics and lived comfortably until he died in 1893 at the age of 70.

Garfield left his wife and family poorly provided for, but the people created a fund which took care of Mrs. Garfield for the forty years that she survived her husband.

Chester Arthur, whose health suffered under the strain of the duties involved in the office of President, died of apoplexy two years after stepping out of the White House.

Grover Cleveland, whose widow, now Mrs. Preston, still lives, fortunately had a profession at his finger tips and made a good living between his two terms in the executive chair. Upon his retirement in 1896, he became a member of the faculty of Princeton University and was also one of the board of trustees. Due to a stampede in the Democratic convention of 1904 he could have been nominated for the Presidency for the fourth time, but refused to even consider it. He died in 1908, one of the few Presidents able to earn a competency for his family after leaving Washington.

Benjamin Harrison, who lost his wife just ten days before he was defeated for re-election, renewed his law practice in Indianapolis, Ind. He married a widowed niece of his wife's and lived to the age of 67, dying in 1901.

The life of William Howard Taft after leaving the White House is well known to the present generation. He has not been worried by money matters and was given the highest honor next to the Presidency when he was appointed Chief Justice of the United States.

And Calvin Coolidge, Presidents could all learn from him. We all know that want will never haunt him as it has many of our Presidents, that should he lose the money which he is said to have saved during his administration, he would not consider it beneath his dignity, as did some of our early Presidents, to work and he could make a good living in any of several professions, to say nothing of the insurance business.

So we see that the majority of our Presidents had humble finales to their lives even as most of them began in humble circumstances. Poverty was the lot of many and some died in both poverty and obscurity.

TO MY LOST DOG

(With due apologies to the poet)

My good old dog Tom, so faithful was he
That a truer old pal none other could be.
He would sit and gaze with marked adoration
Upon the object of his staunch affection
Without sense of criticism.

He never suspected me, he always respected me.
He never rejected me,
He always reflected me.
It is small wonder my emotions arise,
For the love of a dog one cannot despise.

If the stranger who holds him is human
He will surely come back to me.

ANCIENT CARS TO HICCOUGH

Relics of "Get-a-Horse" Days Will Be Exhibited for Cash Prizes at Auto Show

At least a dozen of the oldest cars in Southern California will face the starter's gun today at 10 a.m. at the eastern entrance of the Coliseum, all being entries in the old car contest sponsored by the Los Angeles Motor Car Dealers' Association in connection with the Auto Show which opens at the Shrine Auditorium tomorrow afternoon.

Those that can cough and bark their way through the hazards of Figueroa-street traffic to the Shrine Auditorium will be welcomed by J. Jerome Canavan, Fred Patton and Ethelbert Favary, members of the Southern California Chapter of the Society of Automotive Engineers. The reception committee later on will inspect them and during show week pronounce the three winners of the prizes of $100, $75 and $50.

PLACES OF HONOR

All contestants will be given places of honor in the banquet hall during the show.

One entry by Arthur E. Twohy of Los Angeles, is said to be a Winton of earliest known vintage. The entry which comes the greatest distance to participate is a Rambler, which Harry Lewis of Murietta promises will ramble nearly 100 miles to be present.

One of the hazards of early-day motoring is cited by T. L. Corpe of El Monte in connection with the Ford which he and his brother are entering. The car was originally painted a brilliant red but the color caused the car to be violently attacked by a bull one day. The owner prudently repainted the car a sober black.

MOST NAMES FAMILIAR

Nearly all the entries carry names still familiar to motordom. Two, however, will cause even old-timers some difficulty in recalling. One is a Queen entered by Charles and Dorothy West and the other a Columbia Buggy which William Beaudine is sponsoring.

The days when Los Angeles manufactured motor cars are recalled by the entry of a 1905 Tourist, manufactured here at Tenth and Main streets. Frank H. Shafer who purchased the car and has owned it ever since is the entrant.

Trio Held for Mystery Theft of Vegetables

The mysterious disappearance of hundreds of dollars' worth of vegetables and fruits from in front of Safeway stores throughout the city during early morning hours was cleared up yesterday, police announced, with the arrest of Frank Vasquez, 35 years of age, of 2544 Marvin avenue, and Mike and Raymond Colome, 19 and 22, respectively, of 2333 Carmona avenue.

The thefts, according to police, extended for about two weeks. Early yesterday officers reported finding the trio in possession of two trucks at Washington and Figueroa streets. The trucks were loaded with vegetables and fruits, the officers said. Several of the crates bore the name, Safeway, they said.

Mayor Denies Burke Rumors

The revived rumor that Charles W. Burke, a private detective, is to be made Chief of Police was spiked yesterday by Mayor Porter. He stated positively that there is no foundation to the report. Roy Steckel now is Chief, having been elevated to that post six weeks ago.

Burke was indicted by the grand jury on a felony involving the payment of money by a man to a woman about the time Steckel was appointed. When Burke's case came to trial the woman witness was missing and the charge was dismissed Since that time he has renewed his visits to the City Hall.

Probation Plea Planned in Theft

Joseph J. White, 21 years of age, yesterday pleaded guilty to a charge of petty theft with a prior conviction for the same offense, when he was taken before Superior Judge Fricke, and asked for permission to file an application for probation.

White told the court that his desire to repay Ace Hudkins, prize fighter, for past favors caused him to steal a suit case in a Los Angeles department store. According to the defendant, he intended to present the suit case to Hudkins on the eve of his departure for the East.

INTEMPERANCE CHARGED

Mrs. Ethel Round was granted a decree of divorce yesterday from Robert L. Round by Superior Judge Price. Habitual intemperance was asserted by Mrs. Round. The wife was given custody of two children, Robert, 7 years of age, and Kenneth, 4. Disposition of $40,000 worth of community property in a settlement was approved by the court.

Pacific Coast Europe's Rival for Tourists

Western America is Europe's greatest rival for the favor of tourists, according to Mathew Foulds of the Grosvenor Hotel, London, who was a guest of the Biltmore yesterday.

Foulds reported that American tourist traffic to the continent has fallen off to such an extent that the managements of the larger hotels in England and on the continent have sent agents to this country in the hope of encouraging travel across the Atlantic.

"When I arrived in Los Angeles," said Foulds, "I found the explanation of the decreased tourist business abroad. The American tourist is seeing America first and beginning with the west coast."

Herbert B. Mason of the May Fair Hotel, London, and L. S. Laws of the Luxury Hotels System, operating hostelries in Great Britain and Egypt, are also Biltmore guests.

Barnes Circus Permit Denied

Application by the Al G. Barnes Circus for a permit to erect its tent for shows from April 5 to 13 on the vacant corner at Washington and Hill street, where the Los Angeles Automobile Show exhibit was consumed in flames a year ago, was denied by the Fire Commission yesterday.

The application, sent to the City Council, was forwarded by the latter to the Building and Safety Commission, which in turn sent it to the Fire Commission. The latter is opposed to large tent shows in the city as a fire menace.

DEVIL TO BE TOPIC

"The Devil as the Villain Hero" is the unique title of the discussion to be held at Angeles Mesa Branch Library at Fifth avenue and Firty-second street this evening at 7:30 o'clock. The devil will be taken up through a discussion of "Milton's Paradise Lost" and other works of Milton will be mentioned. This will be the third meeting of a discussion group led by Philip Wiener under the auspices of the California State Association of Adult Education. The public is invited to take part in the discussion.

LIBRARY OPEN TOMORROW

All departments of the Central Public Library as well as all branch libraries will be open during the usual hours tomorrow, Everett R. Perry, city librarian, announced yesterday.

LAKE CITY RALLY SET

Lake City (Minn.) folk will assemble for a picnic tomorrow at Echo Park. Luncheon will be served at noon and be followed by a program.

JUDGE URGES PUPILS KNOW DRY-LAW VIOLATION COST

Instructing school children concerning the penalties even they are liable to for carrying flasks or otherwise breaking the prohibition laws was suggested as a means by which the "public schools may co-operate with President Hoover's demand for law observance under the Eighteenth Amendment" in a letter received by the Board of Education yesterday from Municipal Judge Lahey.

"I have just completed two months service," Judge Lahey informed the board, "in the misdemeanor master calendar department of the Municipal Court, and I had before me daily countless cases coming up where the people involved had really a complete ignorance of the law.

"I believe that many a case of violation comes from the idea many young people have that it is a lark to carry a flask. The knowledge that this may cost $500 might be a deterrent in many such cases."

After citing the penalties for various forms of violation of the prohibition laws, Judge Lahey's letter continues, "You can see that this information might easily check wayward, youthful spirits and prevent many a law violation and arrest. It is necessary, to act as a judge in the Municipal Court, to realize how much violation is due to ignorance and how much might be avoided by education. I know the schools are doing all they can to inculcate a sense of moral values on the subject and trust that you will see the advantage of disseminating this information on the legal angles, as it seems to me very important."

After the letter was read to the board, President Van Norman said that as a general thesis he questions the advisability of attempting to inculcate obedience and respect for law in school children by stressing the penalty for violation. There was no further discussion, however, and the letter was referred to Supt. Bouelle and the board's teachers and school committee for consideration and report.

More Than 250 Gather at Last Night's Affair

At a banquet last night at the Chamber of Commerce, members of the Los Angeles County Bar installed their newly elected officers and listened to three addresses by members of the organization.

The results of the election were announced as follows by retiring President Guy R. Crump: President, Norman A. Bailie; vice-president, Irving M. Walker; junior vice-president, Robert P. Jennings; treasurer, T. W. Robinson; secretary, Lloyd Wright; trustees, Arthur M. Ellis, Joe Kiley, Jr. and Henry F. Prince. Retiring President Crump was presented with a desk clock by the bar association as an appreciation of his service.

THREE IN ADDRESSES

Thomas C. Ridgway, former president of the California Bar Association and chairman of the California Code Revision Commission, told of the work he is doing as head of this commission in recodifying the statutes of the State and eliminating measures that have been withdrawn by inference.

Charles A. Beardsley, president of the California State Bar, spoke on "Making the Bar Respected." President Beardsley told of the need of housecleaning in the legal profession and called attention to the method of the State Bar Association, the most effective device, he declared, the bar controls. He said that more has been accomplished in the past two years than had been in the previous seventy-eight years of the history of the State.

PLAN NEW LAWS

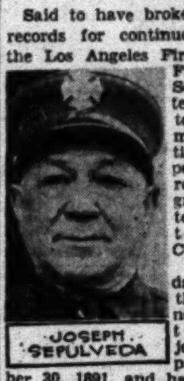
"We are suffering from the blight of low standards," he said. "The State association reviews constantly a procession of misfits who are brought before us for hearing. The State Legislature took the power of setting a standard for admission to the bar, from the State association and declared that anyone who is 21 years of age, of good moral character and who has studied law three years should be admitted. Nothing was said about educational qualifications. We will try and remedy this at the next session of the Legislature."

Douglas B. Maggs, professor in the law department of the University of Southern California, spoke on the United States Supreme Court.

More than 250 members of the organization were present at the meeting.

Veteran Fire Fighter Quits With Pension

Said to have broken all previous records for continuous service in the Los Angeles Fire Department, Fireman Joseph Sepulveda yesterday applied to the Fire Commission for retirement on a pension, and the request was granted, subject to approval by the Pension Commission.



JOSEPH SEPULVEDA

Sepulveda, member of the Spanish pioneer family of that name, joined the department October 30, 1891, and has served more than thirty-eight years. He is 60 years of age. Retirement becomes effective April 2, next. His reason for retiring is that he has had a number of surgical operations.

The Fire Commission has adopted a new policy requiring a survey every six months by Chief Scott of the physical condition of the members of the department. Members in good physical condition, but eligible for a pension, are being urged to remain on duty, while others not physically fit are being allowed to retire if they have served twenty years.

POPULATION PROBLEMS DISCUSSED

Birth-Control Advocates from Western States in Conference Here

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Representing the eleven Western States, more than 600 persons attended the Birth-Control Conference banquet held at the Roosevelt Hotel last night.

Paul Jordan Smith presided and the speakers represented four countries: Alexander Kaun of the University of California at Berkeley, for Russia; Constantine Panunzio, professor of sociology at Teachers' College, San Diego, for Italy; Margaret Spring-Rice for Great Britain and Mrs. Margaret Sanger, birth-control evangelist, for the United States of America.

The conference, which lasts three days, has been called primarily to change legislation, and particularly to revoke the fifty-six-year-old Comstock law, explained Mrs. Sanger. There are now twenty-nine birth-control clinics in the United States and twenty-two in England, but because of the Comstock law dissemination of information on birth control is made impossible. Because of this law, she said, 150,000,000 babies have been snuffed out before they were a year old during those fifty-six years and 1,000,000 mothers have died from causes directly traceable to child-bearing. Birth control is specifically to improve the quality of population, she said.

Dr. Kaun talked very little about birth control and a great deal about Russia, whose present policy he defends. Dr. Panunzio proved dramatic with statistics. The population of Europe, he said, had increased from 170,000,000 in 1750 to 500,000,000 in 1928, in spite of wars and emigration. Great Britain, Germany, Austria and Russia account for half of that number. He gave us the figure for every European country through the years, dissected the rate of increase and declared that in 1950 Europe will have a population of 616,000,000. As to density, England now has 701 persons per square mile, Belgium 675, Italy 341 . . . as against the United States with forty-three persons to the square mile.

Margaret Spring-Rice told of birth-control activities in England. She said England is fifty years behind the United States in health measures.

Mrs. C. B. Millikan of Pasadena introduced numerous guests of honor, including two Japanese members of the Tokio Chamber of Commerce, Dr. Scott of Lahore, India, Dr. Ann Pennington of San Francisco, Mrs. D. D. Stephens of Santa Monica, Mrs. Frank Gibson, Dr. W. F. Adams of University of California at Los Angeles, Ruth Stimson of the Juvenile Court of Denver, Colo., Rev. Francis T. Brown, Episcopalian of Arizona, and Mr. J. Noah Slee, president of the National Birth-Control League, whose wife is Margaret Sanger.

The economic session will be held at 2 p.m. in the music room of the Biltmore this afternoon, Prof. Adams of U.C.L.A. leading the discussion.

The medical session will be held in the same place at 8 o'clock in the evening. Saturday sees the sociologic session at the Biltmore at 2 p.m. and the legislative session at 8 p.m. Sunday will see the mass meeting at Trinity Auditorium at 8 p.m. . . . when Rabbi R. Coffee of Oakland will discuss "The Spirituality of Birth Control" and Dr. G. V. Hamilton, "Love and Marriage."

CITY PLANS GRANTING OF OIL LEASES

Council Orders Drafting of Permits for Drilling on Venice Property

On motion of Councilman Burns, seconded by Councilman Randall, the City Council yesterday instructed the right of way and land agent and City Attorney Werner to investigate the possibility of leasing city-owned land in Venice for oil-drilling purposes. The city owns approximately four and one-half acres of stub-end streets in the oil area. The matter of drilling on the beach was suggested, but the deputy City Attorney advised the Council that if such development is attempted the beach will revert to property owners.

The Council instructed City Attorney Werner to draft ordinances granting oil-drilling permits to three persons, covering thirty-seven pieces of property. The permittees are Edgar K. Brown, Amy B. Kneeben and William G. Dickinson.

COUNTY MEETS HOSPITAL NEED

Contracts Signed With Six Private Institutions

General Now Crowded to Its Capacity by Patients

New Unit Expected to be Completed in Year

Seeking to alleviate crowded conditions at the General Hospital, the Board of Supervisors yesterday authorized the signing of contracts with six private hospitals to care for indigent sick and injured residents of the county.

Hospitals with which the contracts were effected include the Murphy Memorial Hospital of Whittier, the Seaside Hospital of Long Beach, the Pasadena Hospital, a Santa Monica hospital and the White Memorial and St. Vincent hospitals of Los Angeles.

Under the contracts, the hospitals will be authorized to care for county patients who cannot be accommodated at the General Hospital, which is said to be taxed to capacity. The contracts provide that the county will be given a cost rate on treatment of patients sent to the private hospitals, and that the county patients will be transferred to the General Hospital as soon as possible.

It is expected the contract will be terminated within a year, as completion of a wing of the new "Acute" unit of the General Hospital will provide facilities for caring for a large number of additional patients.

Embezzlement Suspect Back to Face Charges

Accused of embezzling $29,000 from E. A. Shaw, Los Angeles cotton broker, C. H. Reid was returned to Los Angeles from Detroit yesterday by deputy sheriffs. According to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Clark, $20,000 of this amount has been recovered and returned to the firm. Reid is charged with three counts of grand theft.

Dep. Dist.-Atty. Clark asserts that Reid admits the peculations, but states that he was persuaded to take the money by a friend who said he was investing it in a bootleg business. The "friend" later fled with most of the funds, Reid told Clark, and left him to face the charges.

Bishop Plants Wee Kirk Tree

Scenes reminiscent of his native land were encountered yesterday by Rt. Rev. Frederic L. Deane, Lord Bishop of Aberdeen, Scotland, when he visited the new Wee Kirk o' the Heather at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Near the entrance to the church, the lord bishop planted a crytomeria tree, dedicating it to the bonds of friendship and language which unite the peoples of Great Britain and the United States. He was assisted in the task by Rev. Arthur H. Wurtele, rector of St. Thomas Episcopal Church, and Hubert Eaton, chairman of the board of Forest Lawn.

Bishop Deane left Los Angeles for San Francisco last night after numerous speaking engagements here, but will return to officiate March 2 at the laying of a corner-stone for St. Mary of the Angels Church.

A five-year program for improvement of the Fernangeles playground at a total cost of $32,000, presented to the Playground and Recreation Commission yesterday by its construction engineer, was referred to its superintendent for action when the next budget is made up. "FLAVOR THE FOOD!" URGE DOCTORS

No Need for Wholesome Foods to be Unpalatable

Doctors are not as severe regarding diet as they are often charged with being. To be sure they insist that wholesome foods be eaten and emphatically advocate a balanced diet. But they do not oppose making foods palatable.

In flavoring vegetables, or modifying the sharpness of certain fruits, doctors and dietitians recommend the use of sugar. A dash of sugar on cereal is also permitted. Such use of sugar increases the value of the wholesome, body-building nutrients in the food thus flavored.

A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a popular rule to follow in seasoning peas, carrots, spinach, and string beans. It is surprising how the sugar in this mixture maintains the delicious flavor these vegetables have when fresh-picked.

These suggestions regarding sugar apply to children's diet as well as adults'. Good food promotes health. Most foods are more delicious and nourishing with sugar.

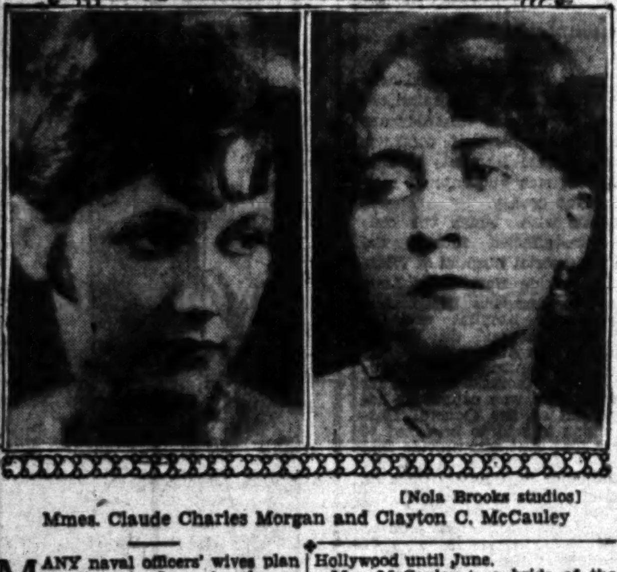
OFFICERS' WIVES TO LIVE HERE

Fleet's Cruise Causes Separations



[Nola Brooks studios]

Mmes. Claude Charles Morgan and Clayton C. McCauley

MANY naval officers' wives plan to live in Los Angeles or Hollywood following the departure of the fleet for a four months' cruise to the east coast. Among them are Mrs. Claude Charles Morgan, wife of Ensign Morgan, U.S.S. Mississippi, and Mrs. Clayton C. McCauley, wife of Ensign McCauley of the plane-carrier Lexington. The two young wives will make their home with Mrs. Morgan's uncle, Webster Keddie, in Hollywood until June.

Mrs. McCauley is a bride of the past year and her marriage to Ensign McCauley, a graduate of the June, 1929, class of the United States Naval Academy, was the first to take place in the chapel following commencement exercises at Annapolis. She was Miss Adelaide Gossage. Mrs. Morgan, who was Miss Helene Louise Rochek of Salt Lake City, was married aboard the Mississippi in Seattle last summer.

DRIVER GOES TO TRIAL IN DEATH OF OFFICER

Edward J. Nusser, 38-year-old truck driver of 186 West Fortieth Place, went to trial in Superior Judge Wilson's court on a charge of manslaughter arising out of the death of Motorcycle Officer John N. Black in an automobile accident on November 22, 1929. According to Dep. Dist.-Atty. Frank Curran, who is prosecuting the case, Nusser was operating his truck in a careless manner at the time it collided with Black's motorcycle at Aliso and Vignes streets.

HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

Rare, But Not Raw

There's a great difference between rare roast beef and raw roast beef. Serve it rare but be sure it is cooked long enough to be digestible. It is claimed by many doctors that raw beef is the cause of worms.

Wasted Gas

All flame showing outside a kettle of boiling liquid represents wasted gas. Turn down the gas until it does not show around the edge of the pan and then you are getting all the benefit without any of the waste.

Kitchen Boards

We housekeepers dislike having a number of things about our kitchen that are not used and a series of cutting boards for each article is sometimes a nuisance. One way of solving this problem is to have distinct sides for the cutting. For instance, use one side of the board for fruits and more delicate vegetables and save the other side for meats and vegetables with strong flavors. You will find with a few usings the meat side will darken and you can readily see which is which. Then your board problem is solved with just one board besides the bread board.

Snappy Reminders

Salt eaten with nuts is an aid to digestion.

Save the coffee cans with tight-fitting lids. They are splendid containers for cereals, lard, cookies or matches.

The shine on a dark serge suit can be removed to a certain extent by sponging with vinegar and then pressing in the usual way.

BOWSER MAKES A FIND

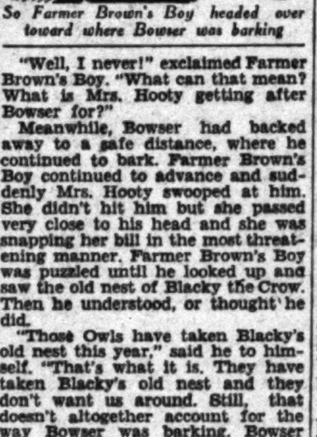
Farmer Brown's Boy and Bowser the Hound were headed toward the Green Forest. Farmer Brown's Boy had spring thoughts. It was still winter, but Farmer Brown's Boy's thoughts were turning to spring. He was on his way over to the sugar house among the sugar maples to prepare for the coming sugar season. The sap would be running soon now. That would mean busy days and busy nights for Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy.

It was a dull gray morning. Over among the pines and the hemlocks it was almost dark. Farmer Brown's Boy heard a faint squeak. It came from off at one side. It was the squeak of a mouse. He looked in that direction and was just in time to catch a glimpse of a big bird disappearing among the trees.

"Hooty the Owl!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "Hooty the Great Horned Owl caught a mouse! That reminds me that it is about time for that fellow to be nesting. I wonder if he and Mrs. Hooty are using the old nest that they used last year. If I had time I would go over there and look. But I haven't time. I'll have to slip over there some day soon. Hello! I wonder what Bowser has found now."

He stopped to listen. Bowser was barking. And from the way he was barking Farmer Brown's Boy knew that Bowser had found some animal or bird that had refused to run or fly away. "Probably," said Farmer Brown's Boy, "Bowser has treed something. I wonder if it can be that Bobby Coon is out yet. I'll have to have a look. Bowser never barks for nothing. He has found some one or something."

So Farmer Brown's Boy headed over toward where Bowser was barking. He approached carefully. He could see Bowser in front of a little hemlock tree and making short rushes toward it and then backing away, all the time barking. Whatever it was under that little hemlock tree. Farmer Brown's Boy moved forward. As he did so a big bird swooped down and struck Bowser. Bowser yelped. Yes, sir, he yelped. If you have ever seen the big claws of Hooty the Great Horned Owl, or Mrs. Hooty, you will not wonder that Bowser yelped when Mrs. Hooty struck him.



So Farmer Brown's Boy headed over toward where Bowser was barking

"Well, I never!" exclaimed Farmer Brown's Boy. "What can that mean? What is Mrs. Hooty getting after Bowser for?"

Meanwhile, Bowser had backed away to a safe distance, where he continued to bark. Farmer Brown's Boy continued to advance and suddenly Mrs. Hooty swooped at him. She didn't hit him but she passed very close to his head and she was snapping her bill in the most threatening manner. Farmer Brown's Boy was puzzled until he looked up and saw the old nest of Blacky the Crow. Then he understood, or thought he did.

"Those Owls have taken Blacky's old nest this year," said he to himself. "That's what it is. They have taken Blacky's old nest and they don't want us around. Still, that doesn't altogether account for the way Bowser was barking. Bowser wouldn't notice that nest, and if he did it wouldn't mean anything to him. There is something queer about this. I must look into it."

Just then Farmer Brown's Boy caught a glimpse of something white that moved underneath the little hemlock tree at which Bowser had been barking. He hurried forward and stooped to peer under. As he did so he received a sharp blow on the back of his head. It was so unexpected that it caught him entirely unprepared, and, bending over as he was, he nearly lost his balance. But he didn't quite. He heard the sound of a snapping bill and he knew who had hit him. He knew that Mrs. Hooty had treated him just as she had Bowser the Hound.

Place in a casserole with a desired amount of carrots and a little chopped parsley, adding a cupful or more of water. Bake for thirty to forty-five minutes, and just before taking from the oven mix in about a cupful of small canned peas. The remaining liquid in the casserole may be thickened with a small amount of dextrinized flour, which is prepared by thoroughly browning white flour.

YOUR BABY and MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema, outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb sucking, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one of these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

Left-handedness comes up for discussion frequently in this column. The subject always seems to arouse a vindictive spirit in right-handed readers. They spring to the defense of one or another of the erroneous ideas which we are constantly trying to clear up. Parents who have successfully cured their own children of left-handedness are convinced that the same method would work with all the left-handed persons in the world.

The mistake all of these well-intentioned people make is in classing left-handedness as a bad habit. They have failed to notice that all babies are ambidextrous. Before 6 months of age babies show very little preference for either hand, using right or left with equal facility. It is the child's environment which encourages the use of the right hand in preference to the left. We naturally offer objects to the right hand. To do otherwise is awkward. Try it and see.

However, the naturally right-handed child will be right-handed in spite of his environment. And the naturally left-handed child will be left-handed, unless of course we continually force him to change his natural tendency to suit us. Ingrained in each child is a definite pattern of nerves and muscles. It is a real handicap to continually force the naturally left-handed child to use the right hand. He usually does learn if the pressure is great enough, but the large number of left-handed persons indicates that influence and the natural ambition to conform are not always enough to force the change. The left-handed child never learns to use the right hand with quite the ease and artfulness he would have used the other hand.

One reader concluded that the present-day mothers are not conscientious enough in their duty of forcing children to be right-handed. What has really happened is that most of us have decided that left-handed persons should be allowed to use the left hand. The result of this attitude is that there are many more children in the schools today using the left hand. And with our passion for statistics we have definite figures of the numbers of left-handed persons.

DON'T INCREASE THE HANDICAP!

Of course there are families of ten or more without any left-handed children just as there are families of the same size without any red-headed or blue-eyed children. Left-handedness has always existed and all of us know half a dozen people who use the left hand.

I am afraid, Mrs. M. A. K., that I cannot echo your wish that high chairs have right-handed containers for toys. After all this is a predominantly right-handed world and all our utensils, tools, methods of serving food, and so on are designed for the right-handed person. If a child can leap those everyday handicaps and still remain left-handed, no one should put another straw in his path.

Mrs. M. A. K., and all other readers interested in this subject will profit by reading about the speech difficulties encountered by the left-handed child who is forced to use the right hand for the finer muscular activities such as writing, cutting, drawing and so on.

COMPLAINTS ADJUSTED BY BUREAU

Contractors' Registration Law Justifies Itself in Settlement of Disputes

Declaration that the bureau of contractors' registration law which went into effect on August 14, last, has already justified itself as a force for arbitration and education was made here yesterday by James F. Collins, director of the department of professional and vocational standards.

Director Collins asserted that the act has been a great influence leading to adjustments of minor differences between general contractors and subcontractors and between contractors and material dealers, as well as between contractors and their clients.

The director said that a large number of the complaints filed with the bureau against contractors arise from misunderstanding, which readily yield to arbitration. There will be no tolerance shown those who deliberately violate the license law, said the director.

length of time, let stand overnight again. The next morning measure the fruit and add an equal amount of sugar, bring to a boil, skim well, and cook slowly until a little will jell when dropped on a cold plate. This is what is called the bitter sweet marmalade; if the regular orange marmalade is wanted, eliminate the lemon and grapefruit and use just the oranges.

ENCHILADAS

R. T. A., Los Angeles, Cal. For the enchiladas make a dozen very thin pancakes, made with white cornmeal, lard and water, six inches across, and cook but not brown; now make the Mexican sauce, Chili Colorado, which is used in a number of Mexican dishes. Remove the seeds and strings from a quarter of a pound of dry chili peppers and wash well in plenty of water, cover with cold water and boil for ten minutes; drain and rub them through a colander, add from time to time two cupfuls of hot water, pouring through the peppers until the pulp is the consistency of cream; heat two tablespoonfuls of lard in a saucepan and fry in it one clove of garlic, when the garlic is a light brown, remove it and stir in the chili pulp, a teasponful of grated sweet chocolate, a teaspoonful of sugar, a teaspoonful of salt, and a teaspoonful of vinegar, let simmer for five minutes, and it is ready for use. Chop a cupful of ripe olives fine, three hard-boiled eggs chopped, two-thirds of a cupful of thinly sliced young onions, and two-thirds of a cupful of grated, hard Mexican cheese. Heat half a cupful of lard in a shallow saucepan, slip into the hot lard one of the pancakes, and heat through; remove the heated pancake from the lard and pass it through the hot Chili Colorado, place the pancake on a hot platter, sprinkle it with the chopped eggs, olives, onions and cheese, pour a sponful of the sauce on it and roll it up. Place the rolled tortillas in a shallow baking pan, sprinkle with the rest of the chopped ingredients, pour over the remaining sauce and heat through in a quick oven.

BLACK FRUIT CAKE

W. J. T., Los Angeles, Cal. Cream one and three-quarter cupfuls of butter with two and a quarter cupfuls of sugar, when well creamed beat in eleven eggs and beat until smooth, sift four cupfuls of flour with one teaspoonful of cloves, four teaspoonfuls of nutmeg, two teaspoonfuls of mace, and three teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, add the flour mixture to the creamed butter, sugar and eggs, and beat until smooth, add half a cupful of molasses, add four tablespoonfuls of orange juice, add two pounds of well-floured and seeded raisins, two pounds of seedless raisins and three pounds of finely chopped candied fruit, such as orange, lemon, citron or grapefruit peel, candied cherries and pineapple. Mix all together, line baking pans with two thicknesses of oiled paper, fill three-quarters full and bake in a slow oven.

SOUTHERN FRIED CHICKEN

A. E. K., Los Angeles, Cal. Clean and cut the chicken into joints, or if a small one cut in half, make a batter with two eggs, four tablespoonfuls of flour and a seasoning of salt and pepper, wash the chicken and dry thoroughly. Roll it in the batter, covering it well, place four tablespoonfuls of shortening in a saute pan, allow to become hot, then place the chicken in it, brown on both sides, then cover the pan and let cook until tender, on a slow fire. Remove to a hot platter, garnish with corn fritters and parsley.

TOASTED CHEESE ROLLS

W. M. C., Los Angeles, Cal. Cut sandwich bread very thin, removing the crusts; take American cream cheese, cut a very thin slice of it, about one-half an inch smaller than the slice of bread, roll up tightly, and pin together with toothpicks, place the rolls in a baking pan and place them in the broiler part of your oven and slowly toast them until brown, turning over to brown on both sides.

CONDUCT OF WOMEN DEFENDED

Co-respondent Says She Was Just Friend to Ware; Actor Upholds Wife

Harry L. Ware and Mrs. George A. Lamb, named by Mrs. Carolyn M. Ware as co-respondent in her separate maintenance suit against Ware, were nothing more than friends, according to the testimony of Mrs. Lamb yesterday, who was on the witness stand for several hours in the court of Superior Judge Engs to testify in behalf of Ware and at the same time defend herself against the charges made by his wife.

Mrs. Lamb was one of the first witnesses following the close of the wife's side of the case wherein she accused Ware of associating with other women. Ware in his answer to the suit and in his petition for a divorce makes a counter-charge, accusing Mrs. Ware of being too friendly with Theodore Jennings, film actor.

Under examination Jennings emphatically denied his relations with Mrs. Ware were anything more than those of a mere friend.

The trial of the case will continue for several days. The wife is asking for separate maintenance, asserting her husband's income is $2500 a month.

YOUTH HELD ON CHARGE OF PEEPING

Burglary Suspect Caught by Citizens as He Tries to Flee from Neighborhood

Accused of being a "Peeping Tom," William T. Seeley, 19 years of age, yesterday was in the County Jail as a burglary suspect after having been captured by a number of citizens in the 1700 block on East Fifty-eighth street last Wednesday night.

Seeley, it was revealed in Sheriff's office reports, was captured when he sought to flee from George Stone, Sr., resident of a bungalow court at 1738 East Fifty-eighth street. He was held at bay by several neighbors when he climbed a ladder to the roof of a house on an adjoining lot.

Witnesses told deputy sheriffs of seeing a man resembling him peep into a window of the home of Mrs. George Stone, Jr., daughter-in-law of Stone, last week.

Seeley, who gave his address as 8919 Junction street, admitted he has been to the court on a previous occasion and said he returned Wednesday night to resume search for a friend whose address he said he did not know, but who he believes lives near-by.

Boast on Ring Cited at Trial for Burglary

Testimony intended to show that Dallas Van Cleve bragged to a friend that he would get all the jewels of Mrs. Josephine Bill, was introduced yesterday at the man's trial in Superior Judge Aggeler's court on a burglary charge.

Clarence Brown testified that on July 12, 1928, Van Cleve exhibited a large diamond ring and exclaimed: "Look what my red-headed mama gave me." Van Cleve also declared that he intended to get the rest of the woman's jewels, Brown asserted.

Mrs. Hill charges that Van Cleve entered her apartment and took $4000 worth of jewelry and $140 in cash. A fingerprint found on one of the trunk straps is one of the principal bits of evidence.

APPRENTICES OF SANTA FE MEET

Carnegie Foundation Head Addresses Club Session

Dr. Henry S. Pritchett in Inspiring Discourse

Good Mechanic Must be Man of Education, He Says

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 20.—Members of the apprentice clubs of the Santa Fe Railroad system, in the second day of their annual gathering here today, heard an address by Dr. Henry S. Pritchett, president of the Carnegie Foundation, and for several years a director and member of the executive committee of the Santa Fe company.

The Santa Fe family, comprising some 70,000 persons, always has need for large numbers of trained mechanics and for several years has maintained an apprentice system for training of young men with ambition to become experts in various shops and mechanical trades connected with the railroad. Most of these apprentices are high school graduates and many have college work, and for some years the railroad has been able to obtain all of its mechanics through this organization.

MUST HAVE LOVE FOR WORK

Dr. Pritchett pointed out to the club members that the mechanical work of railroading is a highly technical branch, requiring accuracy, thorough knowledge of the work and a love for it, to be successful. All of which means, he said, that a good mechanic must be an educated man.

Education, Dr. Pritchett pointed out, often is not obtained in public schools and colleges, where a supposed education often consists of acquisition of miscellaneous bits of knowledge. True education, he asserted, consists of that training of the mind which one acquires by learning a few things well. A man becomes a good mechanic when he has thoroughly grounded himself in the fundamental principles of mechanics and has a mind so trained that he can go on to better and finer work with each succeeding year.

POINTS TO LINCOLN

The speaker pointed to Lincoln as an outstanding example of an educated man, although he attended only a primitive type of school not more than six months during his lifetime. He also pointed to the incumbent president of the Santa Fe, who started out carrying a chain, but, through diligent application and hard work, rose to be the chief executive of one of the world's greatest transportation systems.

The professor urged his young hearers to make themselves masters of their vocation, to educate themselves as they go along, and to keep in mind that both happiness and success are to be found only by those who put the best they have in them into the daily job.

Plans of Hotel Being Prepared

REDLANDS, Feb. 20.—David Kaufman, who plans to build a commercial hotel on East State street, in a letter to Verne Matson says that plans and specifications are now being drawn.

Despite the fact that the full amount has not been subscribed for purchase of the lot at Ninth and East State streets, David Kaufman, attorney of Los Angeles, who expects to erect and operate the hotel, states that he is ready to commence construction next month if there is reasonable assurance that the local part of the contribution will later be realized.

"I will have the plans and specifications completed by our architects by the 27th inst.," Kaufman writes, "and any time after that will be ready to submit them to your committee at any date you may set, so that we can begin construction early in March."

The site wanted is owned by the Cortner brothers and is to be sold to the local group at a price of $10,000. Contributions for the purchase have come from property owners and others interested in seeing the hotel built. There are to be no bonds or notes, except that Kaufman is to place $10,000 in a local bank as pledge of good faith, to be returned to him if he builds, and returned to the pledgees if he fails to carry out his agreement. The lot would be a gift outright to Kaufman, the donors benefiting only through property valuation increase.

Mayor Allen Wheaton of the Chamber of Commerce hotel committee today set March 3 as the day for inspection of the Kaufman plans, after conference with Matson. It will be a dinner meeting and at that time it will be decided if the local group is ready to cooperate with the Los Angeles attorney on the terms proposed.

Suicide's Body Found at Beach

REDONDO BEACH, Feb. 20.—The body of a man about 60 years of age, a suicide by cyanide poisoning, found in a vacant lot near Beryl and Lucia streets early this morning, is at the Cate Funeral chapel awaiting identification. A half-empty vial of the poison and a suicide note telling of the uselessness of keeping up the struggle because of his age lay beside the body.

The initials J. A. C., with which the note was signed, and the name of a San Pedro oculist stamped in a spectacle case, furnish the only clew to his identity.

The man was about 6 feet in height, weighing 170 pounds and wore a dark blue pin-striped suit, gray hat and vest. Death had occurred some time during the night, according to the report of Autopsy Surgeon Webb.

CITY ASKED PRICE OF HOSIERY

Miss Ina Ingersoll Demands Payment From Glendale Council for Silk Stockings Ruined in Street Fall; No Claim Made for Bruised Knees

GLENDALE, Feb. 20.—Among the claims presented to the City Council today for payment was one from Miss Ina Ingersoll, who asked that the city pay her $1.50 for damages sustained by a pair of silk hose when she caught her French heel in a hole in the sidewalk and tripped on North Brand Boulevard. Miss Ingersoll informed the Council that she had been bruised on both knees and that she had suffered from shock so badly that it was necessary for her to receive treatment at the Glendale Emergency Hospital. Records at the hospital show that Miss Ingersoll had had her bruises soothed after her tumble, but at that time she is said to have stated that her home was in Bakersfield. Her claim to the Council, however, asks that the check in payment for the damaged hose be sent to general delivery in Glendale. Councilman Sam A. Davis, city street commissioner, while disclaiming any personal responsibility for the injury to Miss Ingersoll's hose, offered to pay the $1.50 out of his own pocket. But, as this would have been a distinct violation of municipal precedent, he was finally overruled and the claim was referred to City Attorney B. C. Brennan for investigation. Miss Ingersoll expressed her willingness to waive any damage claims arising out of her bruised knees, but she was determined to stand pat on the replacement of her stockings.

JUNIOR COLLEGE AIDED

Encouraged by State Official, Pomona Civic Leaders Plan Creation of District to Support School

POMONA, Feb. 20.—With aid promised by Nicholas Ricciardi, chief of the division of city secondary schools, State Department of Education, decision was reached at a meeting of civic leaders in the Chamber of Comemrce rooms today to create a junior college district for Pomona and vicinity that will make the local junior college a strong one. Handicapped by lack of sufficient finances, the local institution, which is housed in the high school building, has been the subject of conjecture for some time, sentiment at different times having been in favor of abandoning it. But today's meeting 'crystallized into unanimous decision to take the matter in hand and take such necessary steps that will make the Pomona Junior College second to none in the State.

Prominent in the movement to increase the scope of this institution are Emmet Clark, superintendent of schools, and A. L. Hickson, local attorney. A special committee is to be appointed to investigate the matter, the body to be named by the educational committee of the local chamber composed of Brice J. King, chairman, L. L. Wright, John Todd, J. R. Stead and A. L. Hickson. Ricciardi, accompanied by Dean Kemp of the School of Education, University of California, will be in this city on April 18 and 19 to aid Pomonans in the solution of the junior college problem, it was announced by Clark.

NEW SITE SUGGESTED FOR PARK

State and Orange County Propose Location Along Ocean Front

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 20. That the State Park Commissioner and the Orange County Supervisors tentatively have accepted the site proposed between Newport Beach and Huntington Beach for a State park is announced by T. B. Talbert, Huntington Beach resident and former commissioner who has been working on the project for many months. One of the members of the State Park Commission inspected the site and declared the location as ideal.

The tentative site consists of a strip of land a quarter of a mile in width and seven miles in length, covering 392.36 acres, with 12,600 feet of beach frontage. This added to the municipal beach already owned by Huntington Beach and Newport Beach would cover a distance of nine miles of beach frontage owned by the public. The entire cost of the tentative site selected amounts to approximately $1,482,000.

Out of the funds laid aside for State parks, the State would furnish half the cost and the county the other half. Talbert has announced that the State would pay for all improvements and developments as soon as the purchase was made which, in time, would amount to more than the actual cost of the land. Talbert also said that the County Supervisors would call a bond issue for the same amount that the State would provide.

When the committee working on the deal can obtain an option on a small parcel of the strip, the proposition can be submitted to the State and if accepted by the park commissioners, an election will be called that the people of Orange county may declare themselves.

NO INQUEST TO BE HELD IN DAUL CASE

PASADENA, Feb. 20.—No inquest will be held in the case of George Daul of 627 South Normandie avenue, Los Angeles, who died last night at the Pasadena Hospital after swallowing a large quantity of ant poison, police reported today. Daul, a former police judge at Avalon, Catalina Island, left several notes to his wife asking forgiveness for his act and indicating that he was worried about finances. At one time, Daul was manager of the Arrowhead Club at Lake Arrowhead. He was a Mason and an Elk. Funeral arrangements will be announced by Overholtzer's, Los Angeles.

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20. Wilbur Price today assumed his duties as secretary of the North Hollywood Chamber of Commerce. He succeeds B. B. Basore who resigned not long ago. Basore has been sick at home for the last two weeks.

Charities Body Concludes Year of Good Work

REDLANDS, Feb. 20.—Reports showing an endowment fund nearing the $10,000 mark, of a year completed with funds sufficient to do the necessary work, with greatest interest among the members and board members, and the respect of the entire community, featured the annual meeting of the Associated Charities, which was held this morning in the rooms at the City Hall.

E. M. Lyon, president of the organization, presided and spoke first of the loss of two members, who have meant much to the organization, Frederick C. Hornby, a member of the board for nineteen years and Daniel Smiley, an honorary member of the board. At the election of officers Lyon was again named president, despite strong protest on his part; K. H. Field was made first vice-president; Mrs. J. S. Edwards, second vice-president; Mrs. John P. Fisk, recording secretary, and F. H. Clock, treasurer. Mrs. B. E. Van De Carr, for so many years the general secretary, will again hold that post.

The report of the visiting nurse, Mrs. Daisy Morgan, shows that during the year 2314 calls were made, thirty-four new cases handled, nineteen births, six deaths, nine sent to the County Hospital, fifty different diseases were nursed; there were 196 minor ailments, three were given blood tests, four helped with broken bones, there were forty-nine in the baby clinic and she assisted in the vaccination of 203 persons.

HUGE PAVING JOB IN VALLEY BEGINS

CHATSWORTH, Feb. 20. — The pouring of concrete on Devonshire street has started at Santa Susana Boulevard, and is now working eastward across San Fernando Valley. The work of paving this long and important highway is being done by John Papac, who recently completed the paving of all the sidewalks in Van Nuys. The paving of Devonshire street means much to the northern end of the valley, for later the highway is to be connected with the Ridge Route via Andora avenue and Brown Canyon. This will make a much shorter route inland in the direction of Bakersfield. When the present work is completed there will be a wide pavement clear across the valley from San Fernando city to Santa Susana Pass.

LETTUCE STRIKE BLOWS UP

Hundreds of Those Who Started Walkout in Imperial Valley Seek Old Jobs; New Men Retained

CALEXICO, Feb. 20.—The Imperial Valley strike of the lettuce packers collapsed today and the 450 men who walked out eight days ago after the shippers refused to grant their demand for an increase in pay, asked to be given work again at the same scale which they formerly received. First indication that the strikers were ready to concede their failure developed at Brawley yesterday when a number of the men asked to be restored to their jobs. Packers in El Centro, Heber and Calexico followed suit today.

Shippers operating some of the sheds refused to discharge the emergency workers who have been taking the places of the striking packers, and many of the strikers found themselves without jobs today.

The employers announced last week that they would not deal with the men as long as they remained on strike. This decision, together with the fact that the sheds have continued to supply all the lettuce the market would absorb, have combined to weaken the position of the workers.

The shippers' clearinghouse found it necessary this week to restrict shipments to 250 cars daily, due to an oversupplied market, and it was indicated today that more drastic reductions might be made. The total output for the season to date is 7600 carloads.

SHEEP - RAISING UNIT OPENS

Scientific and Intensive Plans Made

Miss Fern Davidson and Pet of Alhambra Flock

New methods in sheep raising will be demonstrated by company which opens unit in Alhambra that is planned to expand into flock of 100,000 animals, to be housed in pens and roofed inclosures, instead of wandering in the opening.

ALHAMBRA, Feb. 20.—Sheep raising is to be revived in Southern California on a scientific and intensive system, it was revealed by the informal opening here today of a demonstration unit, which ultimately will be expanded into a plant of 100,000 animals, according to the plans.

In contrast to olden days when great bands from 1000 to 3000 sheep were grazed under a herder, the demonstration unit, located just east of Del Mar avenue on Valley Boulevard, three-quarters of a mile south of the Western Air Express field, provides for the permanent housing of the sheep in specially constructed pens with roofed inclosures. Miss Fern Davidson was one of the visitors at today's opening.

The demonstration of the modern method of sheep raising was arranged by the Diamond Valley Walnut Company of California as the initial step in the plan to feed 100,000 sheep on products of the soil grown as intercrops in their orchards. The plan will comprise approximately 2000 units.

The unit under operation here houses twenty-six ewes in one pen, which is half the regular size, with concrete floors and the latest appliances for scientific feeding of ground materials and molasses, carrying out the same principle as that being successfully used in the production of baby beef.

According to William Swanson, president of the Diamond Valley Walnut Company of California, the organization plans to lease the sheep from individuals and operate the huge plant on a co-operative basis, profits to be derived from the sale of milk-fed lambs, wool and fertilizer.

Sheep raising in California in the past has been chiefly confined to grazing great bands with consequent heavy losses from marauding coyotes and other predatory animals, exposure to storms, smothering of lambs through the habits of crowding of bands of the animals, and other exigencies of handling large numbers in the open, according to Swanson.

Under the method which the company is developing, it is anticipated that savings can be effected and larger profits realized through bringing the animals to a marketable size earlier and producing a much higher quality of lamb, Swanson states.

C. H. Preis is commander of the John F. Dillon Camp, and will preside over the ceremony Sunday at 3 p.m. A. C. Munson of Los Angeles, department commander for the Spanish War Veterans, has announced his acceptance as master of ceremonies for the occasion. Several other distinguished figures in Spanish War and G.A.R. ranks are expected to be present.

Search Victim Demands Okeh by Attorney

SANTA BARBARA, Feb. 20.—"Just a minute, officers, wait until I call my attorney and see if your search warrant is legal." So said William Smith of 1910 Robbins street last night as Detective Lieutenant H. S. Coit and Detective Allan Haug stepped to the door and announced their intention of searching his house for liquor.

Smith called his attorney. The warrant was legal, so Smith, a five-gallon can of freshly mixed gin, and the two officers returned to the police station, where Smith was duly booked for possession of intoxicating liquor, and was later released after posting $250 bail.

Sheriff Reopens 'Shotgun-Death Case Inquisition

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 20.—Investigation into the shotgun death of Thomas J. Wasson, retired army officer of Bakersfield, was resumed today by Sheriff Ed Cooper on the basis of a new clew which was not divulged. The inquiry, which has occupied the Sheriff's office haltingly since shortly after Wasson's death last October 9, now enters its second week of active inquiry with Wasson's widow, Elsie, and her mother, Mrs. D. E. Rosear, 70 years of age, keeping in touch with the officers.

Until reopened today, the case had rested with the District Attorney, who had been expected to decide Friday whether prosecution would be warranted.

The findings of the Sheriff's office were contrary to the report of Coroner Kelly at the time of Wasson's death, that the discharge of the shotgun was accidental. Photographic evidence of experiments tending to prove the shotgun could not be discharged accidentally, were submitted to the District Attorney by Undersheriff Oliver Sexson. Wasson was shot through the back with his own gun, at the Alpine ranch of his mother-in-law.

Both Mrs. Wasson and Mrs. Rosear were with Wasson, the officers investigating said. Mrs. Rosear was said to have told the officers she was preparing a bed for Wasson to retire, when the loaded shotgun fell to the floor, discharging both barrels simultaneously.

Sheriff Cooper contends the investigation has disclosed that apparently the two barrels did not discharge at once.

LIQUEFIED GAS WILL BE SHIPPED IN CARS

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Feb. 20. Liquefied petroleum gas, heretofore shipped in cylinders, will be transported from this city in tank cars. The first new car arrived here yesterday. W. R. Osborne, agent at the Pacific Electric depot, said that the car, especially constructed, of the No. 90,000 series, is a Standard Oil car and will carry the first gas sent out in this novel way from this shipping point to Ukiah. The gas can be moved faster and there will be a saving in the handling, he said.

GOVERNOR TO SPEAK

HUNTINGTON PARK, Feb. 20. Gov. Young will be the speaker at the annual banquet to be held by the Chamber of Commerce on the evening of March 13. The affair will take place in the banquet hall at the Administration Building in the Central Manufacturing District, and several hundred persons will be in attendance.

AUTOS IN MERRY-GO-ROUND

Motorists Who Disregarded Warnings of Officers of Slick Paving After Rain on Glendale Avenue Come to Grief After Dizzy Whirl

GLENDALE, Feb. 20.—Motorists who tried to pilot their cars along Glendale avenue today during the rain found their machines indulging in a merry-go-round on the smooth surface that had been left in the wake of the scraping machines that have been leveling the paving that has, in the past, aroused the ire of property owners and motorists by its washboard effect.

The slick top of the paving, coupled with the light rain, turned the street into something that resembled glass, coated with oil, and more than a score of automobiles skidded around and came to rest against the curbing, damaging a large number of them. None of the drivers or their passengers suffered any injuries.

So serious did the condition become that traffic officers were stationed at Colorado Boulevard to direct cars east and west of Glendale avenue. Most of the motorists accepted the advice of the police, but the headstrong drivers who did not, realized their mistake before they had gone more than a few blocks and were ready to hunt a side street where their wheels would grip.

WIDOW'S DAMAGE SUIT ON

Relict of Truck Driver Killed in Collision With House Blocking Road, Seeks $100,300 in Court

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 20.—Trial of the $100,300 damage action arising out of the death of Perry Purdy, driver of a Los Angeles bakery truck, killed nearly a year ago when his truck collided in the early morning with a house blocking a part of Mission Boulevard in West Riverside, opened before a jury in the Superior Court today. Two days have been reserved for the hearing.

Plaintiffs in the action are Nina S. Purdy, widow of the crash victim, and her five small sons, Perry L., 7 years of age; William G., 5; Lester L., 4, and Robert E. and Richard E., twins of 1 year. Defendants include Frank G. Richmond, owner of the house-moving equipment, W. S. Roeder and George W. Wood, operators in charge of the house being transported along the highway, and a company referre dto in the complaint as Green & Black.

Mrs. Purdy asks $100,000 for the loss to herself and children of the "love affection and support" of Purdy, and $300 for funeral expenses. Defendants in this suit were prosecuted in Superior Court shortly after the accident for manslaughter, but were acquitted. Richmond was fined in justice court for violations of the California Vehicle Act involving the use of equipment in poor condition.

Wood and Roeder were shown to have had no more responsibility in the accident other than that they were carrying out instructions given by Richmond. The house was being moved westward on Mission Road without a permit from the State Highway Division. Purdy, apparently not seeing the obstruction, crashed his truck into one corner of the house, ripping off a long floor timber. The board pierced the truck cab and impaled the ill-fated driver upon it, killing him instantly.

TRAFFIC TO BE CURBED BY SHERIFF

San Diego County Official Instructs Deputies to Aid War on Reckless Drivers

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 20.—Orders to watch for traffic violations and report direct to him were issued today by Sheriff Ed Cooper to more than 100 deputies throughout the city, in an effort to co-operate in the campaign against careless auto drivers.

Violators thus reported will be called to his office for questioning. If the violation proves to be a flagrant one, immediate prosecution on a fitting charge will result, the Sheriff said, whereas if it be a minor one, a warning only will be administered. However, two or more complaints against any one driver will result in arrest, regardless of the triviality of any one given offense against the motor vehicle laws, the Sheriff explained.

Copies of the Motor Vehicle Act, together with citation cards, were issued to the deputies. These cards list twelve common forms of violation and provide space for others where found necessary.

First, the Sheriff lists failure to stop and render aid after an accident. Then, in the order named, follow reckless driving, passing on the right, wrong side of street, failure to give way to a faster vehicle after due signal, failure to slow down for blind intersections, failure to signal, leaving curb and entering traffic without signaling, passing boulevard stop lights, violating the parking laws, driving with license plates mutilated or obscured.

The cards, already stamped, were prepared for mailing to the Sheriff for his personal attention. The Sheriff himself went on record with the first complaint, having stopped a driver for failure to accord a pedestrian right of way.

Orange Show in Rainmaker Role Sixteenth Time

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 20.—San Bernardino's twentieth Orange Show today became the sixteenth classic as a rainmaker. The tradition that the orange show brings rain was upheld when early today a light storm swept in over the valley. In the earlier days of the show, almost invariably storms accompanied the exposition despite the juggling of the dates from year to year by the show executives.

It was Mutual Orange Distributors' Day at the show and hundreds of ranchers who market their fruit through the association were the guests at the classic. General Manager E. P. Early of the Mutual Orange Distributors, was one of the speakers. A. F. Whitney, grand president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, was another guest, speaking from the main stage.

Tomorrow will be Hemet, San Jacinto, Pasadena and Corona Day at the exposition, which is drawing thousands of visitors to its golden portals daily.

Power Company Officials Hold Annual Meeting

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 20.—Scores of employees, district superintendents, managers and officials of the associated subsidiary companies of the Nevada-California Electric Corporation, which includes the Southern Sierras Power Company, arrived in Riverside today for their annual meeting, which opened this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Golden State Theater.

The opening session was attended by all the visitors and most of the local employees and was presided over by Henry Coil, general counsel of the Southern Sierras Power Company.

A. B. West made the first address. There was a review of the year's operations by F. O. Dolson, general manager; a report of the operations of the Imperial Ice and Development Company by R. P. Moore, general superintendent, and a pictorial review of progress by E. J. Waugh, construction engineer.

During the three days' sessions of the officials and employees of the associated companies there will be featured a review of the history of the system, which is twenty-five years old and began as a small power corporation of Denver, organized for the purpose of developing hydroelectric power in the Sierras for transmission to the mining fields of Nevada, later extending to Southern California, Arizona and Lower California, Mex.

PLAN COMMISSION FORMED

New Orange County Body Organizes, Electing Dr. Walter L. Bigham of Anaheim as Chairman

SANTA ANA, Feb. 20.—Organized with Dr. Walter L. Bigham of Anaheim as chairman, and Mrs. R. A. Cushman, local attorney, as secretary, the newly appointed County Planning Commission today was giving careful study to the county's planning situation, the body's first announced plan being to proceed slowly and cautiously before adopting any other plan or policy. The organization meeting, which called the nine members of the commission together for the first time, was held late yesterday in the Supervisors' room in the Courthouse.

After selecting its officers, the commission discussed the situation ahead of it and agreed that, for the present, it would adopt no aggressive course, but would content itself with considering whatever matters are brought before it, and, above all, would under no consideration act hastily on any proposal.

Three county officials, Highway Superintendent Nat H. Neff, County Supervisor W. H. Hillyard and Dist.-Atty. Z. B. West, Jr., are included in the personnel of the commission, the other six members being recruited from the five Supervisorial districts of the county.

Secretary Cushman and Jules Markel, both of this city, represent the Santa Ana or First District; Merwin Rosson, City Engineer of Huntington Beach, is from the second District; Dr. Bigham from the Third District; Hugh T. Thomson of Villa Park from the Fourth District, and Louis Briggs, Balboa, is the Fifth-District member.

The Planning Commission will hold its next meeting Thursday, the 28th inst., it was decided.

TRIO ARRESTED IN CHECK PLOT

Letter Sent to Chicago Tips Off Police Here

Suspects Believed to Have Started Forgery Flood

Grips Filled With Blanks from Score of Cities

A carefully laid plot to deluge Los Angeles and environs with spurious checks drawn on banks in a score of eastern cities was frustrated yesterday, according to police, with the arrest of J. H. Huntoon, 60 years of age; David H. Murdock, 30, and Roy E. Stevens, 38.

Acting upon information obtained from police of Oak Park, a suburb of Chicago, Detective Lieutenants White and McGee of the central forgery detail found Huntoon and Murdock in a rooming-house at Fourth and Los Angeles streets. In their possession, the detectives said, were two suit cases full of blank checks many of them bearing the names of local business establishments. The checks, the detectives believe, were either gathered by confederates in the eastern cities or were printed locally from copies.

The information from the Oak Park police was that they had found in the possession of a robbery suspect a letter asking him to procure a cashier's check from a Chicago bank for $10 and a draft on a New York bank for a similar amount and to send them here by air mail. The letter was signed "Nick." Huntoon, according to the detectives, has used the alias of Nick Harvey and obtained his mail here through a downtown office building. He is said to have served three penitentiary sentences.

Included in numerous recent complaints from local banks the detectives found, they said, checks similar to the ones discovered in the possession of the suspects. So far, they stated, they have found one check cashed by Huntoon at a local clothing store.

Stevens was taken into custody shortly after the arrest of Huntoon and Murdock.

Councilman to Accuse Quinn of Criminal Libel

A criminal libel complaint against John A. Quinn, organizing chairman of the Developers' Association, based upon a letter recently sent the City Council, was being drawn yesterday by City Prosecutor Nix. This morning the complaint will be submitted to Councilman Webster for his signature. It was Webster who appealed to Nix for action.

The charge is based on the statement in Quinn's letter that Webster offered to oppose the Alphonzo Bell cement ordinance for $5000, the offer assertedly being made to Arthur A. Webber and other members of the Miramar Estates Syndicate, opponents of Bell's scheme. Webster consulted attorneys on the course he could take against Quinn.

SLAYER OF FIVE ADJUDGED SANE

Second Verdict Equivalent to Murder Conviction

Jury Finds Him Normal at Time of Crimes

Present Mental Condition Determined Last Week

After only half an hour of deliberation a jury in Superior Judge McComb's court brought in a verdict last night that Armando Boltares, confessed slayer of five members of the Alvarez-Garcia family in Bootleggers' Canyon last October, was sane at the time the crimes were committed.

Inasmuch as the plea of Boltares to the first-degree murder charge against him was not guilty by reason of insanity, the verdict of the jury automatically declares him guilty of murder and liable either to execution or life imprisonment. Judge McComb set next Monday as the date for hearing pleas by counsel concerning the nature of the sentence and for the imposition of sentence.

Previous to the present trial Boltares had had a preliminary trial to determine whether he is sane at present, the purpose being to establish whether he was sane enough to be tried for murder. He was found to be sane at present. During the trial which ended last night the testimony was confined to the question of whether he was sane at the time he committed the murders.

SHH! ALL'S QUIET ON TULLY-GILBERT FRONT

To all appearances John Gilbert, debonair screen actor, and Jim Tully, hobo author, have brought their long-standing feud to an end following a little surprise party in Hollywood to which they were invited unbeknown to each other.

Herman Mankiewicz, film executive, who arranged a stag party at his home with Gilbert and Tully among his guests, declared yesterday the meeting between the two ended their misunderstanding. This began two years ago when Tully wrote a magazine story about Gilbert, and culminated sensationally several days ago when Gilbert challenged the author and got knocked down.

At the Mankiewicz party, it was reported, Gilbert and Tully shook hands, but neither mentioned their encounter, which took place about two weeks ago before scores of midnight diners in the Brown Derby Restaurant in Hollywood. The stag party took place Wednesday night.

Yesterday a number of Gilbert's friends declared the actor confided in them he resented the prearranged plans to bring about his meeting with Tully without taking him in on the scheme. It was reported that Gilbert did not linger long at the party and, as his friends said, is "put out" because of what Mankiewicz did.

Mankiewicz insisted yesterday, however, that the meeting between Gilbert and Tully went off as scheduled and brought an end to their misunderstanding.

"It was all so silly and I thought that inasmuch as I was entertaining it would be the best thing to invite Gilbert and Tully," Mankiewicz stated.

"Neither knew the other would be a guest at the party. Tully arrived first and was talking to other guests when Gilbert came in. When they saw each other they walked over and shook hands and the matter was dropped. Nothing was said about their difficulties and everything went off smoothly."

The other guests at the affair included Joe Mankiewicz, Benjamin Glazer, Laurence Stallings, King Vidor, Edwin Knopf, George Fitzmaurice, Paul Bern, John McCormick, Carey Wilson, Ed Wasserman and Arthur Hornblow.

ALTAR RING HANDICAP REMOVED BY COURT

Mrs. Pauline Belletch told Superior Judge Gates yesterday that she "couldn't be a film actress with a wedding ring," when her husband, Constantine Belletch, applied for a divorce on the grounds that she passed herself off as an unmarried woman. Judge Gates granted the divorce.

THEFT CHARGED TO EX-BANK EMPLOYEE

Percy F. Seligman, former employee of the Bank of Italy branch at Wilshire and Beverly boulevards, yesterday was charged with one count of grand theft in a complaint issued by Dep. Dist.-Atty. Richardson. It is charged that Seligman returned to the bank after he had been discharged and stole a cashier's check upon which he obtained $600 in cash at another bank.

COAST FLEET AUGMENTED

Dreadnaughts California and Tennessee to be Here This Summer as Gunnery School Ships

The port's naval colony will be bolstered this coming summer by the presence of the dreadnaughts California and Tennessee during the battle fleet's cruise to Puget Sound. They will be at the base until August 2 as school ships for the officers' advanced gunnery course.

The battleship Idaho, originally scheduled to remain at San Pedro for the gunnery school, will instead cruise out to Honolulu and up and down the coast during the summer as school ship for the summer training courses of the Navy R.O.T.C. units from the universities of California and Washington. The Idaho's schedule, as announced by the Navy Department, follows: Leave San Francisco with University of California unit, June 14; arrive Seattle June 18, embark University of Washington unit and sail for Honolulu same date; arrive Honolulu June 28 and sail July 2; arrive San Francisco July 10, debark California unit and sail July 11; arrive Seattle July 14 and debark Washington unit.

The United States fleet flagship Texas, as a result of being selected with the battleship Wyoming for R.O.T.C. training duty on the Atlantic Coast, will not arrive here with the battle fleet June 21. The Texas and Wyoming will carry R. O. T. C. units from Harvard, Yale, Northwestern and the Georgia School of Technology.

Selection of the flag officers to command the various forces of the United States Fleet, expected to be announced this month, will be withheld until after the return of Secretary of the Navy Adams from the naval conference in London, it was learned yesterday. The slate, as a result of Mr. Adams's absence, probably will not be announced until late May, that it may conform with the list of captains to be recommended for promotion to rear-admirals by the selection board.

NEW RADIO BILL PROSPECTS DIM

Prolonged Debate on Tariff Causes Hopes to Fade

Existing Set-up Far from Satisfactory to West

Light Opera Program Listed by KHJ for Tonight

> The Times Forum, KHJ., at 10:30 a.m. will present Dr. Philip M. Lovell, editor "Care of the Body."
> Note: Beginning Monday, The Times Forum period will be held from 1:30 to 2 p.m., instead of 10:30 a.m., daily except Sunday.

BY JOHN S. DAGGETT

Little hope is held out for enactment of a communications control bill at this session of Congress, as the result of the lengthy Senate debate on the tariff. Following the disposal of the tariff the upper house will be faced with the task of handling the appropriation bills for the various governmental departments.

While, so far, no great opposition has been evidenced to the general plan of placing the control of all forms of communication under a single body, many questions will come up including distribution of facilities, chain programs, the activities of the R.C.A. and the methods of the Radio Commission in handling its work.

WESTERN CONTENTION

The West, in particular, feels aggrieved over the present set-up, contending that population is not a proper basis for distribution. It asserts that a high-power eastern station can reach several times as many people as a similar station west of the Mississippi, and that, therefore, the East does not need so many stations to provide adequate entertainment.

The entire situation, members of Congress have declared, requires a great deal of study with a view to developing some method of distribution which will be based on actual conditions and needs within each zone and not solely on the number of people therein.

WHERE TO DIAL

KHJ at 9:30 a.m. will appeal to women with its Feminine Fancies and the KFRC Concert Orchestra, songs and talks. At 8:30 p.m. Spanish music, cowboys, comedy and early California rancho life will be brought to listeners-in. At 9 o'clock tonight the KFI Organ Ensemble promises an hour of concert music of dignity and beauty, while at 10 o'clock the KFI Symphonet with Jean Dunn will present ballads and love songs in discreet vein.

PROTESTS DENIED

Protests against the improvement of Victoria avenue from a point 460 feet north of Fifty-second street to Slauson avenue were denied yesterday by the City Council, but the matter was referred back to the Public Works Committee for further consideration. Hearing of protests against the improvement of Olive street from Seventh to Pico streets was continued until March 4.

HISTORIC LARIAT STILL IN PICTURES

Fay Wray and Lariat

The most famous of all motion-picture lariats is again at work. It hung from the saddle of J. Warren Kerrigan in "The Covered Wagon." Jack Holt used it in "The Thundering Herd." Ernest Torrance drew a number of laughs from its use in "North of 36." It was the property of Gary Cooper in "The Virginian."

In practically every Zane Grey western produced at the Paramount studios players such as Richard Arlen, Wallace Beery, Jack Holt, Gary Cooper, Lane Chandler and Jack Luden have carried it.

Now it continues its progress through pictures by being in the hands of Gary Cooper in "The Texan," in which play Fay Wray has the leading feminine role.

MARY NOLAN VEHICLE CHOSEN

Carl Laemmle Picks "What Men Want" for Actress; Clara Bow to Start Work on New Picture; Joseph Poland Writes Original

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

All is calm as a summer morning over at Universal City since it has been decided what Mary Nolan's next picture is to be.

MARY NOLAN

That picture will be titled "What Men Want," but the rumor goes that Miss Nolan herself did not want "What Men Want." And there was a little argument. But apparently Carl Laemmle's powers of persuasion are great, for the argumentative star finally decided she liked the story after all.

James Murray, we hear, is to be Miss Nolan's leading man, while Barbara Kent is likewise, unless something goes wrong, to have an important role, that of the ingenue lead.

"What Men Want" is a novel by Warner Fabian, and one doesn't see how even a picture producer could find a more alluring box-office title.

Clara Bow Returns

The holiday of the "It" Girl, Clara Bow, who has been undergoing a variety of experiences, all the way from being ill in a local hospital to traveling to New York for a vacation, came home last night and is at once to start work.

CLARA BOW

Her next Paramount picture, "True to the Navy," is to go into production under direction of Frank Tuttle.

Frederic March is Miss Bow's leading man, and Harry Green was signed yesterday for the featured comedy lead.

Joan Crawford's New One

When Joan Crawford finishes "Our Blushing Brides" she will almost at once start work for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in a new starring vehicle.

JOAN CRAWFORD

This starring vehicle is nothing less than a story called "Her Fortune," and will be supervised by Harry Rapf.

Joseph Franklin Poland has been engaged to write the story, which will be a talker, and lavish production plans are under way.

Poland, you remember, wrote many successful stories both for Universal and First National.

Niles Welch on Stage

That former picture star, Niles Welch, seems these days destined to lend most of his talents to the stage.

He was signed no longer ago than yesterday by Henry Duffy to play the leading male role in "Let Us Be Gay" when that play opens at El Capitan Theater.

As will be remembered, Welch created that role at the time the play was produced here last summer.

Dowling Home Soon

Word has just been received from Eddie Dowling, who has been absent from Hollywood on a visit to New York, that he will return to us in the very near future to begin work on his new picture, "Honeymoon Lane."

The comedian himself wrote "Honeymoon Lane." He appeared in one picture and then went east, but means henceforth, we hear, to devote his services entirely to the talkers.

Mackenzie Ward Arrives

Another famous British actor has arrived in America to play a part he created on the stage, this time in talking pictures. His name is Mackenzie Ward, and he has signed with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer to play the role of Ernest in "The High Road," which play, you remember, is Frederick Lonsdale's work.

Basil Rathbone has the leading male role opposite Ruth Chatterton, and Sidney Franklin will direct.

Others in the cast include Ralph Forbes, Cyril Chadwick, Herbert Bunston, Moon Carrol, Fred Kerr, Effie Ellsler and Edgar Norton.

Wesley Ruggles Writes

According to a letter from Wesley Ruggles, in Mazatlan, Mex., all that he learned about pantomime in his years of directing silent pictures is of great help to him in directing "The Sea Bat," which is an M.-G.-M. talker. Hardly anybody in Mazatlan speaks English, so that Ruggles has to convey his wishes to his hundreds of native extras by pantomime and gesture. Raquel Torres, though a willing interpreter, cannot serve in this capacity while enacting her many scenes before the camera.

The arrival of the film company is the most exciting thing that has happened in Mazatlan since the last time the town was captured in a revolution.

De Mille Decides Finally

Cecil B. De Mille has finally decided that, after all, no one can play the title role of "Madam Satan" in his new musical picture as well as Kay Johnson, who scored in "Dynamite." She was yesterday, therefore, assigned to the part.

Reginald Denny, as heretofore announced, will sing and play the male lead, while Wynne Gibson, vaudeville star, who played the lead in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Song Writer," will also, as announced yesterday in this column, have an important role.

Roland Young is to have the other principal role in the picture, which is to be done largely in Technicolor.

Francia White in Talkers

Francia White, said to be possessed of a wonderful soprano voice, has just been engaged to play a lead and to sing in a Technicolor short being made at the Metropolitan Studios.

FRANCIA WHITE

Miss White is under contract to Fanchon and Marco. She opens at Loew's State in the Fanchon and Marco Revue "Marble Idea," and from there will begin a ten months' tour through Canada, the East and to New York. The young singer is a local girl, and has played leading roles in light comedy at Shrine Auditorium.

Oakie Signing

It is understood that Jack Oakie, who rose to screen prominence in just a few pictures, is signing a new contract with Paramount. It was reported that the young comedian had some trouble with his manager and the studio over the new contract. This seems to be all settled now, however.

United Artists to Present New Screen Player

Another of the cast of "Lummox" will appear personally at the United Artists' Theater when Dorothy Janis makes her bow from the stage tonight.

DOROTHY JANIS

Down in Texas, she was called "Half Pint." In Hollywood she is referred to as "the luckiest girl in the movies." It was luck that made her a leading woman within three hours after she visited a studio for the first time in her life, but Director Herbert Brenon, when casting her as Chita, declared that her ability was responsible for his selection.

Miss Janis was born in Dallas, Tex. She is 19 years of age and weighs ninety-six pounds. She is one inch short of five feet and claims the distinction of being the smallest star in pictures.

PICTURE PRAISED

Characterized as one of Norma Shearer's best pictures, "Their Own Desires," which was directed by E. Mason Hopper, is now showing in Hollywood.

GAMBLER'S WAYS WELL PORTRAYED

Impression of Gentleman Gamester Deftly Sketched in "Street of Chance"

BY EDWIN SCHALLERT

The life of a gambler, romantically, and one may also say very convincingly, portrayed—that is what "Street of Chance" presents. This picture, directed by John Cromwell, and with William Powell starred, is showing at the Paramount Theater, and it incorporates a well-contrived plot, effectively evolved. Powell dominates the dramatic action, but there are some excellent portrayals by such players as Kay Francis, Regis Toomey and Stanley Fields to name but a few.

The setting is New York, and the leading character leads a dual life of the bond broker, John B. Marsden, and the lucky Natural Davis, who takes on all comers either at cards or dice. There is an underworld thickness to virtually everything that happens, relieved with humor only very occasionally, and the actual finish of the film is tragic. But it is logically carried out.

The reasons why the gambler can't quit are well brought out. Winning once means that he has to play off the victory with the losers. They come back again and again to take their beating. The gambler has to meet the demand, and his adversaries are more often than not an unlikely lot. Gangstering and racketeering are not even a stone's throw away from the pursuit of the habitual game of chance.

In the case of Marsden his bond brokerage business is merely a "cover up" by day for the activities in which he engages during the deep hours of the night. His home is broken and he is under the necessity of keeping his brother "out west" from knowing of his sordid profession. He fears that he, too, will be drawn to the card table and the wheel.

The brother does finally come to New York to get a game with the famous Natural Davis. Out west, he has piled up a small fortune from $10,000 received as a wedding present from that same Mr. Davis, whom he knows only as Marsden. He was to build up this small fortune into a larger one through an encounter with the celebrated eastern gamster.

Natural Davis tries to avoid the encounter, but eventually is forced into it through the fact that his brother's luck is too good, and he has disposed of rather too easily several other practiced gamblers. Davis had arranged with these to play against his brother in the hope that he would lose, and give up the game.

How this all leads to Marsden's death at the hands of his gaming mates, because they think he has doublecrossed them, is adroitly and dramatically disclosed. The final scenes, and indeed very much of this picture is both clever and tense. And though its subject is a sinister and insidious one, there is no giving in as far as the disastrous consequences are concerned. It all can be interpreted as a lesson against, rather than for.

There is real power evinced in the building of the situations, and the smoothness and brevity of much of the dialogue. The speeches allotted to Powell himself are particularly terse, and endow the character therefore with unusual strength. He matches the requirements of the role with a cool and reserved interpretation.

Stanley Fields is a vigorous heavy, with rather exceptional light and shade in his work. Toomey is well cast as the brother. Miss Francis lends the note of distinction to the role of the wife. Jean Arthur appears as the brother's wife. Joan Standing, Betty Francisco and Brooks Benedict are among others. "Street of Chance" was written by Oliver H. P. Garrett, and adapted by Howard Estabrook.

A song cartoon "Shade of the Old Apple Tree," is amusing and at times very original. "The Home Edition," a short comedy, has some very funny moments. These help to balance the seriousness of the main feature. Milton Charles plays selections from "The Vagabond King" on the organ.

TWO EXCELLENT RECITALS HEARD

Volya Cossack and Mischa Gegna Score in Respective Concerts

BY ISABEL MORSE JONES

Two Russian-Americans, Volya Cossack, pianist, and Misha Gegna, violoncellist, gave recitals last night and distinguished themselves by excellent performances. Miss Cossack gave her recital at the Beaux Arts Auditorium and Mr. Gegna appeared at the Philharmonic with the assistance of Alfred Kaufman at the piano.

Volya Cossack has played here with the Classic Ensemble but this recital was the only solo appearance she has made for several years. She is the pupil of famous masters, Thilo Becker, Busoni, Louis Gruenberg and Philipp, and is a graduate of the Conservatoire Americaine at Fontainbleau. She has technical ease and surety and is a graceful as well as intellectual pianist. Her Mozart, as expressed in the Sonata in A minor, is sparkling but not spiritual. Chopin she plays delightfully but without the expected Polish exaggeration which her parentage would indicate.

Her moderns were interesting writings of Debussy, Poulenc, Philipp and the Spanish Infante. Miss Cossack has not any great reverence for overtones, if one judges by her Debussy. The Philipp number was charming, unaffected and graceful and the "Aniers of Infante" showed interesting variations of manner. The Liszt "Capanella" was effectively done and the concert ended with an encore by Brahms.

Misha Gegna accomplished the almost impossible feat of attracting a large audience, although he is a resident musician. He and his manager, Mac Norton, are to be congratulated. The popular 'cellist's program was inclusive, but unforgively long. A sonata by Rubenstein, five movements of the Bach Suite in C major, the Dvorak concerto and a group of shorter numbers by Bloch, Pasternack and Popper made up the list.

The Bach suite for violoncello alone was a brave effort and a difficult one. The Dvorak concerto, which has been recently heard with the Philharmonic Orchestra, fared well under Gegna's bow. His tone broadened out in the adagio and in that movement he gave his most effective interpretation. Bloch's "Prayer" was played with deep feeling and its somber beauty appealed to the audience.

The young cellist is very much at ease on the stage and an audience inspires him. Having toured with Tetrazzini, Mary Garden and other famous singers, Gegna has acquired an attractive stage manner. He masters the technical obstacles of the very difficult instrument he plays without apparent effort and it is a pleasure to hear him in recital.

"New Moon" Bears Approval Stamp

Josephine Houston

Is one good reason why the Romberg operetta is scoring with patrons at the Majestic Theater. The stage production continues on its successful engagement.

FILM MELODRAMA TO OPEN

George Arliss opens an engagement at Warner Brothers Theater in Hollywood today in "The Green Goddess," a Warner Brothers Vitaphone picture. This melodrama was one of Mr. Arliss' most notable stage hits. Through the medium of talking pictures, he is said to give his most interesting and colorful performance of the villainous Rajah.

The story is full of humor and tense drama, it is said. Mr. Arliss receives capable support from the leading members of the cast. Alice Joyce is the heroine. H. B. Warner, one of the best actors of the talking screen, brings force to the role of Maj. Crespin. Ralph Forbes, favorite of the stage and screen, has a strong role. Again Nigel de Brulier, an unusual character actor, plays a weird part.

The story tells of a group of Englishmen stranded in the wilds of the Himilayas and completely at the mercy of a tribe of uncivilized idol worshipers and their cruel Rajah. Alfred E. Green directed.

Vine-Street to Offer Special Matinee Today

Lucille La Verne, noted character actress, will star in "To What Red Hell" at a special matinee today at the Vine Street Theater. William E. Smith is presenting this stirring English drama, which will have its American premiere in Hollywood.

Miss La Verne's role in this new play is the exact antithesis to the one she has played for seven years in "Sun-Up." As Widow Cagle, she showed all the restraint and emotional suppression of a stoic Carolina mountain woman, while as Mother Nolan in "To What Red Hell," she gives vent to natural Gallic sentiment.

The play has a prologue and three acts of two scenes each. Heading the cast are Lucille La Verne, Sheldon Lewis, William Eugene and David Henderson.

Filmarte Bill Changes Today

"Flames on the Volga," coming to the Filmarte Theater tonight, is another film from Russia. It tells a dramatic story set against the colorful background of Catherine the Great's reign.

The action centers on the efforts of the Russians to force the Tartars to accept Christianity and this leading to many stirring episodes and thrilling encounters between the Christian Russians and the non-Christian Tartars. Juri Tarick, one of a group of young Russian artists who are responsible for these Russian films, directed "Flames on the Volga." The cast is headed by W. Jaroslavzeas, Anna Wozjik and A. Schukof.

'Latest Murder' Starts Tonight

A brilliant assemblage of stars, directors and producers will attend the premiere of the "Latest Murder" at the Figueroa Playhouse tonight. Hampton Del Ruth, the author of the play, has selected a cast of notable persons and he feels that they will give an excellent interpretation of the difficult roles.

Dudley Ayres, Theodora Warfield, Del S. Lawrence, Rhea Del Ruth and Lydia Knott portray leading roles in the stage production. Several offers for its picturization have been made the author, it is said.

'RACKETEER' FINDS WAY TO SCREEN

Robert Armstrong, Carol Lombard Enact Roles in Unusual Crook Film

BY JOHN SCOTT

When a woman changes her mind once it is just an incident. When she changes it twice or more there is immediately created a plot for a motion picture. So "The Racketeer," current screen fare at the R.-K.-O. Theater, presents a story on this basis. The heroine is undecided between a master crook and a violin player. The crook is felled by the heartless police, leaving her free to marry the fiddler.

At spasmodic intervals, "The Racketeer" gives promise of developing into something better than the ordinary run of crook film dramas. It has some delightful touches and some that are decidedly not. On the whole it is fair entertainment, bolstered up with the presence of Robert Armstrong and Carol Lombard.

These two may be said to extract the most out of their acting opportunities. Armstrong is the gentleman crook who catches Rhoda, Carol Lombard, cheating in a poker game, thereby becoming acquainted with her needy condition. He previously has rescued her violinist friend from the police, so lends a quite complete helping hand to all concerned.

Rhoda bumps into the perennial question—whether to wed Keene, the crook, and enjoy luxury, or stick by the fiddler, who, incidentally, is given a chance on the concert stage by the gentleman racketeer. But the long arm of the law steps in and provides a solution.

There is surprisingly little violence in the film, belying the title somewhat. Keene orders one of his henchmen put out of the way, and he himself is shot. No bootleg trucks roar through the streets, and no wailing sirens disturb the composure of the spectator.

Armstrong fits his role nicely. His voice records well, as his former films have proved. His acting is restrained and his pace is well measured. He is one actor who can be depended upon to give his best in any part. Miss Lombard reveals a surprising technique both in her manner of portrayal and voice. She should have no qualms of talking pictures, as her voice is low and well modulated. Her striking beauty needs no introduction. Roland Drew is cast as the violinist and appears to advantage, especially in the scenes wherein he portrays a sodden man of the streets.

The large supporting cast is well made up and includes Jeanette Loff, John Loder, Paul Hurst, Kit Guard as Keene's bodyguard, Hedda Hopper, Bud Fine, Bobbie Dunn and Al Hill. The picture was produced by Pathe and ably directed by Howard Higgin.

The stage presentation at the R.-K.-O. headlines Charles Derickson and Burton Brown, tenor and pianist, respectively, although at the opening show Stuart and Lash reaped most of the plaudits. The latter present sense and nonsense, with the emphasis on the nonsense. It registers with the audience, however. Mary Powers and Arthur Jarrett round out the program with their skit.

"NAVY BLUES" AT WESTLAKE

"Navy Blues," starring William Haines, is the feature attraction at the Westlake Theater. "Navy Blues" is the story of a sailor and his sweetheart, a misunderstanding and a reconciliation, mingled with adventures aboard ship and the comical side of navy life. Anita Page is the heroine. The cast includes Karl Dane, J. C. Nugent, Edythe Chapman and Nate Boteler.

NEW PHILO VANCE SEEN AT LOEW'S

Basil Rathbone Portrays Fictional Character in "Bishop Murder Case"

BY PHILIP K. SCHEUER

Mother Goose and Ibsen—there's contrast for you! But is it? They're both sufficiently gory: Henrik with his psychopathic cases, Mother Goose with her murdered Cock Robin, and Humpty Dumpty, who had a great fall, and Jack (last name unknown,) who sustained a fractured skull while out with a young woman who gave her name to reporters as "Jill." The detectives are working on the mystery now, and promise startling disclosures within the next twenty-four hours.

All this, of course, is by way of being a snappy prelude to the bald announcement that "The Bishop Murder Case," a Philo Vance story, is on display at Loew's State Theater, where it arrived, slightly out of breath, yesterday. As presented by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, it is neither the best nor the worst in this series of ingenious homicidal affairs which have made S. S. Van Dine what he is today—a writer of best sellers.

A collection of mysterious notes, each one signed "The Bishop," is the connecting link between one murder and another in this new film thriller. There is one other curious circumstance: the Mother Goose hook-up. Thus a chap named Robin, apparently slain with an arrow from an archery, is found stone dead on the lawn of Prof. Bertrand Dillard's old manse. And another chap, who is unfortunate enough to own the name of Sperling (Sparrow in German,) is promptly connected with the case. A little afterward, a youth known as John E. Sprigg receives a nasty blow on the crown, from which, like a certain other Jack, he never recovers. Similarly, a cripple who is so unwise as to perch himself atop a parapet, like Humpty-Dumpty . . . Yes, bless you, that's the idea exactly.

"The Bishop Murder Case," which for some reason required two directors—possibly to keep a double check on the fatalities—is almost entirely mental. I won't go so far as to say cerebral, that being a serious charge to bring against any movie; but the point is that this type of circuitous dialogue picture, without rating as anything at all in the line of action, still manages to work up an interest that no other type of circuitous dialogue picture ever could. This would seem to indicate something.

Basil Rathbone is the new (to the screen) Philo Vance, the former incumbent, William Powell, having temporarily forsaken law and order for a life of cinematic crime. Mr. Rathbone's repression seemed to me a little more unnerving than Mr. Powell's, although I distinctly saw him start once. At any rate, the present interpretation is consistent and convincing, which is all you can ask.

In the large cast, Leila Hyams, Roland Young, Alec B. Francis, Clarence Geldert, James Donlan and Bodil Rosing are the principal ones who are allowed to keep their health—no mean accomplishment—from fade-in to fade-out. Capable enough, in brief glimpses before the Grim Reaper prods them on, are George Marion, Carroll Nye, Charles Quartermaine and Zelda Sears.

Two new directors were Nick Grinde and David Burton and the adapter, Leonore Coffee.

Fanchon and Marco's "Marble" Idea boasts rather exceptional singing talent in Roy Smoot and Francia, Francia being a young miss of charm and an ease with soaring notes. The Hans Trio revives adagio dancing with some success, and there are Al and Jack Rand, Georgene and Henry, and Fiobelle and Charlie as well. A word, too, for the chorus, which rolled with surprising agility all over the boards, balancing on top of imitation marble balls.

Loew's State is showing two news reels.

Local Premiere of Grandeur to be Gala Event

With the gala premiere of "Happy Days," talking motion picture in Grandeur, still more than a week away, the last tickets are being eagerly sought at the Carthay Circle Theater. Ticket speculation was entirely eliminated in the sale, it is said, because practically every person purchasing was known by sight or hearsay in social and motion-picture circles.

The giant screen has arrived from New York and is now being placed in position in the proscenium arch of the theater. Crews of artisans working nights for three days have at last succeeded in installing the large Grandeur machines in the projection laboratory. Rehearsals will start on Monday so that by the night of the premiere, the 28th inst., everything will be in readiness.

Dodge Sisters to Appear on Late Program

The Dodge Sisters, one of the featured star acts for tomorrow night's Hollywood midnight frolic at Grauman's Chinese Theater, in addition to the showing of Lawrence Tibbett in "Rogue Song," have already played before audiences half-way around the world.

The Dodge Twins were born in San Francisco but history records that they were discovered by a vaudeville agent in a Chicago dancing school and came west on a vaudeville tour, where they were taken over by Fanchon and Marco.

On the same bill will appear Catherine Dale Owen, who plays the leading feminine role opposite Lawrence Tibbett in "Rogue Song." Olive Borden, motion-picture star, will also appear.

MEDICINE CONSIDERED

Lola Lane, who is enacting the leading role of Patricia, a college widow, in "Good News" at M.-G.-M., almost took up the medical profession before entering motion pictures.

CONSERVATION CHIEFS NAMED

Water Basin Developers Form Organization

Committees Appointed to Carry on Survey

Move Indorsed by State and Local Chambers

Organization for the development of the Los Angeles basin ground water resource project, recently inaugurated by the Los Angeles County Conservation Association, was completed with the appointment yesterday of several overhead committees to direct survey activity, according to George H. Cecil, executive secretary of the conservation group. The project, which encompasses a survey of ground water conditions in the basin and their replenishment, has been indorsed by the State Chamber of Commerce, the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and accepted by a general meeting of all water-consuming units in the county.

The work in connection with the project has been divided into five main subjects and a committee appointed to consider each subject, according to Mr. Cecil. These committees are empowered to call in representatives from the larger cities and communities in an advisory capacity, thus building up county-wide interest and co-operation.

The committees are survey of water resources of the county, Frank Merriam, Long Beach, chairman; watershed protection, Harvey Bissel, La Crescenta, chairman; flood control and conservation of run-off, H. S. Gilman, San Dimas, chairman, and reclamation and re-use of sewage, H. I. Crusan, Los Angeles, chairman.

AD GRAFTER FINED IN ONTARIO COURT

ONTARIO, Feb. 20.—A recently announced campaign against advertising solicitors who "work" Ontario churches under the guise of religious workers, thus seeking to evade payment of license fees and exacting huge revenue from merchants by song-book or calendar schemes, has netted its first victim.

Police arrested E. J. Lindsey, 60 years of age, 1825 North Kingsley Drive, Los Angeles, and fined him $10. It is charged Lindsey was selling space on a "church" calendar without first having secured a city license.

TWO KILLED IN ACCIDENTS

Girl Leaning from Bus Window Crushed by Pole; Woman Struck by Truck Succumbs

Two deaths resulted from traffic accidents yesterday, a third victim was reported probably fatally injured, and five others were injured seriously. One of the fatality victims was a high-school girl who was killed instantly, the other an elderly woman, who died shortly after being struck by an automobile.

The girl was Margaret Gruner, 15 years of age, of Maple avenue, Hynes, who was killed at Sixty-first street and Walnut avenue, Long Beach. Riding home from Compton Union High School, she leaned from a window of the school bus to call to a friend who had alighted. Her skull was crushed between the bus and a telephone pole.

Mrs. Fannie Potter, 75, of 127½ West Twenty-seventh street, was crushed by a motor truck and died a few hours later in Georgia-street Receiving Hospital. According to police report, she stepped from behind a parked car at Main and Twenty-seventh streets, walking in front of a light truck driven by William C. Coffin, 18, of 324 West Seventeenth street. Both of her legs were broken and she received internal injuries and concussion of the brain.

A messenger boy was probably fatally injured and two women were seriously hurt as the result of automobiles skidding on wet streets yesterday morning.

William Wilson, 18, messenger boy, of 232½ West Fifty-ninth Place, suffered a possible skull fracture when the motorcycle he was riding skidded into an automobile driven by J. C. Kline of 406 West Fifty-third street at Broadway and Fifty-third street. He was given emergency treatment at the Receiving Hospital and then sent to the Roosevelt Hospital.

When the left wheels of an automobile driven by Dallas Crane of 3827 Naomi street, caught in a street-car track and caused the machine to skid suddenly to one side, Mrs. Elenore Powell, 42, of 4015 Marmion Way, and Miss Winnifred Thomas, 40, of 901 Coronado Drive, Glendale, were struck down. Both were treated at the Receiving Hospital for concussion of the brain and severe bruises. The accident occurred at Washington and Estrella streets. The machine, police stated, struck the women broadside as it skidded.

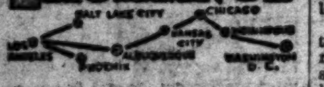
Junior Durden, 23, of 1470 East Fifty-third street, received a skull fracture, a broken collar bone and possible internal injuries at Eighteenth street and Central avenue.

Johnnie Nicholson, 15, 522 Pacific street, Baldwin Park, is in a serious condition at the Covina Hospital as the result of injuries suffered in a traffic accident early yesterday morning at Pacific avenue and Vineland street, Baldwin Park.

Suffering from less serious injuries and expected to recover, Marian Smith, 19, 451 East Badilla street, Covina, also was in the hospital.

A hit-and-run motorist last night knocked down W. B. McIntosh, 15 years of age, of 577 Central avenue, at the corner of Central avenue and Twelfth street. McIntosh's left leg was shattered. He was taken to the Georgia-street Receiving Hospital.

AIRPLANE NEWS EXCHANGE



(Not all the interesting and out-of-the-ordinary news of the day finds a place on crowded wires or waves. Every evening The Times conducts a news exchange by airplane. By Western Air Express, T.A.T. and Standard Lines papers of current and yesterdate from pivotal cities are received. Washington, D. C., contributes the Star only two days from the press; Indianapolis and Chicago, thirty-six hours; Kansas City, Salt Lake City and Phoenix are just halfway 'round the clock. Today's gleanings range in subject from an account of Washington (D. C.) police hunting an animal believed to be a lion in the suburbs, to the story of the man who had extreme difficulty in getting a car started in Salt Lake City.)

PREHISTORIC CANALS

(Phoenix (Ariz.) Republican, Feb. 20)

Dr. Ernest Stevens, noted scientific research worker, inventor, author and lecturer, arrived in Phoenix yesterday for a brief visit here to investigate the Salt River Valley's prehistoric ruins and canals.

Dr. Stevens, member of the National Association for the Advancement of Science and many other similar organizations, maintains headquarters both in San Francisco and in Washington, D. C.

BUDGES BULGED

(Chicago Tribune, Feb. 19)

Willis Budges, 35-year-old negro was overtaken by a police squad last night at Fifty-third street and Cottage Grove avenue.

"You're all puffed out—what's the matter, boy?" asked Sergt. Maynard, who had noted odd bulges under the negro's overcoat above the knees.

"Just cramps, boss. My legs hurt and I got them bandaged," Budges tried to explain. But Sergt. Maynard made a swift search and drew a rubber hot water bottle out of each leg of the negro's trousers. Each bottle contained a quart of moonshine.

MAY BE SOCIAL LION

(Washington (D. C.) Star, Feb. 18)

A hunt for the panther, or mountain lion, which for the past ten days has terrorized the suburban section of Northeast Washington, was started in earnest today, as Capt. Charles T. Peck of the eleventh precinct called upon W. E. Crouch, acting chief of the predatory animal control division of the Department of Agriculture, to furnish traps and an expert in mountain lion hunting, to rid the section of the beast. At the same time the captain issued a warning to all residents of the section to stay within doors at night and go their way carefully in the daytime.

AND DOG BISCUITS

(Kansas City Times, Feb. 20)

The aristocratic fox hounds of the Mission Valley Hunt Club tomorrow afternoon are going to answer a call to public service.

The dogs may find their task a little unpleasant. Accustomed to seeking only the elusive fox, or at least a scent of a fox, the dogs are going to seek the lowly coyote.

The hunt is a result of complaints made by farmers in the vicinity of the club that coyotes have been stealing their sheep and chickens, the notices of the hunt state.

Tea will be served at the clubhouse after the hunt.

BUT DID IT START?

(Salt Lake Tribune, Feb. 20)

At first it was because of the cold that Rudolph Wipprecht had trouble with his automobile Tuesday evening. Later, it was on account of the heat.

While Mr. Wipprecht was endeavoring to get the machine started a short circuit occurred and set fire to grease and oil in the engine pan. The blaze was extinguished without loss, however, by the time firemen arrived a few minutes later.

ATTEMPT TO MURDER PHYSICIAN CHARGED

Henry T. O'Kelly, 129 North Dangler street, Belvedere Gardens, is in the County Jail on charges of assault to commit murder on his former family physician, Dr. Leo Tavera, 1211 Ingraham street, while Dr. Tavera was visiting a patient at the home of Eugene Ayala, 4650 Reggan street, Belvedere. O'Kelly is asserted to have gone to the Ayala home with a shotgun. Ayala met him at the door and O'Kelly is asserted to have struck him on the head with the butt of the gun. Ayala was treated at the Belvedere Health Center. Dr. Tavera was not injured in the fight. He denied that O'Kelly had cause for a grievance against him.

DEATH TAKES FORMER IOWA MASONIC LEADER

C. W. Walton, 59 years of age, former Grand Master of Masons for Iowa and former Grand Commander of the Iowa Knights Templar, died at his Glendale home, 432 North Jackson street, yesterday afternoon. Funeral services will be conducted next Wednesday in Mr. Walton's former home city, Dubuque, Iowa. He was born in Whiteash, Wis., and came to Glendale from Dubuque six months ago. He leaves his widow, Clara B. Walton, and two sons, C. W. Walton, Jr., and J. H. Walton, all of Glendale.

Vow to Lure Husband Away Charged in Deposition

Statement of Goodwillie on Death Bed Presented

Whether Mrs. Paul Marshall, formerly Mrs. Julia LaGue, stole the love of Willis L. Goodwillie, shoe salesman, and should pay his widow, Mrs. Della H. Goodwillie, the sum of $40,000 for alienating his affections, will probably be decided by a jury in the court of Superior Judge Archbald some time today. Closing arguments will be made this morning.

That Mrs. Marshall declared she was going to make it her busniess to separate Mr. and Mrs. Goodwillie was the substance of a deposition signed by Mrs. Fannie E. Mickle, which was introduced yesterday during the closing hours of the trial.

Mrs. Marshall took the witness stand yesterday and denied the charge in the deposition.

A statement said to have been signed by Goodwillie was also introduced by the defense, dated February 23, 1928, which read:

"I, the undersigned, will not give my consent to enter a hospital regardless of my condition during my illness. And, furthermore, I will stay at 1541 Cassil Place under the supervision of Mrs. J. A. McGue, my nurse, and will not be removed unless she can be with me constantly. All I own is hers—signed, W. L. Goodwillie."

Anthony L. Dunphy took the witness stand and declared that Goodwillie was apparently in a normal mental condition when he signed the statement.

LOKRANTZ'S WORK WINS DECORATION

Medical Director of City Schools Honored by King of Sweden for Clinic

Dr. Sven Lokrantz, medical director of Los Angeles city schools, has received a decoration from the King of Sweden on account of his health work for the children of California and in a lesser degree for the children of Sweden. The decoration is Knighthood of the Royal Order of Vasa, First Class, which has been given to only a few men in this country.

Dr. Lokrantz, who is now an American, came to the United States as a young man at the age of 18 years. He was born in Stockholm, Sweden. Some time ago Dr. Lokrantz was partly instrumental in sending an ambulatory clinic to the needy children of Northern Sweden. Similar clinics were invented by Dr. Lokrantz for Los Angeles children.

G. W. Olson, superintendent of the California Hospital, has been requested by the Swedish Embassy to present the decoration to Dr. Lokrantz.

JUDGE HAS TO WORK IN WEE SMA' HOURS

Superior Judge Gates

Because Superior Judge Gates had to make a speech before a church brotherhood the night before, there was afforded yesterday the curious spectacle of a judge working studiously in his office at the unusual hour of 6 a.m.

The case that caused such remarkable juridical activity was that of William La Margis vs. George England and others. The plaintiff was asking an injunction against the drilling of an oil well in the Inglewood field, and England's attorneys set up the contention that damages to the plaintiff are slight and can be compensated by payments, but that if work on the well is interrupted some offset well might tap the sand first.

As there were seventy-five affidavits to be read, Judge Gates had asked the day before for two days in which to decide the issues, but counsel on both sides insisted on an immediate decision. So, after the session at the brotherhood, Judge Gates went to work, and, by his own account, labored far into the early morning hours, and was at the Courthouse by 7 o'clock to dictate his decision. The elevators weren't running, so Judge Gates had to walk up seven flights of stairs.

The court decided the plaintiff is not entitled to a preliminary injunction because of a sharp conflict in testimony, and that damages to plaintiff, if any, will be slight.

The court also held that an oil well located in a sparsely settled neighborhood is not a nuisance. Attorney Francis D. Adams appeared for the plaintiffs and the defendants were represented by Clyde Woodworth and Mathonihah Thomas.

Old Southland Fallacy Blasted

Popular belief that California once was a desert waste and that it is a man-made region was branded as false by W. S. Rosecrans, addressing members of the Municipal League, following a dinner at the City Club last night. In his talk, which was illustrated with stereoscopic charts, the speaker pointed out that the Southland was a fertile area long before the first white man came. The danger is, he declared, that it may become an arid region unless its water supply is guarded and developed as the population continues to increase.

Several papers were read by members and modern methods of sewage disposal were discussed by Willis T. Knowlton, representing the City Engineer's office.

BANDIT SOUGHT AFTER HOLDING UP COUPLE

Sheriff's office investigators yesterday were searching for a bandit who held up and robbed J. C. Burrell, 233 El Camino Real, Hermosa Beach, and Marie Horn, Redondo Villa, last Wednesday night near Overhill Drive in Inglewood. After ordering Burrell out of the automobile in which he and his companion were sitting, the bandit took the automobile keys, $4.50 from Burrell's pocket, marched his victim about 200 yards away, released him and escaped in the darkness. While Burrell was being taken away Miss Horn ran to a near-by telephone and notified Inglewood police.

MUNICIPAL BUSSES GO FAR

SOUTH GATE, Feb. 20.—Municipal busses here during the month of January traveled a total distance of 46,391 miles and carried 79,355 passengers, according to E. R. Adams, bus superintendent. The receipts for the month totaled $4155.70.

Membership in the Irish Aero Club of Belfast is growing rapidly and other clubs may soon be established in other cities of Ireland.

PUGS SIP TEA WITH SOCIETY

Upper Crust in Ballyhoo as 600 Millionaires Fear Scott-Sharkey Loss

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

WEST PALM BEACH (Fla.) Feb. 20. (Exclusive) — Society had the lower classes in to tea at the Oasis Club in Palm Beach this afternoon and the Madison Square Garden Corporation correspondent, Fainting Phil Scott, up from Miami to ordain the occasion. This was very good for the ballyhoo for the impending prize fight in Miami between Fainting Philip and Jack Sharkey, which has not been commanding as much space in the newspapers of the large northern cities as the 600 millionaires had learned to expect for their business enterprise.

PHIL SCOTT

Not only Fainting Philip but three of his sparring partners, Charlie Hahn, Jack Renault and Jack De Mave, his manager, James J. Johnston, three official press agents of the garden firm, about a dozen imported sport writers and fifteen photographers came along in the ballyhoo party from Miami, including among the latter Mr. Izzy Kaplan of Keyne, who turned down the anchovies when they were passed, saying "I don't like that stuff; have you got any herring?"

JIM BRADER TO MENTOR BRUINS

Westwood School Signs New Grid Line Coach

Former Wisconsin Star to Help Bill Spaulding

Has Great Record at Harvard and in Midwest

Jim Brader, formerly line coach at the University of Wisconsin and at Harvard, is now on the coaching staff at the University of California at Los Angeles, according to an announcement made yesterday afternoon by Steve Cunningham, graduate manager. Brader will take charge of the line along with Hugh McDonald, and will work directly under Head Coach Bill Spaulding.

JIM BRADER

Brader will report for work immediately and will help "Bunker Bill" Spaulding conduct spring football practice starting next week. Cunningham stated that the new coach is strictly to be considered as an addition to the staff and not a replacement of someone else. Brader is one of three assistants to Spaulding, the other two being A. J. Sturzenegger, backfield mentor, and McDonald. He was given a year's contract at an unstated salary and will probably be given a long-term contract if the arrangement is satisfactory.

Under the present arrangements of Coach Spaulding, practice next fall will see the tackles, guards and centers under the supervision of Brader and McDonald, with Sturzenegger handling the ends and backfield men. Spaulding will be general supervisor and tactician.

The new coach played four years of football for the University of Wisconsin before becoming line coach there. In 1918 he played end, in 1919 tackle, in 1920 guard and in 1921 tackle again, qualifying him to serve as line mentor. He was head line coach for the Badgers in 1922, 1923 and 1925, being in business in Los Angeles in 1924. In 1926 he was line coach and head assistant to Arnold Horween at Harvard. After the season of 1926 Brader came to Los Angeles, where he has since been employed by the New York Life Insurance Company, along with such other notables as Calvin Coolidge.

In connection with the insurance business Brader has kept contact with intercollegiate football by serving as an official in a number of games for the Pacific Coast conference.

ACE OF TROY'S QUINTET

Here's Jess Mortensen, hard-working University of Southern California basketball star, who goes into action against U.C.L.A. at the Olympic tomorrow night. Jess played halfback on the S.C. eleven and is captain of the 1930 track team.

FOUR CAGERS END CAREERS

Trojans and Bruins Lose Stars in Capt. Lehners, Mortensen, Capt. Wilds and Shy

BY BRAVEN DYER

Tomorrow night's basketball finale between Southern California and U.C.L.A. will mark the passing of four great players, all of whom have performed brilliantly for their respective teams during the past three seasons.

The athletes who are winding up their respective varsity careers are Capt. Johnny Lehners and Jess Mortensen of the Trojans and Capt. Larry Wilds and Carl Shy of the Bruins. Of course, if Southern California wins the southern division title, Lehners and Mortensen will be seen in action again in the series with Washington here.

CARL SHY

Lehners came to Southern California from Hollywood High School and has been a fine guard and an excellent point-getter. His long shots from midfloor have provided local fans with no end of thrills throughout the past three years. In addition to being a great basketball player, Johnny is one of the best-liked athletes attending Southern California.

So much has been written of Mortensen that anything which might be added here merely comes under the head of repetition. Jess came to Troy from Arizona and has displayed his all-around ability by performing as a track, football and basketball star for three years. In addition he is a corking baseball player. What Mortensen means to the basketball team is shown by the disclosure that the squad has not lost a game since he appeared in the line-up. Jess rarely is high-point man, but his passing, dribbling and general all-around usefulness make him invaluable. He and Lehners have both been named on official all-Coast teams in the past. Mortensen and Verne Corbin, California center last year, are, to my way of thinking, two of the greatest basketball players the Coast ever had.

Capt. Wilds of the Bruins has a habit of scoring anywhere from 10 to 25 points a game. He is an excellent shot and an expert dribbler. Larry hails from Long Beach. Of late he has been in a terrible slump, but it is likely that hard-working Larry will regain his old-time form

FIELDS, CORBETT READY FOR BOUT

Welter Champion and Fresno Boy Wind Up Grind

Jackie Takes Things Easy in Final Workout

Title-holder 2-to-1 Shot to Capture Verdict

BY RUSSELL J. NEWLAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20. (AP)—Jackie Fields, welterweight champion, and Young Corbett, clever Fresno southpaw, completed training grinds today for their ten-round non-title bout here Saturday afternoon.

YOUNG CORBETT III

Six-round workouts featured the final heavy duty sessions of the pair. Corbett, although practically down to the weight he has agreed to make, set a livelier pace with his three ring partners than did Fields. The Fresnan cuffed his opponents around at will to demonstrate he is in fine fettle for the most important fight of his career.

Fields, taking things somewhat easy, nevertheless impressed a large gallery at the Royal Gymnasium with his speed and punching accuracy.

While Corbett has a large following, both locally and in Fresno, those who back their opinions with money favor the title-holder by odds of 2 to 1.

With fair weather probable for the outdoor tilt at the baseball park, the ticket sale underwent a brisk movement again today with the result that Promoter Ancil Hoffman counted $30,000 as the advance gate. On the theory that the bleacher tickets, a $2.00 and $3.00 allottment to be put on sale the day of the fight, are a certain sellout, Hoffman says a $55,000 gate is assured to date. Between now and Saturday he expects to dispose of enough more pasteboards to reach a total figure of $65,000.

Whatever the size of the gate, there will be no shortage of seats as the park can accommodate around 27,000 persons. Fans are coming from as far south as Los Angeles for the bout, which has been in the making for a year and a half. Fields had hitherto declined to meet Corbett, on the grounds of his unorthodox style, but a $25,000 guarantee induced him to change his mind.

Physically, there will be but little difference in the pair. Fields is two years younger and will have a slight height and reach advantage.

Calamity Jane Costs Robert New Course Record

BY DILLON L. GRAHAM
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAVANNAH (Ga.) Feb. 20. (AP)—Blazing a par-shattering trail in his first tournament play of the year, Bobby Jones of Atlanta, national open champion, shot a 67 here today to lead the field of ninety starters at the end of the first round of the seventy-two-hole $3000 open golf tournament. Jones's mark was seven under standard figures.

BOBBY JONES

The Atlanta lawyer-golfer thrilled a gallery of several hundred as he stroked his way around the outward nine in 32, 5 under par, and came back in 35, collecting nine birdies on the round.

Bobby's drives were long and straight and his approach shots were accurate, but his putting was not up to the usual Jones standard. "Calamity Jane," known throughout the golfing world as Jones's putter, needed three strokes on one green before the ball could find the cup.

A single stroke behind the leader were Emmett French of Southern Pines, N. C., and Jeff Adams, Scotch professional at the local club.

DELANEY AND SIGAFOOS SIGN ANGEL CONTRACTS

BY BOB RAY

Two more Seraphs deserted the hold-out ranks yesterday, when Art Delaney and Frank Sigafoos, a couple of Angel additions since last fall, came into the fold and signed their 1930 contracts.

JOE PATRICK

Delany, the hurler secured from Boston in the Berger deal arrived here yesterday from Oakland and announced that he was already to begin work when the Angel pitchers and catchers report to Skipper Jack Lelivelt for spring training at Wrigley Field Monday morning.

Sigafoos sent in his signed contract from Portland with the announcement that he was glad to be with the Angels this year and hoped to have a great season. Lelivelt is counting on Siggy to be the regular second-sacker for the Seraphs this year.

The signing of Sigafoos and Delaney leaves George Harper, the hard-hitting outfielder secured from the Braves along with Delaney, and Catcher Bill Skiff the only Cherub hold-outs. Harper is holding out for an $8500 salary, which the Angel management claims is too much dough for a club in this league to pay.

Skiff, who was purchased from Jersey City after Gus Sandberg's untimely death, is balking at playing in the Coast League for the same salary he received last year in the international loop.

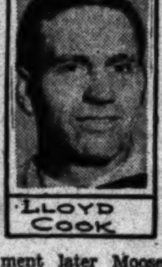
However, Joe Patrick, the Seraph prexy, says that the next move is up to Harper and Skiff because he's offered them all the dough they're going to get from the Los Angeles club. They can take it or leave it and go to work, says Patrick.

BAY CITY SKATERS WIN

San Francisco Tigers Defeat Hollywood in Fast and Furious Battle by 3-2 Score

Despite a last period rally turned in by the Hollywood Millionaires the San Francisco Tigers edged out a 3-to-2 win last night at the Winter Garden Ice Palace.

The game developed into a wild affair in the last session with Hollywood battling badly to overcome a 2-to-0 lead that the Bay City team had chalked up in the opening periods.



LLOYD COOK

Lefty Comber started the action in the third period by smashing a goal across for Hollywood, making the score 2 to 1. Then Kwansnie of San Francisco scored for the San Francisco team. A moment later Moose Johnson came through with a goal for Hollywood and it seemed as though the game was going to be tied when time was called.

Comber made his goal while standing almost on his head. Moose Johnson scored his after a collision with Walter Broadfoot, the Bay City goalie. Johnson was lying on his tummy when he sent the puck into the net. Broadfoot saved the San Francisco team a half-dozen times in the last five minutes of play with great playing around the net.

The Tigers jumped into a 2-goal lead in the first period on shots made by Ganton Scott and Art Giroux. Carrigan, the Hollywood goalie, let the puck go through his legs twice for the goals. Scott made his goal on a pass from Ellis. Giroux tallied his on a pass from Lloyd Cook.

There was no scoring in the second period, but the going was rather hectic with the Millionaires on the offense and the San Francisco players battling to keep their 2-goal advantage.

Fred Sturdy is Due Here Next Monday

Southern California Enters Formidable Relay Teams in Annual A.A.U. Relay Carni

TROJANS BOAST FULL STRENGTH

Vie With Mercuries in Meet at Long Beach

S.C. Parades Brilliant Array of Field Talent

Webb Lost to Occidental for Undetermined Period

FRANK WYKOFF

University of Southern California's track and field squad, favored to battle it out with the strong Los Angeles Athletic Club team for top honors in the A.A.U. relay carnival, the first meet of the season to be held at Long Beach Poly High tomorrow will enter some formidable relay quartettes and a variety of performers in the field events in the big cinder show. Announcement of the Trojan entries in the A.A.U. championships was made yesterday by Coach Dean Cromwell.

Trojan relay teams will be as follows with the men named in the order in which they will run.

440-yard relay—Milton Maurer, Maurice Guyer, Weldon Draper, Frank Wykoff.

Mile relay—Art Woessner, Vic Williams, Gerald Pearsen, Wakefield Burke.

2-mile relay—First team, Jesse Cook, Ellsworth Patterson, Lee Hansen, Bill McGeagh; second team, Chris Daniels, Bill Mainland, Bill Horton, Bob Swede.

4-mile relay—Cliff Halstead, Vic Fitzmaurice, George Cuthbert, Chesley Unruh.

Trojan entries in the individual races will be as follows:

100-yard dash, novice—Carls, Paul, Lloyd Colton, Anderson; high hurdles, novice—Al Vignolo, John Moffatt; high hurdles, open—Welsh.

Unattached entries made up of athletes now attending S.C. will be the following: Novice 100—Wayne Blackburn, Thomas Kuchel, William Martin, Howard Said; novice hurdles—Joe Bills, Stanley Stokes, Eugene Roberts.

Trojan varsity men and S.C. students competing unattached in the field events will be as follows:

Pole vault—Bill Livingston, Malcolm Harris, Harold Mitchell, Pete Chientzes, Bill Hubbard (Un.)

High jump—Bob Van Osdel, Herman Hill, Ivan Norcross, Theophilus Smith (Un.,) Duncan MacNaughton (Un.)

Broad jump—Dick Barber, Oliver Cerrie, Paul Van Riper, James Stocks, Duncan Powers, Carlington Cain (Un.)

Shot put and discus throw—Bob Hall, Jim Stewart, Sam Kline, Bill Bradbury, Dick Van Vliet (discus only,) Jay Cox (Un.)

Javelin—Stocks, Blanchard Beatty, Carl Peterson (Un.) Jim Snider (Un.)

Southern California's team will be present at the meet with practically its full strength. Lee Bastajian, quarter-miler, will be out of the mile relay; Cecil Schnelle will be out of the novice 100, and Bert Ritchey will be out of the novice hurdles because of leg muscle injuries received during the past week. Paul, sophomore broad jump star last year, is not yet ready to extend himself in his favorite event, and will confine himself to sprinting, while Stewart will stick to the weights and pass up the high jump. With these exceptions, S.C.'s team will be in every event in full force.

Bear Frosh Runners in First Meet

BERKELEY, Feb. 20. (Exclusive)—Although rain has interfered somewhat this week with training, Coach Walter Christie will put his freshman track team at the University of California through the first competition of the season on Saturday afternoon with Bank of Italy cinder artists offering the opposition. Aside from the frosh battles, the varsity will be seen in interteam competition in every event except the two-mile. Christie lost one fine frosh contender this week when Jack Luthin, quartermiler, was held ineligible.

OXY ATHLETE STRAINS SOME OF HIS MUSCLES

Occidental track hopes received a jolt yesterday afternoon when it became known that Harold Webb, star hurdler and weight man, will be laid up with strained muscles for an indefinite time. Webb pulled some muscles in the L.A.A.C. meet last Saturday which were not thought to be serious till he reported for practice Thursday after a rest, when it was found that he may not be able to compete till the Pomona meet, according to Coach Pipal.

The Tiger coach announced yesterday that he had completed his tryouts for the A.A.U. relay carnival at Poly High School tomorrow and will run Bailey, McKee, Appleton and Crawford in the order named in the two-mile event, Southern Conference class. With these four stellar half-milers, Occidental is favored to run away with this contest. In the mile relay, Pipal will lay his chances on Dick Fairbanks, Entwhistle or Nord, Richert and Johnny Walker.

If the mile and half-mile relays are too close together, it is probable that Walker will not run in the latter race, but that Wendall Smith will run the second furlong instead. Eggers will lead off, and Capt. Appleton will pass the baton to Cecil Howard, running as anchor man. The Tigers have a good chance to cop this race, too, but are doubtful regarding the four-lap grind.

for his varsity finale tomorrow night. Wilds lacks the rugged physique of Lehners or Mortensen, but is able to travel at top speed nevertheless.

Shy is one of the best guards in the business. Not only does he cover his own territory well, but Carl can go down the floor and shoot with the best of them. He was formerly a forward, which accounts for his dead-eye shots. Shy and Lehners played together at Hollywood High.

In addition to these men, Southern California will lose Henry Cano and Aaron Nibley, both regulars last year and members of the championship quintet of the season before that. Because he wanted to build for the future, Coach Sam Barry has kept Cano and Nibley on the bench much of the time this year, using two sophomores, Bill Pierce and Jack Gardner.

Tomorrow night's game is billed for the Olympic and will follow a preliminary tilt between frosh teams of the two institutions.

CHICAGO CUBS ARRIVE TODAY

Art Teachout and Malcolm Moss, and Third Baseman Lester Bell, who was acquired from the Braves. The rest of the team, with the exception of a few strays, will arrive on or before February 28.

Since Manager McCarthy issued a qualifying prediction at Buffalo and Chicago that the Cubs will win the National League pennant again, every one in the squad has taken him at his word, and baseball has not been a large topic of conversation on the westward journey.

JUNIOR OLYMPIC STARS IN MEET

Vane Baker and Jerry Deal to Show Stuff

Champions in Exhibitions at El Monte Today

First Demonstration of 1930 This Afternoon

BY BRAVEN DYER

JERRY DEAL

Vane Baker and Jerry Deal, Southern California's outstanding performers in the junior division of the Junior Olympic Games, will appear in an exhibition meet this afternoon at El Monte. The program is slated for 3 o'clock and will be held on the field of El Monte Union High School under the supervision of Coach Bernie Bergstrom and George Phelps, student executive for the El Monte institution.

The exhibition is the first of the 1930 season and will be followed by others in surrounding communities. Between them Baker and Deal will show the youngsters how to perform the five events on the Junior Olympic Games program. These are the seventy-five-yard dash, basketball throw, baseball throw, standing broad jump and chinning.

Baker was national junior champion last year, winning the title at Atlantic City, while Deal ran Vane a close second. Jerry is no longer eligible for competition, having passed the age limit, but Vane remains in the program. By winning the national crown last year, however, he automatically moves into the senior division this time.

Deal is a past master at the art of caging free throws and ought to give the kids an eyeful today, provided he has had time to practice of late. Baker is a shark at chinning, but may be somewhat handicapped by a wrist which he sprained recently while trying to crank the family chariot.

El Monte turned out several promising prospects last year and with additional experience and training some of the boys may be right up with the leaders this spring.

Junior Olympic Games manuals were recently sent to all athletic directors, teachers and principals interested in the program. One or two minor corrections are necessary in this edition. They are listed here for the benefit of those who may have been slightly misled by the erroneous information.

Under the heading, "Example of computing coefficients," the first line should include the date as 1919, rather than 1918. On the next page, first line, the date should be 1917 rather than 1916.

Boyd Comstock, director of the Junior Olympic Games for Southern California, recently completed a tour of several counties and will soon have a report to make on his trip. Right now Boyd is busy with the Los Angeles Athletic Club track team, which meets Stanford at Palo Alto one week from tomorrow.

Within a few weeks The Times will start a feature entitled "Junior Olympic Games Training Tips." This will serve to give those entered in the competition a constructive idea as to what they should be doing to prepare themselves for the coming meets. Sig Nylander, one of those most interested in the success of the program, has helped prepare a series of articles which will serve to keep all our young athletes properly posted on training activities.

Dutch Ruether Arrives Early at Tribe Camp

SAN CLEMENTE, Feb. 20.—This Spanish Village has gained a new citizen, W. H. Ruether, the hotel register revealed. "Who is this tall, quiet, easy-going chap?" asked the inquisitive. "That 'W. H.' business is what threw you off the trail," replied the old-time sport fan. "The chap you are talking about is 'Dutch' Ruether, famous left-hander, formerly with Cincinnati, Brooklyn, Missions and now with the Seattle Indians."

Ruether came to town yesterday, fishing tackle, golf clubs and pitcher's glove. He got in touch with Earl Kunz, another hurler, and then the Mayor, Thomas F. Murphine, took them down to the pier where arrangements were made for a deep-sea angling party. Later in the day Ernie Johnson, Tribe manager, drove over from Laguna. Arrangements were made for a golf match or two and plans outlined for a way to get Dutch into shape for the opening of the Pacific Coast League season.

Cliff Lee, outfielder, is expected next week. Dave Barbee, hit 'em from county to county Dave, Louie Almada, star uncovered in San Clement last year, and some of the other boys are expected to arrive before the camp gets started on March 3.

Kunz will hurl for Shell Oil on Sunday at Long Beach. Ruether says that he may help get in shape by hurling for the Dons a week from Sunday when the Spanish Village nine clashes with the Santa Ana Bears on the grassed field here.

RANCHO SAN CARLOS WINS POLO TILT, 8-6

DEL MONTE, Feb. 20. (AP)—Rancho San Carlos defeated Pebble Beach 8 to 6 in the first round of the all-American high-goal handicap polo tournament at Del Monte today. The game was closely contested, with Pebble Beach coming from behind in the sixth chukker to reduce a five-goal lead taken by San Carlos.

RABBIT PUNCHES

By PAUL LOWRY

WELCOME TO THE CUBS

THESE are happy days for Mr. Will Wrigley, Jr., the Baron of Catalina Isle. His Chicago Cubs, champions of the National League last year, start arriving today, and from now until they shove off for the opening game in the East Mr. Wrigley will not be at a loss for time.

The Cubs are the pride and the joy of Mr. Wrigley's life, and even the wonderful scenery from the mansion on the hill at Avalon pales into insignificance by comparison.

Mr. Wrigley's Cubs won the National League pennant last year and lost out in the world's series to the Philadelphia Athletics—for various reasons.

There were some extenuating circumstances, to be sure, but Mr. Wrigley figures the "breaks" can't go against him all the time, and he is ready to risk the sun and whatnot in another world series.

Only his pitchers and catchers arrive today, with the rest of the gang slated for descent on Catalina a week later, but the pitchers and catchers can make or break the other, so what they do in the week's interim will be watched with interest by Mr. Wrigley.

Mr. Jim Cruisinberry, one of the real veteran baseball writers of the country, arrived here a couple of days in advance of the invading baseball horde, and reports that everything looks in for the Cubs.

Mr. Wrigley is always interested in these reports so there can be no harm in passing it on to him, marooned as he is on the magic isle with the dance hall of baseball ramps.

THE GLENDALE BLOND

MR. PROMOTER LUIGI DARO rode up from Glendale yesterday to announce that it is all wrong to refer to Everett Marshall as the Iowa blond.

Mr. Promoter Daro insists that Marshall is now the blond of the "Fastest Growing City."

According to Mr. Daro there was a time when Marshall was an Iowa blond, having attended college in one of the precincts there, but that he is at present one of the real native sons of Glendale.

This is just another link in the chain of evidence revealing Mr. Promoter Daro as one of the paid emissaries of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Daro denies the accusation, and says he boosts Glendale not only because he is a citizen of the fair community but because it is a sweet place and he loves all the people who live in it.

However, Mr. Promoter Daro is also sweet on Los Angeles, where he does an occasional bit of promoting, and although he is reducing his waist line his chest is puffing out at a perfectly alarming rate.

Mr. Daro reported that his rasslin' show the other night drew $12,500 in gate receipts while the evening previous the fights registered something like $6300.

And then Mr. Daro let out another kink.

A MODERN MIRACLE?

"VENTURA (Cal.) Feb. 18, 1930.

"To The Sport Editor,
"Dear Sir:

"I Am Making plans to walk over the ocean from Santa Barbara Cal. To your Los Angeles Harbor.

"Now the reason I am writing to is to see what kind of support I could get. If I can make the trip like I think I can, why it will be the only kind in recor as far as distance. It must be about 100 miles.

"I Have plan to start the walking on March the 15th, 1930. It will take me all that time to get my legs in shape, and also gettin uste to the water. Now I wish to hear from you as soon as posible and what you think of it."

"You can greatly help by spelling a few chosen words editorially about these kids of 50 and over sending in entries from all over this continent. Two came from Manila yesterday.

"One kid of 78 has entered—and will play through.

"They will organize into a sectional body at a dinner at the club Tuesday evening.

"Thank you, Paul.

"Aye yours,

Port o' Play Wins Race at Agua Caliente

AGUA CALIENTE (Mex.) Feb. 20. Outgaming Russet in a grueling stretch drive Port O' Play, carrying the silks of R. C. Thatcher, annexed the feature race on today's program, a one and one-sixteenth miles heat that attracted seven starters. With Jockey Herman Schutte at the controls, Port O' Play raced gamely through the final quarter and drew on even terms with Mrs. Donley's Russet in the last eighth to win by a nose. Dubric, owned by J. McNamara, was third, finishing with a rush. The time was 1:46 3-5.

The running of the headliner was spoiled by a very bad start. Home James broke through the barrier, threw his rider, Tony Greco, and half-wheeled when the field finally was sent away. Home James, the public favorite, was last, although he raced into contention. The results:

First race, six furlongs: Hawes (Redding,) won; Rolling Star (Greco,) second; Pelaika (Bertchy,) third. Time, 1:13 1-5.

Second race, six furlongs—Brunswick (Cleverley,) won; Forrona (Romano,) second; Thrace (Redding,) third. Time, 1:12 4-5.

Third race, three furlongs—Sun Dot (Trivett,) won; Sun Thorn (Coltiletti,) second; Tarpaulin (Morrison,) third. Time, 0:35 3-5.

Fourth race, one and one-sixteenth miles—Wizardry (Redding,) won; Kavanaugh (Cleverley,) second; Foreign Club (Teasdale,) third. Time, 1:46 4-5.

Fifth race, one and one-sixteenth miles—Port O' Play (Schutte,) won; Russet (Redding,) second; Dubric (Romano,) third. Time, 1:46 3-5.

Sixth race, six furlongs—Glad Effort (Romano,) won; Geo. Groom (Puttrich,) second; Flying Torch (Richardson,) third. Time, 1:12 2-5.

Seventh race, one and one-eighth miles—Bluefish (Barrett,) won; Alabama Bound (May,) second; Clermont, Jr., (Redding,) third. Time, 1:54 3-5.

Glen Bowers copped a decision from Louis Medina in a four-round affair. Jack Hurd kayoed Jack Dunseth in the first round of a scheduled four-round bout. Ray Gonzales scored a technical knockout over Joey Muto in the first round and Young Olsen won a four-round decision from Andy Palmer.

rounds with two unidentified men, and there was a four-round fight with the regulation combatant gloves between two boys giving their names as Red Hook and Billy Avery, at 126 pounds. Avery knocked Red Hook down twice in the fourth round and won the decision.

Fainting Philip had been invited to train in this exclusive environment as the guest of Neddy Hutton, who seems to be out to establish himself as the modern American equivalent of the English sporting duke of Tom Figg's time, and today's brief survey of the surroundings game him an opportunity to see just what he had missed in declining this bid.

Phil was introduced to the company by one Sir Oliver Duncan of England who began by saying that Phil was born in 1902, joined the British royal marines at the age of 17 and served with His Majesty's forces throughout the war. This was the first mention yet made of Philip's service with the colors, indicating that some one in the management had been guilty of an oversight, and emphasizing again the loss to the science of ballyhoo that occurred when Tex Rickard died.

SOCIETY PERSONS APPEAR

The society reporters of the regular Palm Beach run were very cordial to the chaps from the sports departments and sat at tea tables with them in the rear of the crowd pointing out one person and another and telling what kind of soap or breakfast food their fathers or deceased husbands manufactured, breaking into excited whispers now and again to point out some one as a genuine society person descended from the old regime. It seems that not all millionaires are regarded as society persons down here and vice versa.

Jules Bache, Anthony J. Drexel-Biddel, Jr., William S. Burden of Newport, James or John or whatever his name is, Raskob, the friend of Al Smith, Gen. Quincy A. Gilmore and Neddy Hutton were identified in the throng and these suggestions as to the sort of people who were present to watch Fainting Philip box will have to suffice because a full list of the millionaires would run to about 300 names including a great many that nobody ever heard of.

Neddy Hutton and Anthony J. Drexel-Biddel, Jr., are the principal promoters of the boxing teas at the Oasis Club, Mr. Hutton, the American sporting duke, has acquired a collection of prizefighters and his system of fighting them seems to be about the same as a millionaire horseman's plan of operating a racing stable. He has a manager who attends to their training and matchmaking and I suppose he takes his friends down to the Hyena house or whatever they call the fighters' stable, to feel their biceps and comment on their breathing and footwork muche the same as the millionaires at Belmont and Saratoga show their friends through the barns where their thoroughbreds are quartered.

Fainting Philip's boxing was not especially brilliant this afternoon but he may have been a bit winded in the rarified social atmosphere of the Oasis Club, which was relieved only by the presence of the photographers along a balcony, the sport writers at the rear tables and the sparring partners and press agents and his manager, Mr. Johnston, who is very versatile socially and at home in a saloon or salon as the case may be. Charlie Hahn, a short, rounded pugilist, swept in under Philip's extended left hand and swung his big wadded gloves at his center with great energy.

FRENCH BOXER HERE TODAY

Maurice Holtzer Due from Soper's Ranch for Go With Eddie Mack Tuesday Night

Maurice Holtzer will arrive here today from Soper's ranch to taper off for his ten-round bout with Eddie Mack. They meet Tuesday night at the Olympic.

"EDDIE" MACK

The French youngster has spent the last two weeks at Ojai, the camp that has become so popular among main eventers. Few of them have lost after working out in the mountain canyon. Fidel La Barba has gotten in better condition at the outdoor camp than he has ever been in his life. Dynamite Jackson trained at Soper's and he upset the 2-to-1 dope to beat Les Kennedy last Tuesday night.

The Olympic had hoped to book Armando Santiago, another Ojai product, for the March 4 date. But the little Cuban has been missing for several days and his absence is causing his manager, Frank Churchill, no little worry.

It was stated yesterday at the club that La Barba may take the open date. His opponent is not yet named. Fidel wants to to box about every third week. When work slacks down George Blake intends to move him East for the Kid Chocolate prospective New York gigantic.

Mack and Holtzer are both 100 per cent winners here. Mack has won five straight, three by knockouts. Holtzer has clicked off three victories here and one in San Francisco.

Holtzer is the first real infighter that Mack has tackled. The French boy has been fighting his opponents off their feet with a volley of inside fighting.

Matchmaker Wad Wadhams yesterday signed Joe Vargas, San Francisco middleweight, to box Pat Cunningham, winner of fourteen straight matches, for the six-round semi-wind-up under Mack and Holtzer.

The rest of the supporting card is Martin Zuniga vs. Johnny McDonald; Jimmy Mack vs. Billy Kane and Ora Smith vs. Mike Corrasco.

BRUIN TENNIS SQUAD TO MEET ALUMNI

Coach Bill Ackerman, tennis mentor at the University of California at Los Angeles, will test the quality of his 1930 Bruin net squad tomorrow when it plays a practice match with an alumni team at 2 o'clock on the Westwood courts. The frosh netters will play the Lincoln Park junior squad at 9 a.m. on the same courts.

The alumni squad is composed of Jack Olmstead, a graduate and now a professor at U.C.L.A. in the history department; Ron Smith, Frank Westsmith, Bob Stanford and Rod Houser. The Bruin varsity is headed by Capt. Leonard Dworkin, and composed of Cliff Robbins, captain of last year's yearling squad; Elbert Lewis, Bob Strubel, Orville Scholtz, Corgill Groves, Charles Faulkner, Max Keich, Bill Rowley, Clarence Whitaker, James Blackstone, Les Spencer, Gerald Boege and Leonard Tafe.

Fairley Clark, Savannah professional, in a tie for fourth place.

"Wild Bill" Mehlhorn of Pensacola, Fla., who scored an ace on the third hole of the outward journey, finished the round in seventh place with a 70. His hole-in-one allowed him to finish the first nine in 33, but par figures of 37 was the best he could do on the home nine.

Horton Smith, the links wizard from Detroit, Mich., formerly of Joplin, Mo., showed a card of 35-36—71. Bracketed with him at 71 were Mike Heany of Portsdam, N. Y.; Joe Turnesa of New York; Ernest Ryall of Augusta; Mike Turnesa of New York, and Al Espinosa, veteran from Chicago.

Ryall, a comparative unknown, furnished the main excitement of the outward nine, when he posted a card of 31, breaking the course record. However, he blew up on the home nine, shooting a 40.

FARRELL SHOOTS 72

Johnny Farrell of St. Augustine, former national open king and winner of the Pensacola open last week, headed five other professionals who were clustered at 72. Ed Dudley, whose home is in Savannah, but who registers from Wilmington, Del.; Herman Barron of Port Chester, N. Y.; Ed Schultz of Troy, N. Y., and Charles Gray of Augusta, all turned in cards of 72.

Ten exponents of golf for cash, including Whiffy Cox of Brooklyn, N. Y.; Lighthorse Harry Cooper, who is playing unattached, and August Nordone of Schenectady, N. Y., were together with 73's, while Ed Stokes of Denver and Arthur Gusa of Narragansett Pier, R. I., had par 74's.

Here's how Bobby shot the low score of the day:

LOAYZA SUED FOR DUCKING GLICK GO

NEW YORK, Feb. 20. (Exclusive) As an aftermath of the recent Al Singer-Stanislaus Loayza number at Madison Square Garden, Harry Alberts, manager of Joe Glick, has filed suit to recover $1500 from the New Haven club of which Al Weill is matchmaker.

Alberts asserts that there was nothing wrong with Loayza when he canceled his New Haven date with Glick last month and was booked for the Garden instead. Glick was to have been paid $1500 for the bout, says Alberts.

The Venice D team, however, turned the tables on the Sea Hawk paperweights, defeating them, 9 to 7, in a game that was hard and fast. The Class C game was a see-saw battle all the way. Beck of the winners and Robertson of the Gondolier five were the stars of the game.

Aerial Golfer Wins Unique Match in England

British Air Captain Scores 29 to Cop Battle

Charles (Chuck) Berdrow, youthful Fox Hills Country Club golfer, shot a 67 yesterday to lead qualifiers for the second annual Santa Monica midwinter golf championship, according to Manager George Basil.

Qualifying play, which started on Monday, will continue through Sunday. An entry of more than 200 is expected.

Phil Ayres, another youngster from the Los Angeles Country Club, is in second place with 73. Al Johnson and Oliver Slippy scored 76, while L. Perry Ferguson, Don Nittinger, Grif Bowner, Dutch Lee and M. H. Anderson shot 78.

Match play starts Monday with one round scheduled each week through the finals.

SONNING (Berkshire) Feb. 20. (AP)—Probably the freakiest golf match ever played in England—a match in which one competitor was in an airplane and the other on terra firma—resulted in a win for the aerial competitor over eighteen holes today by a score of 29 strokes to 69.

The victor was Capt. C. A. R. Pennington, commandant of the National Flying Service Airdrome at Reading. He vanquished A. J. Young, a local professional, whose 69, incidentally, is nine under bogey.

The task for Pennington was to find the green by dropping balls as he flew over the course in his machine. The balls were swathed with white cloth to insure nonbouncing when they struck the ground. Naturally he was not required to hole out as his opponent had to do.

In forty minutes the airman had completed the course in twenty-nine "strokes." On several of the greens he required only one shot. At the eighteenth his first ball fell on one of the cars of a London railway express train. At times he hovered as low as 100 feet, the lowest he could safely attempt.

The match was for £25 and was the outcome of a recent regulation match between the two men when Pennington, badly beaten, challenged his opponent to a round on today's lines in which, Young predicted, Pennington would not make it under 70. The airman was favored by an almost total absence of wind.

The Examiner maintained its lead in the newspaper interteam competition yesterday at the California Country Club by defeating the Express, 10 to 2. Darsie L. Darsie of the Express won two points from Neil Macdonald, but Maxwell Stiles won three points from Al Sisto, while John Connolly annexed three from Bill Barnett. At the present time the standings are as follows: Examiner, 26; Herald, 18½; Times, 11; and Express, 10½.

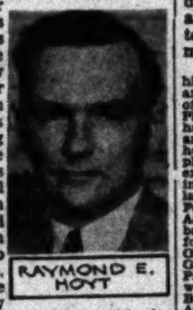
TENNIS PROJECT ADVANCES

Second Step in Plan to Establish Huge Net Center in Los Angeles is Taken by Committee

Marking the second step in the plan to establish a hugh tennis center in Los Angeles, consisting of forty-eight courts, a stadium, and auxiliary community recreation facilities, leaders of local tennis organizations and prominent citizens interested in advancing the sport decided to locate the project at Silver Lake reservoir, at a meeting held last night in teh offices of the playground and recreation department.



RAYMOND E. HOYT

The plan as now advanced is to secure the use of the upper end of the reservoir from the water department for the new tennis courts. This portion of the lake is now roofed over with wooden sheds and is used as filtering beds. The proposal calls for the removal of the wooden structure and the substitution of a thick slab of concrete, which would be supported by concrete pillars. There would be room for forty-eight courts on the surface thus formed, while the tennis stadium and other facilities would be located on adjoining land.

Last night's meeting of tennis notables also chose a name for the project, which as now planned would give this city one of the largest and most unique court layouts in the United States. Hereafter the proposed center will be called the Los Angeles Recreation Center at Silver Lake, East Hollywood. The playground and recreation department, which was represented at the meeting by Commissioners Robert S. Weaver and Harry Lamport, Superintendent-elect Raymond Hoyt, Secretary Charles Lamb and Municipal Sports Supervisor D. W. Lott, has lined up behind the plan and will have supervision of the center after completion.

From the standpoint of additional tennis facilities, the forty-eight courts are badly needed in Los Angeles, it was pointed out at the meeting. The stadium is also required for the holding of important tournaments, and also for the staging of the matches of the Olympic Games.

An additional feature of the plan of vital importance to local sports leaders was proposed last night when consideration was given to the possibility of building a huge swimming pool of Olympic Games dimensions in connection with the tennis stadium. A conference will be held with the Tenth Olympiad Committee to determine whether the original proposal to build an Olympic plunge in Exposition Park is still being considered, and, if not, whether the committee will consider the feasibility of locating the pool at the Silver Lake center. If this latter idea is adopted, the stadium would be built in such a way as to provide a gallery for both tennis tournaments and swimming meets.

The next move of the tennis moguls behind the project will be to consider ways and means of financing the construction of the mammoth recreation center. The Playground and Recreation Commission has been asked to prepare detailed plans and specifications which will show just how the courts and other features will be placed and their approximate cost. An executive committee to study the financing of the plan and other features was last night appointed as follows: Col. Eric Fowler, president of the Tennis Patrons Association, chairman; Simpson Sinsabaugh, president of the Southern California Tennis Association; William May Garland, president of the Tenth Olympic Games committee; Dr. Isaac Jones, Tennis Patrons Association; William Henry, Edward Dickson, Russel M. Taylor, Harold Braly, A. N. Kemp, Sidney Walles, E. Avery McCarthy and Richard Schweppe.

A publicity committee consisting of Maurice McLoughlin, former national tennis champion; Simpson Sinsabaugh, and Raymond E. Hoyt was named to enlist support for the project. Mayor Porter, Secretary Arnold of the Chamber of Commerce, and Chief Engineer Van Norman of the Water Department will be asked to become members of the executive committee. The next general meeting of the group will be on March 25.

INSURANCE FUNDS

Eastern money is the lowest rate money obtainable, as that is where the large concentration of wealth occurs. These funds must be invested in good securities such as real estate loans. That is our business.

Yes, we charge a commission. All mortgage companies do the same. The borrower can take his pencil and figure where he is ahead with our loan when he considers the rate he is paying for his money. Loans $5000 or more, 7%, no commission.

A property with a low rate loan is much more attractive to a buyer.

Telephone us the address of your property. A preliminary inspection will be made free of charge.
